VOL. XLIV. DECEMBER 14, 1889. No. 1,135.

The next issue of THE RECORD AND GUIDE (December 21st) will contain a special sixteen page Supplement devoted to illustrations of the Paris Exposition. It will be printed in colors on superfine paper, and in the preparation of the engravings and the press-work no expense has been spared. Among the illustrations will be pictures of the Argentine, Brazilian, Bolivian, Grecian and United States exhibits, Le Dome Central et les Fontaines, Entree de la Soierie, Palais des Beaux-Arts, the exterior of the Main Building, Palais du Cambodge, Kampong Javanais, Palais de l'Industrie, Pavilion des Aquarellistes, the Galerie d'Honneur, and several other views of the exteriors and the interiors of buildings. Single copies of the Supplement may be ordered from this office, No. 191 Broadway, or from newsdealers, or at the Elevated stands; price, 10 cents a copy. For subscribers wishing to send copies to their friends we will mail ten copies to any number of addresses upon receipt of $1.00. Advertisers who wish to avail themselves of the special opportunity which this number presents must secure space not later than Thursday, the 19th inst.

Partisan newspapers of the class of which the Tribune, the Sun, the Mail and Express are conspicuous examples, are of course merely exercising one of their functions by being partisan. In a sense they are expected to be more or less without fairness, reasonableness or intelligence in dealing with one-half of the political life of the nation, and without freedom, candor or discrimination in dealing with the other half. Of course there must be readers who find pleasure in thus having their political prejudices tickled every morning, and who would feel very much as the Puritan elder did when he was told that the devil was sometimes right, if they should read in their favorite "organ" anything commendatory of the "other side," otherwise there would be more newspapers than there are with opinions on political matters meriting the consideration of broad-minded people. The Evening Post has always affected to deal with politics according to a somewhat higher standard than that which is thoroughly pleasant to partisans. To an extent it has done so; but there are times, especially when politics can be associated with some person, when it would be difficulty to match the Post for rank prejudice and wilful one-sidedness.

An example of this is furnished by its attitude towards Postmaster General Wanamaker. From the hour this man's name was spoken of in connection with the office he now fills, the Post has assailed him as a hypocrite in religion and a money-made politician absolutely without any other idea in conducting one of the most important of the governmental departments than to make it subservient to the interests of his dry-goods store. The conception of Wanamaker as a cabinet officer that it sets with seriousness before its readers almost daily is simply burlesque. If the man contemplates a change in the rates of postage, or considers the advisability of establishing a postal express service, then he is planning so that samples and goods from the Chestnut street store may be distributed throughout the country cheaply. If he recommends the appointment of a Fourth Assistant-Postmaster-General his intention is to add to the staff of the Wanamakers; if he attends a cabinet meeting it is solely for the purpose of distributing samples from the Philadelphia bargain counter among his associates; in short, according to the Post, the man is a rank humbug, in Washington solely to hunt dollars for his shop.

On the face of it, the picture which the Post draws of Mr. Wanamaker is a broad caricature, which might be in place in a comic Democratic paper, but which is decidedly inappropriate to the columns of a serious journal. There is reason, no doubt, for thinking that Mr. Wanamaker obtained his position in the cabinet as a reward for assistance rendered to the Republican party in the last national campaign. But the same may be said practically of every Postmaster-General, Democratic and Republican, since Jackson, in 1829, raised the office to its present dignity. There is no reason why the present incumbent should be singled out for special attack on that score. So far as his qualifications to fill the position are concerned there was much to justify the appointment of Mr. Wanamaker.

If a lawyer is a proper person to appoint to the office of Secretary of the Navy, as in the case of Secretary Tracy, or as in the case of Mr. Whitney, no one should object to the selection of the head of one of the largest commercial enterprises in the world to conduct the Post-office Department. The hostility to Mr. Wanamaker because of his trade is in many respects like the hostility which W. H. Smith, the London newspaper distributor, encountered upon his appointment by Beaconsfield to the head of the Admiralty in England. Yet Mr. Smith proved to be one of the most efficient administrators that ever held the position, and we would not be surprised to find the same result in the case of Mr. Wanamaker.

The judgment of the public on most matters runs to extreme. Before the recent conflagration in Boston the popular faith in the virtues of the modern fire-proof building was unlimited. The disaster in Massachusetts is now widely regarded as evidence that the "absolutely fire-proof" building, of which so much has been said, does not exist. As to the buildings destroyed in Boston it may be said at once that not one of them was "fire-proof," in the sense that the term is used by architects and builders of repute, despite all that has been said to the contrary in highly-colored newspaper reports. As a matter of fact there are very few buildings in Boston to which the term fire-proof can properly be applied. Practically all those that can be described as such have been constructed within the last five years, and the buildings that were burned were at best built on the slow-combustion principle which is so popular in New England. An absolutely fire-proof building probably does not exist anywhere—that is, a building that could not, under any circumstances, be destroyed by fire. Stone will disintegrate when subjected to sufficient heat—such a degree of heat, indeed, as is often created in a large conflagration—and brick, even brick of good quality, will melt. The materials that will withstand extreme temperatures unimpaired are few, and none of them are used to the exclusion of all others, even in the vital parts of buildings that may justly be considered fire-proof. The vitrified brick that is coming into general use to-day may be regarded as such a material, for in the process of manufacture it is subjected to a temperature that would melt the best brick of the ordinary kind. But, if there be no building that is strictly "absolutely fire-proof," there certainly are buildings the total destruction of which by fire of a character that can be conceived as likely to occur is an extreme improbability. The Times building in this city, the Union Trust Company's building and most of the new buildings on Wall street are absolutely fire-proof so far as any conflagration arising within their own walls is concerned, and the probability is very strong that they would remain practically uninjured in the midst of a fire surrounding them, such as that in Boston. After all, the chief requirement of a fire-proof building is that its construction shall be of such a nature that a fire originating within its walls cannot spread beyond the room or compartment in which it occurs. There are many such buildings in this city, in Chicago and other large cities in this country and abroad. But the building that could have been put into Nebuchadnezzar's "burning fire furnace" and not be destroyed has yet to be built. Nevertheless, we may continue to speak of fire-proof buildings, meaning thereby structures of a much more substantial character than those destroyed in Boston.

The purpose of Mr. Gilroy, the Commissioner of Public Works, to make a flying visit to the capitals of Europe is an admirable one and should be carried out. No duties here of the ordinary kind should detain him. There are many New Yorkers whose frequent visits to London, Paris, Berlin and the Southern continental cities furnish them with valuable ideas for home development of the public works of this city, but they are without influence, even if they put their ideas before the public. They rarely advance them to matured plans. This is left to the public officer here who has charge of the like duties. No Commissioner of Public Works has yet, while in public office, made such a study in Europe. He is in the superior position of being able to carry out his views. Much is to be learned, and Mr. Gilroy will become a public benefactor. The subject of street pavements and the qualities and merits of asphalt is of great importance. These pavements have been in use in Europe for half a century, and the quality of the material, the composition and method of laying and keeping in repair have been tested under all conditions of climate and of light and heavy traffic. He could give these results, which would be of great value in the new era of improved street paving upon which we are entering. The placing of works under the street pavement is also of great importance. It is clear that the present method is expensive and that it makes a good pavement impossible. We have every street opened now continually for one purpose or another, and some other plan must be adopted. This must be superseded by an archway or tunnel under the street within which everything, sewers, water pipes, gas pipes, subways for wires, pneumatic tubes and connections can be placed, with room for access for repairs and examination. Such tunnels in some form are in use in Europe and they must be introduced here. The pavement of our principal thoroughfares should be laid upon iron girders, which should rest on walls of masonry along the line of the curb. Underneath, anyone who has a permit might burrow and excavate until it was all hollowed out like an under-cellar. There is the same reason and more for an under-cellar under the streets than there is for one under the houses. The pavement would then remain undisturbed, except a hatchway here and there. One collateral advantage of this system would be its healthfulness. Now it is thought sufficient to bury anything nauseous, and under every street our broken sewers and gas pipes leak until the whole soil is saturated with poison. This is apparent at every excavation. Under the new system the opening under the street would be clean and ventilated. It is an improvement that is not to be defeated because it is expensive, and now is a good time to try the experiment. There are many other subjects within the domain of the Department of Public Works on which Mr. Gilroy's observations will be valuable and of permanent advantage to the growth and prosperity of the city.

There seems to be a misapprehension as to the time when the Exposition of 1892 will take place. It arises from the disposition of some persons to celebrate an anniversary before the date arrives, or to insist upon its celebration during the summer months only, because that season was chosen in Paris. Columbus sighted land on the 12th and landed on the 14th of October, 1492. The event to be commemorated will have that date, and the ceremonies should be then inaugurated and not before. Literary exercises, thanksgivings, sermons, historical meetings and orations should then be held, especially at the place where the Exposition is located, and as well in every city and village of the country, as Thanksgiving Day is celebrated. After that, and not before, should begin the Exposition. All that is within buildings can begin at once and be carried on through the winter. In the opening spring the horticultural exhibits and all out-door celebrations can commence, and the Fair can last all summer if desirable. The climate of Washington, if the Fair should be held there, is altogether favorable to a winter celebration. Midsummer would be one objection. The climate of New York is almost equally favorable for a winter celebration. Here the permanent buildings would be centrally located. The works of art and of applied art, of science, mechanics and industries would alike be accessible during the winter. This is the correct time for the commemoration, and that it affords more time for preparation incidentally is an advantage.

The bill sent to Congress by the Committee on the Exposition for 1892 presents a simple solution of the legal questions involved in the successful organization of the Fair. It provides for the incorporation of a company which shall have the general control and management. It will be formed of delegates from each State of the Union, to be appointed by the President, and of the four committees of twenty-five each who have done the preliminary work in this city. This body will not be too large, for it must represent and reflect the views of the whole country and hold the interest of every State. Its administrative duties can be committed to a working body or a much smaller number. It can be composed of men who are in accord and can give their whole time to it. The Legislature of this State will be called on simultaneously to give power, under our laws, to this corporation to execute their duties, principally to acquire and hold land and to take it by right of eminent domain. So much as the city shall furnish, in taking land and erecting permanent buildings, it will ask power for from the Legislature, and for the residue, the company can be empowered. The legislative basis will thus be very simple and effective.

The fact that Senator Edmunds has been talking about introducing a bill for the foundation of a national university has been made the subject for a great deal of newspaper discussion. It has been objected to the scheme that there is no need of it; that we have too many colleges and universities already, and that the addition of another would simply be taking on a useless number of feet to our Eiffel tower of educational facilities. An argument of this kind may be compared to the objection of a Philistine father to the literary aspirations of his son: "We have enough poets and poetry already," said this father. In truth, perhaps, we have enough colleges, if by colleges we mean the ordinary academies which grace the country towns in every State of the Union, just as we have enough poets, if by that term is meant merely a versifier. But the very fact that there are so many colleges that afford ordinary facilities makes the creation of a truly great university desirable as the coping of our educational system. None of the larger colleges at present existing fulfill this function, for all of them are limited, just as the smaller colleges are limited, by a lack of funds, and consequently by the impossibility of supplying the best possible facilities. It is that and nothing else that a national university should aim to give, for such an aim alone would justify its existence. Our military and naval academies turn out experts each in its own department; our national academy would try to turn out the perfectly cultured man—the expert at large, instead of merely the specialty expert. The plan outlined by ex-President White, of Cornell, is the one that should be followed. The university should be solely for the use of graduate students, and there should be a system of scholarship which would permit the poorer students to work on an equality with the richer ones. Moreover, such an institution could be made of direct as well as indirect service to the government. Work could be undertaken in the course of their studies which would be of aid to the different departments; commissioners could be sent out under its auspices to study the present institutions all over the country, and the smaller colleges would have a bureau to apply to if they needed thoroughly qualified instructors. It could, in other words, be made an agent for spreading throughout the country the advantages of the highest education; it would raise the standard of American scholarship; it would quicken the ardor of American students.

A Proposed Solution of the Silver Problem.

The National Silver Convention which met recently at St. Louis adopted resolutions calling for the free coinage of silver for private owners of bullion, in addition to our compulsory coinage by the government, as at present. There has also been a rumor afloat that Secretary Windom intended to recommend the issue of silver certificates on deposits of bullion. But no such signs as these were needed to warn us that the coming Congress will be urged to tinker with the currency. We can even be pretty certain that if the turn of the bullion markets had not made it possible for the silver men to take aggressive action, such action would have been taken by the demonetizers. Geology and politics vie with each other in making the monetary situation uncertain. The same class that at one time wished to demonetize gold because it was getting too cheap, has since succeeded in partially demonetizing silver for a similar reason. Equity between creditor and debtor is thus merely a football to be kicked hither and thither in the unreasoning play of geology on the one hand and of credit on the other, while Congress, dominated by a self-seeking lobby, serves as an ill-qualified referee.

It has been estimated that the fall of prices between 1874 and 1880 effected a gratuitous distribution among English consol holders of about £115,000,000 worth of the necessities of life. President Andrews, of Brown University, says that "between 1870 and 1884 the debt of the United States decreased not very far from three-quarters of a billion dollars; yet if we take beef, corn, wheat, oats, pork, coal, cotton, and bar iron together as the standard, the debt not only did not decrease at all but actually increased not less than 50 per cent."

The same writer, in his paper "An Honest Dollar," recently published by the American Economic Association, proposes a plan for the regulation of the coinage of silver that is designed to secure greater permanency of money values than is possible under the present system. This plan calls for, first, the official ascertainment of prices; second, the use of some form of subsidiary full legal tender money; and third, the injection of a portion of this into circulation or the withdrawal of a portion of it therefrom, according as prices fall or rise.

Obviously the ascertainment of prices is the essential and the most difficult part of this plan. A list of a large number of staples priced from time to time in the great markets of the world is to be used in determining whether or not general prices have fallen or risen. Supposed a fixed quantity of each of one hundred carefully chosen staples will, at a given time, exchange for $20,000 of legal tender; if at the end of a year it be found that the same aggregate of commodities will exchange for $22,000 it is inferred that a slight excess of money is in circulation, and some is accordingly withdrawn. Should the same bill of goods invoice at $19,000, it would be concluded that more money was needed, and somewhat more of the subsidiary legal tender would accordingly be put in circulation.

Andrews believes that by such an arrangement general prices could be kept at any point they may have reached at a given time; that is, that the exchange value of money may be rendered staple by a systematic variation of the supply in accordance with the variation in demand. The subsidiary money which he suggests is silver, circulating in the form of paper certificates of deposit. Gold would continue to be coined without restriction. If then gold should continue to appreciate more and more, silver certificates would be thrown into circulation. Should new mines or new chemical or mechanical processes cheapen gold, the silver surrogates would be withdrawn; perhaps even until we should have a monometallic currency.

To eliminate politics in the arrangement of the commodity schedule, Andrews proposes the appointment of a commission of, say five, of which the Secretary of the Treasury, the Director of the Mint and the Comptroller of the Currency should be ex officio members; together with an eminent business man and an eminent statistician appointed by the President. The Interstate Commerce Commission is pointed to as an evidence of the fact that matters of great importance may be lifted above politics, even in this country. It is further urged that the work of the new commission would be so susceptible of being tested by scientific canons that anything less than impartiality could be easily seen and reprimanded. After the necessary rules and methods had been worked out the operations of the system would be almost automatic.

The plan is too novel to commend itself to most, and the elaboration of the details would involve an appalling amount of discussion. But it is possible that opposing interests will contrive to inflict such injuries on each other under the present régime, that both will be glad to find safety in some plan that promises relief from vacillating, and therefore from mischievous monetary legislation.

J. Beverley Robinson and the Building Law.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

I thank you for your fair, manly and intelligent criticism of my utterances before the Building Supervisors. Listen now, a moment, while I talk.

You are particularly severe upon me for the phrase "in the interests of his client," for saying that I deem it to be my duty to evade the law in the interests of my client; you urge that this is a "dirty phrase," and suggest that my position could be justified only by an appeal to high moral sentiment.

Come down from the clouds, my friend, and learn that all high moral sentiment, all social union, rests, in the end, upon individual interest. If not upon a rock, I stand, at least, upon the solid "dirt" in this principle.

Tell me, of your kindness, in whose interests I am to act, if not in the interests of my client? Does "the public" pay me to act in its interest? Does any building board undertake to provide for architects who act against their clients' interest, and who quite naturally are deserted by clients? Briefly and finally, it is my client that pays me, and it is in his interest that I am bound to act, and not in anybody else's interest.

What is it though that I am to do in my client's interest? Make shoes? No. Build buildings that will fall? Surely not. I profess and set forth that I am ready to build buildings that will stand. Most architects, indeed all architects, as far as I know, make the same profession. It would not be to my interest to build unsafe buildings; there is no call for architects who are skilled to do that. Even "skinflint" clients rarely or never wish their buildings to be unsafe.

But why "evade;" why should you "evade" the law in the interests of your client? you will say. Do not for a moment suppose that I would advise a client to evade the law upon "every possible occasion," as one of our dog-fight and prize-fight dailies takes pains to misquote me. The law so far tallies with ordinary practice that it is usually quite a matter of course to comply with it. In small matters of judgment, as for instance the choice between two by twelve or three by ten beams, it is generally easier to yield. But if compliance with the law endangers my building, and, in the complex problems of practice, such a thing may easily occur, if compliance, in my judgment, is dangerous, I deem it, I repeat, my duty, in the interest of my client and in my own interest, to do what seems to me right—antagonizing the law, or evading the law, usually the only practicable method, as far as may be necessary, and prudent.

The popular confidence in the efficacy of law is not found among those who think more carefully; whose thoughts in the end will lead the people. The general tendency of modern thinkers is to prefer spontaneity to compulsion. Spencer, in particular, devotes much of his effort to showing the futility of artificial restrictions. In Buckle and Mill and many others the same demonstration is found. Their thoughts have so far permeated common life that we admit, all of us, in words, that men cannot be made moral by law; we have not yet reached the point when we shall cease to make restrictive laws. I will not add a word of argument, but, if I may mention an example or two that will tend to shake belief in governmental action, I shall have added some impulse to the speed of progress.

Quite recently the firm of which I am a member was called upon to build a five-story warehouse, using an adjoining four-story party wall and building a story upon it. It would never do to allow people to build upon party walls without government supervision; oh, no! So, after we had secured the necessary permits for five stories, the building was started, but the party wall was found to be so badly built that we regarded the addition of another story as unsafe, and carried our building only four stories high.

Still more recently a stone foundation wall we found to be built six or seven feet high, with nothing that could be called mortar; neither lime, cement nor sand—mere mud. We ordered it to be removed, called the attention of the department to it, found that the inspector reported it to be well built, and vainly we tried to have his report overhauled. We expected to have to annul the contract, and, in the event of a lawsuit, we preferred to have the testimony of the department favorable to us. It was to no purpose. The inspector's report was final. We broke the contract, had the wall pulled down and rebuilt properly, and the record still is that the department thought the first wall all right.

The law does absolutely nothing to deter the unscrupulous, while it hampers and humiliates the honest man. It is by such restrictive laws that our liberty will be some day threatened—is even now threatened. It is the beginning of "the coming slavery."

Tell me, if you please, how far this alleged right of law-making may go? Suppose that it should be enacted that all buildings that were ten years old should be pulled down and rebuilt; or that no buildings should be roofed over, but that the weather be allowed to enter freely. Manifestly there is some limit. There are some things that no law can make right. The government is employed by the people to protect their liberty of action, not to attack it; and the people must be the final judge of the powers of the government, if it is worthy the name of a free government. I draw the line at the beginning, and say that the attempt to restrict any action which is not aggressive is tyranny.

I will build such buildings as I choose. In the absence of any proof of malicious intent to build a building with the intention of crushing people by its fall, it must be assumed that I have sufficient intelligence to carry out my not malevolent intentions. No government has a right to put its hand in my pocket and spend my money for me, without even alleging evil intent on my part.

I will buy goods in any foreign country that it pleases me, and smuggle them in if I choose, conscience free. I have never conferred the right upon anybody else, and I deny the right of a majority to confer the right upon anybody else to seize my property because I have bought it where it does not please them that I should buy it, whether the seizure is accomplished under the name of government, or under the outspoken title of banditti. I wish to injure nobody. I am ready to take the responsibility if I should unintentionally do so. But I demand freedom for action that is not aggressive.

How long will this reactionary tide of legal enactment continue? How long will the American people cringe and crawl to puppets that they have dressed up with pink tape, and now love to kow-tow to, under the impression that they are protecting themselves, but really inviting the most insolent and intolerable invasion, that of official bureaucracy. Every increase in the number of bureaus and of employés therein does what? Adds to our liberty by protecting us against invaders? Nothing of the sort. It simply makes more votes for the party in power. It is for this purpose that we are urged to build ships, and fortifications, and guns, to support departments of agriculture and a diplomatic service, and the thousand State and local branchings-out of paternalism. We don't need them. Not at all. But the politicians do.

Understand that I mean no personal criticism. With the recent Superintendent of Buildings I have always been on the best of terms. I have great respect for the present incumbent and have received most courteous treatment from him. Officially I regard them as tyrants, and officially, no doubt, they regard me as a crank, but personally I esteem them and trust that they have the same feeling toward me.

Yet awhile, and the consolidating, governmentalizing, communistic tendencies will assert themselves; but, again awhile, and the demand for individual responsibility, for free development, for liberty in the pursuit of individual happiness will come again to the front. There is but one law that can harmoniously arrange the relations between men. It is the law of necessity. The pier must be of a certain size, or it will crush; the beam of a definite proportion, or it will bend. To the demands of this law all men must bow; the penalties for transgression are not to be escaped; it is incorruptible and unchangeable. But no man can dictate to another how he shall obey this law of nature, without enslaving him. If we have liberty, new and better solutions of nature's problems are every hour arrived at. "The remedy for the abuse of liberty is more liberty." Liberty is not the daughter, but the mother of order.

JOHN BEVERLEY ROBINSON.

We cannot see that Mr. Robinson's position is improved by his explanation. His statements, so far as they directly affect the building law, may be summed up categorically as follows: (1) An architect's first duty is to the interests of his client; (2) These interests necessitate the erection of safe buildings; (3) In certain cases, conceivable or actual, the building law prevents the erection of a building at once entirely safe and at the least possible cost to the owner; (4) In such cases it is the architect's duty to evade the law. The first and third of the statements nobody, we should judge, would dispute. They might be rendered clearer by amplifying the first and particularizing the third, but for the purposes of the present argument they are sound and sufficient. But from the second and third of these assertions we utterly dissent. The second may seem plausible put in the bald way that it is above, but it requires but little consideration to discover its falsity. It is not true to say that a builder's interest invariably requires the erection of a safe building. Of course it must be so erected that it will stand and that it will display no glaring errors of construction. But any architect will admit that there are a thousand and one ways, such as the use of untrustworthy building material, the lack of proper precautions against fire, and the neglect of sanitary appliances, which would render a building unsafe for residence, but would not be apparent to an inexperienced buyer. Neither can we see that Mr. Robinson's fourth assertion is at all justified by the three preceding propositions. On the contrary, we conceive that it would be the duty of an architect so situated not to evade the law, but rather to correct it. The third proposition means nothing more than that the law is defective. So indeed are most laws. The proper spirit in which to treat such defects, like all defects, is to remedy them. When laws are evaded the evil is increased, for where one man like Mr. Robinson does it out of proper motives, a thousand more will do it with the meanest and most selfish intentions.

It is somewhat difficult to reconcile all of Mr. Robinson's statements. Thus he says: "The law so far tallies with ordinary practice that it is usually quite a matter of course to comply with it." Later he adds: "The law does absolutely nothing to deter the unscrupulous, while it hampers and humiliates the honest man." But why should a law that so far tallies with ordinary practice that it is usually quite a matter of course to comply with its provisions "hampers and humiliates honest men?" These two clauses seem to us to be a practical surrender of Mr. Robinson's whole position. On the one hand it is admitted that the law in its main features is equitable; on the other, that there are unscrupulous builders who need "detering." If the law fails to deter them it is simply because the law is badly administered. And, again, if the law is badly administered, it is the duty of every public-spirited citizen to see that it is well administered, and not to take advantage of the incompetency of the governmental officials.

As to Mr. Robinson's general remarks upon the tendency at present towards the limitation of individual liberty, we must decline to discuss it. It is not a problem to be decided by a priori assertions about the freedom of the individual man. On the contrary, the problem admits of as many different solutions as there are laws to be passed; and, although there is, on the one hand, one school of thinkers who believe in no restriction, and, on the other hand, another that believes in nothing but restriction, yet obviously sane discussion need consider only that view which admits that some restriction is necessary. Mr. Robinson is one of these, for he admits the right of the State to restrict action which is "aggressive." How would Mr. Robinson define "aggressive?" Until that question is answered, argument with him would be futile.

Men and Things.

It is a pleasure to follow that enterprising young lady, Miss Nellie Bly, on her trip around the globe, so far as it can be done through the columns of the World. The experiment is one of absorbing interest, and will be of great use to the many travelers here and abroad who are desirous of taking the same trip. Incidentally, of course, it may advertise Miss Bly and her newspaper; but the main result will be to show in how short a time a person can go from New York, say to Hoboken, by way of England, China and California. Miss Bly, it may be remarked, is eminently well fitted for her task. Perhaps it seems cruel to send her traveling in this way, just as she was recovering from an illness which some of our best doctors could not diagnose; but I suspect both the illness and the traveling are concomitant results of the same cause. At any rate her experience in the insane asylum will be of the greatest benefit to her throughout the whole of the trip, while the skillful way in which she exposed the Albany lobbyists is a guarantee that no sharper, Mongolian or European, will imperil the success of her enterprise. Then her terse and sinewy style will be of the greatest advantage in telegraphic accounts of her journey. She may tell us from London, for instance, that she is still traveling, that she likes it, that she was not seasick, that she was obliged to decline an introduction to the Prince of Wales, that she induced the captain of this steamboat or the conductor of that train to hurry up a little bit for her sake, and other similar facts of the greatest interest to herself and the wide world. Moreover, her glimpses of the countries through which she passes will doubtless make a volume of equal interest to that absorbing story of hers—the Mystery of Central Park. She certainly has my sincere well-wishes. May she be as successful as Phineas Fogg, and bring back with her a Mr. Nellie Bly, for if there is any possible match that would justify the husband taking his wife's name it would be one such as this. When she returns we shall have proof positive that the world is round; although a friend of mine had so little chivalry in his composition as to say, when he heard that Miss Bly was going to travel as far as possible in an easterly direction, that he regretted for the first time that it had not been made flat.

Theodore Cook, in some gossip about the late Samuel Tilden, says that that gentleman when asked for a statement of the principle upon which his business dealings were conducted answered that his aim was to buy securities when everybody was selling and sell them when everybody was buying. The remark is not an original one. I doubt if there is a single reader of this paragraph who has not heard it before. I remember seeing it in one of Charles Reade's novels, published back in the "fifties," and for all I know it may have been current long even before that period. Be that as it may, considering the currency the remark has obtained it is singular how useless it is. It is based on the supposition that the public are, as Carlyle said, "mostly fools," and in direct contradiction to the pretty sound maxim that "everybody is wiser than anybody." Moreover, like most general remarks, the point, as Captain Cuttle says, lies in the application. Suppose somebody came to me and said: "Lo! I am a very wicked person, what shall I do?" If I was sensible I should answer: "Go thou and be good!" Neither the answer nor the question would be very enlightening, but no less so than Mr. Cook's question and Mr. Tilden's answer. Suppose to a similar question this reply should be made: "Buy when a security is worth more than it is selling for and sell when it is worth less than it is selling for." That would be a truer answer than Mr. Tilden's, though just about equally enlightening. In this connection President Harrison's remark about maxims as opposed to markets would not be malapropos.

The young man—it was not William Winter, for he did not attend the performance—who wrote the criticism for the Tribune on "Faust up to Date," unconsciously made a remark that was true indeed. This remark was in the way of bold generalization. "Of the art burlesque," says this scribe, "which consists in treating comical themes in a perfectly grave manner, this company gave no sign." I do not wish to comment on the critic's view of the art of burlesque. I did not know burlesque had become an art, and I always had an idea that the way to write a burlesque was to crowd as many "gags," references to getting "full" and questionable allusions and as much slang and general imbecility as possible into three hours. But if the art of burlesque is the knack of giving things, presumably comic, a grave and solemn air, then indeed has the Gayety Company, at present casting' clouds of gloom over the Broadway Theatre, most admirably fulfilled its function. The performance was as sad and serious as a Times editorial. Certain people in the audience were observed to laugh, but an American audience always is sarcastic, and, it may be added, the house was filled with a claque that was not always wise in its applause. "Faust up to Date" may be recommended to the following class of people—those who like to hiss, those who wish to cultivate the virtue of patience, those who are interested in female anatomy, those who wish to study the males who are interested in female anatomy, and those who wish to prepare a modernized edition of "Gulliver's Travels."

The Annual Election.

SIX REGULAR CANDIDATES DEFEATED.

The sixth annual election of directors of the Real Estate Exchange took place on Monday. The meeting was unusually interesting on account of the strong efforts made by opposition candidates to carry their party into power. The contest was practically over before it had begun, for more than four hundred out of the five hundred members of the Exchange had placed their proxies in the hands of gentlemen who were candidates themselves or whose friends they were anxious to see elected.

The chair was taken soon after 1 P. M. by President E. A. Cruikshank. Secretary Cornelius Luyster read the minutes of the last annual meeting, which were of an unimportant character, the only point worth particular mention being the resolution appointing a committee to try to fund the $80,000 mortgage on the building into three per cent. bonds. This the committee has hitherto been unable to do, and George H. Scott, who has been very active in his efforts to place the bonds, stated that $10,000 had only been subscribed thus far, the whole of the amount not having been taken up owing to the high rates prevailing for money. He asked for a continuance of the committee, which on motion was granted.

President Cruikshank then delivered the annual address. He said: Fellow members of the Real Estate Exchange—I am happy to greet you at the close of our annual year with the Exchange in such a flourishing condition. In 1885 we paid our first dividend of 1½ per cent.; in 1886, 2 per cent.; in 1887, 3 per cent.; in 1888, 3½ per cent., and in 1889, the present year, as you can see by the report, we have not only declared and paid a 4 per cent. dividend, but added $3,000 in addition to the sinking fund, making over 4½ per cent. Our balance sheet shows a net profit of $23,000.55, an increase of $5,042.47 over last year, and if the proposed plans, including the adding of another story to the building, be carried out, I have no doubt my successor will make an even more flattering report than myself, as the renting of offices in the Exchange building has proved a success, and inquiries are still being made by desirable corporations which we are unable to supply. The amount of real estate sold at auction on our floor was $48,943,113, an increase over last year of $3,352,766, which is itself one of the best indications of the increasing hold which the Exchange is gaining on public confidence, and it is interesting to note that exchanges have been and are being formed all over the country based almost entirely upon our plan, but our motto should be "Onward and upward," and we have still a work before us in increasing and strengthening our membership by the addition of all those who are connected with the real estate business, and who should, but do not yet, belong to our body; by widening and enlarging the scope of the information bureau; by a library of standard works on real estate, which no doubt could be built up in a very short time if among the members each one will contribute the book he finds most desirable and most useful in his business on that subject; by sending to each member timely notice of all proposed matters of public improvement, the boundaries of all assessments and their date of payment. No doubt various other suggestions in regard to the advancement and successful building up of the Exchange will occur to you, and those I feel assured the incoming directors will be pleased to consider.

In regard to the work of the past year the Committee on Finance, as you can see by the report, have labored assiduously for the interest of the Exchange; the Exchange and Auction Room Committee have been earnest in the discharge of their labors, and by their advice and suggestion the income of the Exchange has been increased; the Membership Committee have endeavored faithfully to examine and pass upon the name of every proposed member submitted to them, and of all who have been admitted no complaint has been entered against anyone; the Committee on Legislation, with its various sub-committees, consisting, as you can see by the report, of gentlemen of great prominence and activity in the business world of this city, have promptly given much of their time and service in the matter, and much valuable work has been done in opposing mischievous, and supporting desirable, bills at Albany, and the weight and influence of such an Exchange as we have—numbering among its ranks some of the wealthiest and most influential men of this city—has enabled the Exchange to protect the rights of the citizens of New York to an extent little dreamed of. Even the staff of the Exchange, from the highest to the lowest, have had its success at all times before them, and have labored zealously and faithfully to that end.

I touch with sorrow upon the death of some of our most valued members; faithful in the discharge of all their duties they have gone to their reward.

And now as I am about to close my final term I desire to extend my thanks to all, both directors and members, who have so kindly supported me in my endeavors to uphold the interest and welfare of the Exchange, and to beg for my successor, whoever he may be, the same kindly greeting, the same good wishes and the same hearty support that I have received. (Applause.)

The polls were then announced open until 4 P. M., and there was immediately a rush toward the ballot box. One of the earliest to deposit her vote was Miss Agnes K. Murphy, hers being the second ballot cast, the inspectors of election courteously waiving the rule which demands that members shall follow in line. The next person to come forward was Harry W. Donald, who deposited numerous proxies, so many, indeed, that they appeared almost interminable. One of these was objected to by President Cruikshank on a technicality, but the inspectors of election did not consider the objection valid and deposited the ballot paper. Mr. Donald represented the Harnett interest, whose influence is so extensive among the members that it came very nearly upsetting the majority on the regular ticket. As it is they have captured six directors out of the thirteen. The Cruikshank, Cammann and other interests were also strongly represented in the voting, and their representatives each deposited numerous ballots.

Speculation was rife while the voting was in progress as to how many men would be elected on each side. From inside sources the proxies stated to have been received by the regular ticket were 220, and by the opposition ticket—a ticket which was not announced but tacitly understood—about 190 proxies. The figures show that in the former case about 282 proxies must have been obtained, and in the other not more than 179. The directors elected for the ensuing year, with the votes cast for them, are as follows:

Philip A. Smyth.....	4,270	H. H. Cammann.....	3,864
George H. Scott.....	4,183	Isaac Fromme.....	3,843
Myer S. Isaacs.....	4,115	Richard Deeves.....	3,838

Richard V. Harnett.....	3,918	Jere. Johnson, Jr.....	3,593
Ira D. Warren.....	3,913

The seven elected regular candidates polled 27,374 votes, while the six opposition candidates polled 23,546. There seem to have been very few straight tickets voted, although it appeared as if at least fifty members must have deposited their ballots personally. This shows to what extent the cutting of names was done. Of the defeated regular candidates Messrs. Weekes and Porter both came near success, while Mr. Baer made a good race of it considering how late he was brought into the field as a candidate.

The following is the list of votes polled for every candidate at the various elections for directors held since the organization of the Exchange. The figures in the last column show Monday's full vote:

† Indicates that the person whose name it follows was a regular candidate and was defeated.

It will be seen that the vote on Monday was 60,970, the heaviest made since the Exchange was established. Out of a possible full vote of 65,000, this is an unusual showing, being nearly 94 per cent. of the whole. Presuming that the full complement of 130 votes was deposited by or for each member, the number of members who voted must have been 469 out of the 500.

The newly-elected directors will meet on Monday at 2 P. M. to elect officers for the ensuing year. Geo. R. Read is talked of for president, and C. A. Schermerhorn, M. S. Isaacs or J. Romaine Brown for vice-president. Geo. H. Scott is talked of for second vice-president.

The Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange.

At a meeting of stockholders of the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited), held at 393 Fulton street, Monday evening, D. P. Darling was called to the chair and C. Augustus Haviland selected as secretary. A motion was then made that the election for directors be postponed, and pending the consideration of this motion Mr. Haviland made substantially the following statement:

As secretary I have labored to bring about the co-operation of those not invited to take part in the preliminary work of this organization with the firm belief that there could not be that success with which all desire without the help of all the leading brokers and many of the capitalists of Brooklyn. The prospect before us is now a bright one, and to William Ziegler, Jere Johnson, Jr., Leonard Moody, Edward F. Linton and E. J. Granger this organization is now indebted for the foreshadowing of a future which is to make it what it should be—a corporation worthy a high place in this growing city. In behalf of a majority of the Board of Directors I gave a pledge to those gentlemen that this corporation would postpone its election of officers until it might, under the terms of law, vote an increase of its capital stock to $250,000 and amend its by-laws to allow 500 shares of stock to be held by any one person. These gentlemen have secured subscribers to a large amount of stock, and their co-operation with us depends upon our action in this matter. Give me the authority to act and I will see that the work is speedily under way.

Thereupon the motion for postponement was carried and the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the secretary is hereby directed to call a meeting of the stockholders of the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited) for Wednesday, December 18, 1889, at 8 P. M., at the rooms of the Exchange, to vote upon the following questions:

First—Shall the capital stock of the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited) be increased one hundred and ninety thousand dollars, so that the entire capital stock of said corporation shall be two hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

Second—Shall Section 3 of Article IV. of the by-laws be amended to read: "And no person or corporation shall hold at one time a less number than five shares nor a greater number than one thousand shares of the capital stock."

Resolved, That notice of such proposed action be posted in the Exchange for seven days prior to the date of said meeting.

At a directors' meeting held immediately thereafter, it was insisted by Mr. Darling that no person could become a stockholder without passing the ordeal of a vote of the board for admission as a member. Messrs. Johnson, Haviland, Stewart, Page and Thompson maintained that there was nothing in the law or in the by-laws to justify such a conclusion, and to make sure that no such point should be raised in future the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, This organization has heretofore increased its capital stock and is proposing to further increase its stock; therefore be it

Resolved, That all persons subscribing to such stock shall be recognized as "original subscribers to the capital stock," as designated by Article I. of the by-laws, and it shall not be necessary to elect such persons as members.

Notes and Items.

Notice is given by the Commissioners in the matter of the application of the Board of Street Opening and Improvement relative to the opening of 173d street, from 10th avenue to the Kingsbridge road, that the bill of the costs incurred by the proceeding will be presented for taxation to one of the Justices of the Supreme Court on the 20th of December.

The Corporation Counsel gives notice in the matter of the application of the Board of Street Opening and Improvement relative to acquiring title to the lands required for the opening, widening and extension of College place and Greenwich street, from Chambers to Dey street, that an application will be made to the Supreme Court on Friday, the 10th of January, for the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the above entitled matter.

The Dock Department awarded during the past week the contract for the building of the proposed crib and bulkhead on the Harlem River, from East 138th street to a point north of East 140th street, to Fogg & Scribner, who bid $59,900 for the bulkhead and $27,000 for the dredging.

The Brooklyn Fifth Avenue Elevated Railroad Co. has applied to Mayor Chapin for the appointment of commissioners to consider the question of extending the road from Greenwood to Fort Hamilton. The next extension will be over 86th street to Bath Beach, Bensonhurst and Coney Island. The new Union Depot of the Brooklyn, Bath & West End Railroad at 36th street and 5th avenue is well advanced, and will be completed by March 15th, when close connection with Bath Beach, Bensonhurst, Unionville, Gravesend and Coney Island will be accomplished. These increased railroad facilities are the result of the rapid growth of South Brooklyn. Mayor Chapin has appointed three commissioners, and they are all men who bear a high reputation on the other side of the East River.

Payments to be made to the Collector of Assessments and Clerk of Arrears, between 9 A. M. and 2 P. M.

New Members.

Leopold Hess, of No. 401 Broadway, has been proposed as a member of the Real Estate Exchange by Fredk Southack; reference, Ottinger Brothers.

The 840 acres of the Central Park cost the city about $7,936 an acre, while the 3,845 acres in the 23d and 24th Wards, recently acquired, cost about $2,500 an acre.

West Seventy-Second Street.

THE PARKWAY.

[COMMUNICATED.]

It has often been said that there is no thoroughfare in New York City superior to that of West 72d street. It has also been remarked that there is no pleasanter and more spacious driveway on the west side. Its wide carriage-way, its handsome sidewalks, its prettily laid out grass plots, and its array of fine residences and apartment houses, all tend to give it that attractiveness which delights the eye and pleases the senses.

Although West 72d street is principally lined with private houses it is not altogether bereft of the apartment house. Indeed, it was a building of the latter character which was the first to be erected on that street, a building which was, indeed, the pioneer of the west side building movement of recent years—the Dakota.

It is of an apartment house—the Parkway, at No. 45 West 72d street—that an illustration is presented herewith. The Parkway is a fine-looking structure with a bright and cheerful front. The first two stories and the basement are in Nova Scotia stone, while the front above is in salmon-colored Raritan brick. There is considerable carved work on each story, and the combination of rusticated stone and the light brick above is very effective. The Parkway is practically a layer of two-story houses, one placed upon the other. While in its arrangement it has all the features of the first-class flat, its interior displays a series of two-story detached houses, and this is shown in the exterior, each apartment being treated architecturally in a front of special design, so that "he who runs may read" which apartments are separate from the other.

But let us glance at the interior. Entering the vestibule we find the walls and flooring in enamel tile and marbles. The entrance door to the hall is of massive old English oak with a Venetian crinkled glass window with opalescent rondels. Passing through into the main hall a reception-room appears to the right. This room is one of the cosiest of its kind. It is handsomely wainscoted in oak, the table, chairs and other furniture being in the same wood to match. The ceiling is decorated, the floors are of marble and are covered with Persian rugs, while the walls are adorned in silk damask. And here it may be said that throughout the entire building paint, paper, embossed leather and other methods of covering walls has been eschewed, and for the first time, as far as the writer knows, an apartment house has been well covered from top to bottom in silk damask, tapestries or other hangings. The effect is rich and pleasant to the sight. The patterns are numerous and well selected, and are a tribute to the artistic taste of the builders.

Passing through the richly-wainscoted hall the elevator is reached, and a moment later we are on the first floor of the topmost apartment in the house. This apartment is laid out in a most sensible manner, and with an eye to comfort. The plan is such as to be attractive to the housewife as well as to the gentleman who is generally supposed to be "the lord and master" of the house. The apartment is divided into two floors. The lower one may be said to be the living suite and the upper one the sleeping suite. The former contains five rooms. These comprise a reception-room or library, a drawing-room, a dining-room, with butler's pantry adjoining, a kitchen and servant's bedroom. The first three rooms are thrown together en suite, and the doors connecting them are wide and arranged for portières, so that for receptions or dances the entire suite can be thrown together and practically turned into one large room. The ceilings are decorated in floral designs. The parlor, or drawing-room, fronts on 72d street. The library, adjoining, also fronts on the street, and both are cheerful, sunny rooms. The former has a handsome mantel, mirror and fireplace and a fine brass chandelier. The dining-room is well appointed and has a silver-finished firegrate and andirons, a china closet, etc. The floors in these rooms are inlaid in hardwood, and cherry, maple and antique oak are the woods used in the trim. The butler's pantry adjoining the dining-room is of more than usual size. The kitchen contains the latest modern culinary appliances and is entered from the hall containing the rear elevator and servants' stairway, besides having an entrance to the butler's pantry and the private hallway. The latter is wide and spacious and has a number of closets. It is trimmed in oak throughout and contains separate entrances to all the main rooms.

The second floor of the suite is approached by a wide stairway leading from the private hall. It is absolutely disconnected from any public part of the building, and to all intents and purposes might be part and parcel of a strictly private residence. An easy flight brings us to the sleeping and dressing quarters on the second floor. This arrangement has numerous advantages. That they are appreciated is seen by the fact that every suite in the Parkway but one was engaged very soon after the completion of the building. The upper floor consists of four handsome sleeping chambers, with an abundance of closet room. The ceilings are decorated, and the walls are covered in cretonne, while there are tiled firegrates, mantels, mirrors, etc. The bathroom is especially handsome and spacious, with its tiled walls and floor, and hardwood trim. A servants' bedroom and a storage-room complete the floor. The other apartments are practically a fac simile of the one here described.

The writer ascended to the roof, which is of brick, and there found a fine view of the surrounding territory. All the prominent buildings for miles around could be seen—the Dakota, the Navarro flats, the new Eighth Regiment Armory, the Museums of Art and Natural History, the Normal College and other buildings standing clearly out upon the horizon. In the distance Long Island Sound and the hills beyond could be seen, while the Palisades appeared almost within hailing distance.

From the roof to the cellar was a transition accomplished in sixty seconds. Here, under the surface of the earth, are to be seen the machinery and plant that runs a house of this character. On one side were the storage-rooms and janitor's apartments; on the other two boilers, a pressure tank, machines to run the front and rear elevators, two steam pumps, a discharge tank, etc. One has to go underground to see the steam appliances which aid in giving us the comforts and necessities of existence in an apartment house.

There are some main points about the Parkway worth noting. The builders and owners, Chas. Buek & Co., claim for it that it is built absolutely fireproof, a very important desideratum. There are only six apartments in the building, the tenants being of a high character, socially and financially. The building is 50 feet wide. Every room has direct outside light and the ventilation and plumbing are of a first-class character. The house is heated by steam by registers which are separate and distinct for each apartment, so that the heat of each suite is entirely under the control of the occupant.

In exterior design and interior arrangement, as well as location and surroundings, the Parkway is one of the handsomest, as well as one of the most interesting, among the west side apartment houses. There are few, if any, properties on the market which possess greater attractions to the investor than this.

Among the large number of apartment houses on the west side the Parkway occupies a unique place. It has been built to meet a direct want—the desire to dispense with the inconvenience of climbing several flights of stairs, while at the same time obtaining all the advantages and conveniences of a separate private house. We want more of such buildings. They will not only rent well, but they will be sure to prove a profitable investment.

SEVENTY-SECOND STREET, BETWEEN CENTRAL PARK WEST AND NINTH AVENUE.

Cortlandt Street.

ITS CHANGES AND PROSPECTS.

Of all our cross-town thoroughfares Cortlandt street is one of the busiest. No one can stand near the ferry of the Pennsylvania Railroad without being impressed with the large and varied population from New Jersey and other States which literally pours into Cortlandt street from every boat. The faces and the attire of the travelers are of the most varied description. Farmers, clerks, merchants, shop girls, stock brokers, bank clerks, store keepers, journalists, mechanics, laborers and others all jostle each other in the crowd.

It would not be incorrect to state that the ferries have done more for Cortlandt street property than anything else, and the New Jersey Central road's ferry at Liberty street contributes to swell the number of pedestrians along Cortlandt street. Besides the ferries, two elevated road stations have made Cortlandt street one of the most important down-town distributing points on the line of the Sixth and Ninth Avenue Elevated roads. These and other circumstances have contributed to make it a "live" thoroughfare, in strong contrast to Dey street, only one block north, where the same conditions are absent.

If our grandfathers could rise up and see Cortlandt street they would be amazed at its transformation. "In the early part of the century, and until some forty years ago," said Read Benedict, the jeweler, "a wooden building stood on the corner of Broadway and Cortlandt street, where the Benedict building now stands. It was from this corner that the old stages used to start on the journey to New Haven and Boston. Soon after 1850 the first iron building ever erected in New York was built on this spot by Peter Gilsey, the building being subsequently changed and modernized when it fell into my hands. Forty to fifty years ago the only ferry landing for boats from New Jersey was at the foot of Cortlandt street. This street was also the centre of the hotel life of the city, the Merchants', Western, National, French's and several smaller hotels being concentrated there. Private houses made up the remainder of the street, with a sprinkling of stores here and there. The growth of business and the increased population of New York and New Jersey changed the street into what it now is, though the largest buildings were erected within the past ten or eleven years."

The future of Cortlandt street is not difficult to forecast. It will continue to be a street of stores as long as the present railroad ferries remain where they are. Near Broadway it will become more and more lined with large office buildings, while nearer the ferries miscellaneous business buildings will continue to exist either in their present form or in more imposing size. The street has long since passed out of what may be termed "the residence stage," for there are only two buildings on it whose upper floors are rented for living purposes, not mentioning, of course, the hotels, pura et impura, which are tenanted almost entirely by transient guests.

It may not be uninteresting to take a glance at the actual character of the street, from a canvass of its present buildings. The results show how much the ferries have had to do with determining the character of its business buildings. Seedsmen and agricultural implements to supply the farms of New Jersey; stores of every description to satisfy the crowds passing to the ferries who would never pass them otherwise; express offices to cater to the convenience of travelers; liquor saloons and restaurants to quench the thirst or satisfy the appetite of the man who has missed his boat, or who is half an hour ahead of time—all these are evidences of the influence which the railroad ferries have had in shaping the character of Cortlandt street. The result of the canvass, however, will show its exact character. It is as follows:

Of the 61 buildings, 5 are from two to three-story and basement in height, 24 are four stories high, 24 five stories, and 7 six stories, while 1 is eight stories high. The most important buildings are near Broadway, and as the distance becomes greater from that thoroughfare and nearer to the ferries the buildings get smaller, with an exception here and there. There are 6 buildings purely devoted to offices; while there are 5 hotels, the largest and oldest being the Merchants', dated 1828; 13 liquor saloons, 5 seed or implement stores, 2 express offices, and several restaurants, tailors and men's furnishing stores, as well as some half-dozen cigar stores. The blocks principally open for improvement are those near the ferries, and especially at Nos. 85 to 91, running to the southeast corner of West street, which comprise, with one exception (No. 44), the only buildings on Cortlandt street less than four full stories in height. If the balance of this block were torn down there would be an excellent opportunity to rear a building adjoining the mammoth structure to be built by the Jersey Central Railroad. Of all the buildings on Cortlandt street, those which could be torn down to make way for high structures of a modern character are quite numerous, and include nearly every building west of the Ninth Avenue Elevated road station. Local writers ten years hence may have a different story to tell.

Real Estate Department.

It is generally admitted that business is dull; in some quarters it is very dull. The explanation given is that the buyers in the market have been recent sellers, and they are now unwilling to go in and buy properties that will net them less than those they have recently disposed of. On the other hand the owners of desirable parcels are extremely firm, because they are not sure they can lay hands on anything that will pay them as well as what they have on hand.

In the way of auction sales but little has been done during the week, but the announcements on another page indicate that next week will be a busy one with the auctioneers.

There was only one sale at the Exchange on Monday. The attendance, however, was very full, as the annual election of directors was held on that day, and many members remained during the sales hour until the opening of the polls at 1 o'clock. On another page the result of the voting is given. The sale held was pursuant to court orders in foreclosure proceedings, and the property, which is on East 17th street, was sold, notwithstanding there was an error in the notice of sale, erroneously locating the house east of 2d avenue instead of west.

Business on Tuesday was anything but satisfactory. There were no bids offered for the West 99th street houses and lots offered, and they were consequently withdrawn. A sale of ten lots on Bainbridge avenue netted $6,275, F. W. Flannery being the buyer. Two lots on Bathgate avenue were sold for a total of $3,600.

The four sales bulletined for Wednesday were all held by order of court in foreclosure proceedings. There was a fair attendance at the Exchange and three of the four parcels were disposed of, and the fourth, a dwelling on East 73d street, No. 5, on which over $50,000 is due, was postponed for one week.

Thursday was the busiest day of the week. There was a large crowd on 'Change and the sales held were numerous, although not very important. A total of $96,885 was realized for thirty-two lots on 133d street, west of 10th avenue. The lots lie far below the grade and are on both sides of the street. For twenty lots on the north side an average of over $3,000 was obtained, while those on the south side averaged a little less than $3,000 each. Randolph Guggenheimer bought twelve lots, and George S. Lespinasse secured ten. The other purchasers were R. K. Brown, A. B. Humphrey, Z. J. Halpin and John Hayes. Eight new houses on West 93d street were sold under foreclosure for $33,283, which is less than is due thereon.

A partition sale of small houses on Canal and Sullivan streets was the attraction on 'Change yesterday. There was a large attendance and spirited bidding. No. 403 Canal street was sold for $16,200, and Nos. 5 to 11 and 15 Sullivan street at from $10,950 to $15,100 each.

On Monday, December 16th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the three-story brown stone dwelling No. 135 West 94th street, 17x50x100.8, upon easy terms.

On Tuesday, December 17th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the four-story and cellar brick tenement with two stores, No. 603 1st avenue Nos. 104 and 106 East 112th street, two three-story dwellings, 16.4x40x100.11, together with No. 334 East 104th street, one 10x20 and one 20x44, former with extension; Mathias Bossert, No. 559 Ferry st, one 2-sty blk dwg, 21x54; Peter Keller, No. 63 Mercer st, one 3-sty fr dwg, 25x50; A. Voget, No. 336 1d - Waverley av, one 2½-sty fr dwg, 21x30, with extension; Weston Wardell, sale of unimproved property, consisting of four lots on the east side of 1st avenue, 59.8 north of 90th street; four lots on the south side of 91st street, 200 feet east of 2d avenue; two lots on the south side of 92d street, 275 feet east of 2d avenue, and seven lots on the north side of 93d street, 150 east of 1st avenue.

On Wednesday, Dec. 18th, Richard V. Harnett & Co will sell, under partition orders, the following first-class properties, most of them situated on some of the principal down-town thoroughfares: Nos. 82 and 84 Dey street, four-story brick stores of 20 feet front each; No. 78 Dey street, a five-story brick store, 26x68; No. 115 Chambers street, a three-story brick store, 25x75; No. 156 Reade street, Trinity Church lease; No. 333 Greenwich street, a five-story brick store, 25.7½x100; No. 541 Canal street, a three-story and attic brick building, 25.5 on Canal street and 22.2 on Washington street; No. 539 Canal street, a three-story and attic brick building with 22 feet frontage; the two-story frame and brick building on the northeast corner of West and Charlton streets; No. 225 West 14th street, a four-story, high stoop, brown stone dwelling, 25x120; and No. 9 Albany street, and Nos. 133 to 139 Washington street, six-story brick tenements, 101.5 on Washington street and 80.10 on Albany street.

On Wednesday, December 18th, John F. B. Smyth will offer the frame house and lot at No. 415 East 70th street, the two four-story flats at Nos. 114 and 116 East 120th street, the four-story stable and factory at Nos. 205 and 207 East 103d street, the four-story building at No. 364 9th avenue, the four-story English basement house at No. 355 West 31st street, and the Brooklyn properties situated at Nos. 922 to 926 Herkimer street, comprising three three-story houses and lots.

On Wednesday, December 18th, Adrian H. Muller & Son will sell some desirable unimproved property on 10th avenue, 150th, 153d and 161st streets. There will be sold two lots on 10th avenue, near 166th street, each 25x100, one on the west side, 25 feet north of 166th street, and one on the east side, 25 feet north of 166th street; four lots on the south side of 150th street, 100 feet west of 10th avenue; one lot on the south side of 153d street, 650 feet west of the Boulevard, and six lots on the south side of 161st street, between 10th avenue and the Boulevard.

On Thursday, December 19th, Adrian H. Muller & Son will sell, by order of the executors of the estates of Mary C. and Richard Smith Clark, the following valuable improved property: No. 176 5th avenue, a four-story brick store and dwelling; No. 937 8th avenue, a four-story brown stone store and dwelling; the four-story brick stores Nos. 221 Pearl, 331 Greenwich and 168 Front street, and No. 409 1st avenue, a three-story brick store and dwelling, with one-story shop.

On Thursday, December 26th, John F. B. Smyth will sell, in partition, some valuable improved property on Fulton, 64th, East 112th and East 132d streets. More extended notice of this important sale will be given next week.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

Geo. K. Read has purchased a plot, 45x108, with old buildings thereon, Nos. 17 and 19 Walker street, on private terms, for improvement.

Commodore A. E. Bateman has purchased the five-story Philadelphia brick dwelling No. 3 5th avenue (leasehold), from the estate of Dr. B. F. Dawson. The figure is said to be $55,000.

We hear that Herman Wronkow has sold the office building No. 55 Broadway, and it is whispered about that Col. Leybourn, of the proposed Catholic Bank, is the buyer.

The four-story dwelling No. 13 East 38th street has been sold by Rosanna Peet on terms which have not transpired.

The estate of Gen. John A. Dix has sold the four-story stone front dwelling No. 3 West 21st street, 25x98.9, at $45,000. We hear a syndicate of gentlemen, members of the Union Club, are the purchasers. This house adjoins the Union Club.

The Cummings estate has sold the two five-story tenements with stores and five-story rear buildings Nos. 188 and 200 2d street, each 24.6x106, at $41,250.

Leo Schlesinger has purchased the old four-story and one-story brick buildings on the northwest corner of Houston and Mulberry streets, size 35.1x100x25.5x101.10, at $47,000.

F. E. Barnes has sold for Williams & Jones to Adolph A. Edlich the property known as Nos. 154 East 27th street and 7 Broadway alley, being the southwest corner of Broadway alley and 27th street, 20x98.9, together with two four-story brick buildings, on private terms.

De Blois, Hunter & Eldridge have sold for the heirs of Hiram Hutchinson the four-story, high stoop, brown stone dwelling No. 35 East 37th street to Capt Chas. F. Roe on private terms.

Phillips & Wells have sold for T. M. Stewart the dwelling No. 146 West street. The library, adjoining, also fronts off the street, and has a beautiful, sunny rooms. The former has a handsome mantel, mirror and fireplace and a fine brass chandelier. The dining-room is well appointed and has a West 40th street, 16.8x50x100, at $10,500, and for R. M. Taylor the four-story, high stoop, brown stone house No. 112 West 49th street, 21.4x50x100, at $23,000.

George B. Christman has sold the five-story brick tenement No. 168 Ludlow street for $30,500.

Weil & Mayer have sold the premises No. 125 Suffolk street to a Mr. Levine.

Real estate auctioneers seem to fancy Lexington avenue houses. Only a couple of weeks ago we chronicled the sale of Nos. 783 and 785 to Peter F. Meyer at $41,000, and now we notice that Auctioneer Wm. Kennelly has purchased No. 441, near 45th street, a three-story, high stoop, brown stone dwelling, at $16,500. Mr. Kennelly has occupied the house for some time past.

There has been quite a little movement in property along the lower 9th avenue. Wm. Drought and Charles J. Carew, the builders, have sold the new five-story brick and stone flat with stores on the southwest corner of 19th street, size 24x95.11x99.11, for $68,000. Ungrich Brothers, builders, have sold the new five-story brick flat with stores on the northeast corner of 17th street, size 26.4x96x100, for about $67,500 to Robert Blackburn, and the four-story, high basement, brick dwelling, 29x73.10, feet, on the southeast corner of 23d street, has been sold for $40,000. The buyer, John Shady, will alter the building and occupy it as a saloon.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

Westcott & Crouch have sold for Peter N. Ramsey the six five-story flats on the northeast corner of St. Nicholas avenue and 123th street, 112 feet on the street and 102 on the avenue, for $194,500; for D. J. Boehm a farm near Chappaqua, in Westchester County, for $55,000; and for Geo. Ruddell the three-story brown stone dwelling No. 158 West 121st street for $22,500.

Libby & Scott Bros. have sold for E. T. Lynch a four-story brown stone dwelling on the south side of 88th street, between 8th and 9th avenues, 23x55x102, to J. W. Guiteau, on private terms.

D. H. King, Jr., has sold ten lots on the southeast corner of 9th avenue and 94th street, four on the avenue and six on the street, to Messrs. Oppenheimer & Metzger. Broker Fred. Zittel has resold the lots to Builders George C. Edgar & Son for improvement.

John Coar has sold to John C. Shaw, No. 142 West 74th street, on the south side, 400 feet east of 10th avenue, a four-story Lake Superior stone and brick dwelling, 20x00x102.2, for $41,000.

We hear that Wm. Buhler, Jr., has purchased an entire block front on upper 9th avenue. The particulars have not transpired.

Wm. C. Gysbers has sold for C. H. Southard the three-story and basement brown stone private house No. 211 West 133d street, size 20x50x99.11, to Frederick Biehl for $15,000.

P. S. Treacy has sold No. 118 West 63d street, a five-story brown stone double flat, 25x85x100.5, for J. S. Radway to Mary Melia, on private terms, and has resold for the latter at an advance on the first sale, which was not quite $30,000.

J. Bierhoff has sold for John Massimino the three-story and one-story frame and brick stores and dwellings No. 133 East 124th street, northeast corner of Lexington avenue, to Sonn Brothers, and the three-story frame dwelling adjoining, No. 131, for John Zeller to Mrs. Childs.

John J. Kavanagh has sold for Bernard Mahon the three five-story brick flats Nos. 346 to 350 St. Nicholas avenue, on the east side, 50 feet south of 128th street, for about $90,000. The houses are 25x75x93 feet in size.

Edward Kilpatrick has sold his four-story brick and stone residence, 22x75, No. 29 East 80th street, northwest corner of Madison avenue, on private terms. The name of the buyer has not transpired. The same builder has sold, on private terms, to Charles Osborne, No. 1238 Madison avenue, a three-story brown stone dwelling, 18.9x55x70 feet in size.

We hear that Patrick Farley has purchased from B. Cohen a plot of five lots on the north side of 91st street, about 275 feet west of 8th avenue.

Weil & Mayer have sold a parcel of four lots on the southeast corner of 2d avenue and 94th street, to E. T. Hatch, with a loan, for improvement.

The houses sold by Walter Reid, referred to in last week's RECORD, were No. 23 East 92d street, northwest corner of Madison avenue, a three-story brown stone dwelling, 20.4x55x73 feet, to a Mr. Dagget, of Chicago, for $35,000; and No. 1302 Madison avenue, a three-story brown stone dwelling, 20x52x73, for $25,000.

Newman Cowen has sold, with a loan, four lots on the northeast corner of Manhattan avenue and 121st street to Michael O'Neill, which he will improve with flats, as announced recently.

Terence Farley's Sons have sold the four-story stone front dwelling No. 60 West 71st street at $44,000 to Wm. Wuerz.

LEASES.

Patrick Farley has leased a large store on the northeast corner of 9th avenue and 93d street, to a liquor dealer.

The Manhattan Club have leased, from the heirs, the Stewart mansion on the northwest corner of 5th avenue and 34th street, for twenty years, at a rental of $25,000 per annum. There are a number of details in regard to the property which must be settled before the lease will have been actually consummated, but it is understood that the terms finally settled on will be as above. The leasing of the property took place on the rejection, by the heirs, of an offer of $800,000. It is claimed by the trustees that the property is worth at least $1,000,000.

Brooklyn.

Ex-Mayor Seth Low has sold his residence No. 201 Columbia Heights, 25x135, to E. F. Knowlton for $60,000.

The Tabernacle property on Schermerhorn street, recently burned down, has been sold for $40,000.

The Bergen estate have sold the water front, adjoining the Sea Beach Railroad property and running to 3d avenue, about forty-five acres of land, to Fred'k A. Chase for $168,000.

Alfred E. Marling, of New York, has sold for Mrs. C. E. Wilmarth the three-story store and dwelling No. 7 Seigel street to Henry Friedman on private terms.

J. P. Sloane has sold for Mrs. B. O'Hare a lot, 25x100, on the north side of Greene street, 175 feet west of Manhattan avenue, to William Voigt for $1,600.

Out of Town.

Frank Tilford has sold his farm at "Rye Lake," near White Plains, to Frank Storrs for $75,000.

John J. Kavanagh has sold for John E. Pye the three-story frame residence, 40x40 feet, situated on eight acres of ground, on the Shrewsbury River at Branchport, N. J., for about $25,000.

Messrs. Phillips & Wells have sold the country seat of Thos. M. Stewart at Spring Valley, N. Y., to J. J. McDavitt for $20,000; also the Hopkins homestead at Hohokus, N. J., to Mrs. Littell for $7,500.

Out Among the Builders.

The Occident Club has invited the following architects to draw plans for the new club-house to be built on the southwest corner of the Boulevard and 72d street, on a plot with a frontage of 115 feet on the Boulevard and 44 feet on 72d street: Messrs. John H. Duncan, Lamb & Rich, Leopold Eidlitz, Berg & Clark, J. C. Cady & Co., R. S. Townsend, Henry F. Kilburn, Fred. T. Camp, Edward Kimball and Wm. Schickel. Each competitor will receive $200 for his work, and the architect whose plan is selected will have the supervision of the building. The designs must be submitted on or before January 10th, to the Building Committee of the Club, which is constituted as follows: Samuel Colcord, chairman; W. B. Putney, Chas. Buek, D. S. Brown, C. W. Luyster, J. T. Farley and John P. Kane. The club-house will be five stories high above the basement and sub-cellar and will contain rooms to be let to members, and bachelors' apartments, in addition to the usual accommodations to be found in first-class club houses. There will also be a separate entrance for ladies, and passenger and freight elevators and steam heat. The cost will be limited to $125,000, and the building is to be completed and ready for occupancy on or before January 1, 1891. The reason given for having so many architects compete is that most of them are members of the club, and it was thought wise to select a few outsiders in addition.

Geo. R. Read will erect, early next year, a first-class six-story brick and stone business building at Nos. 17 and 19 Walker street, on a plot 45x108. It will contain elevators and be steam-heated throughout.

Ed. Wenz is the architect for three five-story semi-fire-proof brown stone brick and Euclid stone flats, to be built for Geo. W. Eggers on the southeast corner of 94th street and 10th avenue, at a cost of $120,000. The corner building, 30x60 feet, will have a store on the first floor and two families on each floor above. The inside houses, 35x70, will accommodate two families on each floor. These flats will have steam heat and all the modern improvements. Mr. Wenz also has plans for two five-story buff brick and brown stone flats, 25x86, to be built for Samuel C. Boehm on the south side of 118th street, 90 feet west of Park avenue, at a cost of $70,000.

Geo. C. Edgar & Son will improve ten lots on the southeast corner of 9th avenue and 94th street by the erection of flats on the avenue and private dwellings on the street.

Patrick Farley is about to build several private houses on a plot of five lots on the north side of 91st street, 275 feet west of 8th avenue.

Andrew Spence will furnish plans for six five-story brick apartment houses, 25x84 feet, to be built on the south side of 53d street, 100 feet east of 11th avenue, for James Meagher, at a cost of $108,000.

John C. Burne has plans for a five-story flat to be built on the south side of 102d street, 160 feet east of 3d avenue, for Michael H. Barry, at a cost of $40,000. The size is 50x90 feet.

The architect of the five-story flat to be built at No. 51 Willett street is Charles Rentz, of the former firm of Rentz & Lange.

French, Dixon & Desaldern are preparing plans for two five-story brick and stone front tenements and stores, 25x90 each, to be built at Nos. 601 and 603 10th avenue for David Crounse.

J. J. Vreeland is preparing plans for a three-story tenement, 22x39.6, to be built at No. 621 East 159th street for H. Otto.

Frederick Lobse is drawing plans for a tenement to be built by Johan G. Hengel at No. 883 Courtlandt avenue.

Wm. Hennessey will build three five-story flats, with stores, on the northeast corner of 10th avenue and 96th street, and two five-story flats adjoining on the street.

E. T. Hatch will erect four or five tenements on a plot of four lots on the southeast corner of 2d avenue and 94th street.

J. C. Burne has plans for a three-story and basement brown stone dwelling, 20x55, to be erected by Frederick Aldhous on the north side of 121st street, 80 feet west of Lenox avenue, at a cost of $18,000.

John Bannon will build five five-story tenements on the southwest corner of 4th avenue and 105th street from plans by J. C. Burne.

F. A. Minuth has plans for altering the house No. 220 East 12th street into a four-story and basement flat for Chas. Jackson, at a cost of $10,000.

F. Wennemer will add one story to the machinery building of Geo. Ringler's brewery on the north side of 91st street, 150 feet east of 3d avenue. The cost will be $7,000.

Geo. E. Beaudet, the builder, finds himself unable to complete his buildings owing to the bad weather recently. He has consequently asked for an extension of time from his creditors. He is building nine flats on St. Nicholas avenue, 118th and 119th streets; six on Lenox avenue, between 113th and 114th streets, and one on 7th avenue and 141st street, the whole costing about $700,000, exclusive of ground. As his general liabilities are said to be only $90,000, the extension is not looked upon in the light of an ordinary failure. He has filed mortgages on the 7th avenue property to secure John W. Haaren, John J. Sperry and other creditors, and mechanic's liens have been filed against him. The creditors, we are informed, have granted an extension of six months time. In the meantime, Messrs. Haaren and Hawkes will carry on the houses toward completion, as managers.

Brooklyn.

Th. Engelhardt has plans for a two-story brick stable, 35x95, to be built on the north side of Van Buren street, 160 feet west of Reid avenue, for A. H. Van Hoesen, to cost $7,000; a four-story frame tenement, 25x65, on the north side of Meserole street, 225 west of Ewen street, for Margaret Wagner, to cost $6,300, and a three-story frame store and tenement, 25x60, on the north side of Gates avenue, 100 west of Central avenue, for M. H. Brunjes, to cost $5,000.

P. J. Lauritzen is preparing the plans for the large store to be built by Henry Offermann. It will occupy nearly the entire front on Fulton street, between Bridge and Duffield streets. Mr. Offermann is a member of the sugar refinery house of Havemeyer & Elder. The firm name of the lessees is understood to be S. Wechsler & Bro. the well-known dry-goods men of lower Fulton street.

Out of Town.

BAYONNE, N. J.—A. F. Leicht has drawn plans for a two-story frame dwelling to be built by A. S. Van Buskirk. It is to be 27x29, with extension 15x12, and will cost about $2,500. The same architect has completed plans for a two-story and attic frame dwelling, which will be 40x41, costing about $5,600, to be built by Mrs. Elsworth.

BATH BEACH, L. I.—J. W. Bailey, of Brooklyn, has drawn plans for a two-story and attic frame cottage to be built by Mrs. Emma Hudson at the northeast corner of Benson avenue and Bay street. It is to be 20x30, with a 15x16 extension, and will cost $3,000.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J.—T. G. Stein has about finished plans for a two-story and attic stone dwelling to be built by J. D. Probst. It will be 48x90, with copper gables, slate roof, cabinet finish and parquette floors, while the roof of the veranda will be supported by terra cotta posts. The cost will be $45,000. The plans include a frame stable, 45x40, to cost $4,000.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y.—The Baptist Society of this place will build a new church, the plans of which have been drawn by H. F. Kilburn. The building will be 73x118, with basement and gallery, and will have a seating capacity of 1,000. It will be built of brick and stone, with granite front and stained glass windows, and is to cost $40,000.

GRIFFINS CORNERS, N. Y.—Theo. G. Stein has plans for a summer residence to be built by Henry Hiack at this place. It will be 40x65, two-story and attic, hardwood finish, and cost $7,500.

MAMARONECK, L. I.—Theo. G. Stein has completed plans for a three-story and attic factory, which will be 68x124. It is to be built of brick and stone, and will cost about $28,000.

NEW DORP, S. I.—Hamilton & Mersereau have finished the plans for a two-story and attic frame store, to be built by Fred'k Helmeyer on 6th street, near New Dorp avenue. It is to be 25x45, with shingle roofs and sides, and will cost about $5,000. They have also drawn plans for a two-story and attic frame Colonial cottage, to be built on the north corner of 3d street and 7th avenue by Hughes & Ross. The house will be 25x35, with shingle finish, and the cost about $4,500.

NEWARK, N. J.—Edward A. Wurth has plans for N. Fishel for a three-story frame tenement with all the conveniences on the corner of Oliver and Pacific streets, at a cost of $6,500; for Salomon Oure, a two-story and basement brick and brown stone dwelling on Boston street near Bank street, at a cost of $8,000; for Charles Kraft a four-story extension, 40x20, and a one-story addition to a brick dwelling, 30x60, on the William street corner of Halsey street, at a cost of $6,000, and for a Mr. Kohler a two-and-a-half-story frame dwelling on Bridgwood avenue, 25 feet north of Alpine street, at a cost of $4,000.

The following is a complete list of the plans filed since December 1st with the Superintendent of Buildings:

The size will be 54x48, with an extension 16x18, and it will cost $15,000.

Special Notices.

The firm of Poulson & Eger, of the Hecla Architectural Iron Works, have been in no wise incapacitated from fulfilling all contracts, notwithstanding the fact of the late fire at their factory in Brooklyn. They have already commenced rebuilding and are making the works larger by the addition of another building, to cover one-half a block adjoining the present premises. When finished this plant will be one of the largest, if not the largest of its kind in the world. A visit to their warehouses at Nos. 216, 218 and 220 West 23d street, New York, will afford a view of some of the handsomest architectural designs in iron, bronze, brass and other metals.

The metal ceilings manufactured by H. S. Northrop, of No. 18 Rose street, of this city, are becoming so popular and are so well recommended by the people who have used them that they deserve not a little attention. They are made of fine corrugated iron, paneled by mouldings, and of embossed steel and tin plate with raised ornamentation. They have been used very largely in the school buildings all over the country, and particularly in this city. The manufacturer has just been awarded the contract for the ceiling in the new school on the corner of 134th street and Lexington avenue, and is now at work putting one in the new Town Hall at Rockville Centre, while orders have been received for two large ceilings at Holyoke, Mass., and one for Boston. The embossed metal ceiling, particularly, is in large demand.

The Architectural Iron Works of H. Stuetzer & Co., No. 71 Van Cott avenue, Brooklyn, are prepared to supply every kind of architectural work needed for buildings, including stairs, skylights, conservatories and ornamental work in iron, bronze and brass. This firm supplied all the iron for the Harlem Opera House and the stairs of the Union Square Theatre, and are at present at work on the new public schools on the corner of Rivington and Lewis streets, 96th street and Lexington avenue, 154th street and Lenox avenue, and High Bridge and West 156th street. They have also manufactured the ornamental iron front for the City Hall in Newark.

Contractors' Notes.

Bids will be received at the Department of Public Parks until 11 A. M., on Wednesday, December 18th, for the rebuilding and placing in proper position the draw-span in the Central or McComb's Dam Bridge over the Harlem River.

Bids will be received at the Department of Public Works until 12 o'clock, Monday, December 23d, for regulating and paving with asphalt pavement on a concrete foundation the carriageway of Broad street, from Wall street to Exchange place; of Wall street, from the westerly crosswalk at Nassau street to the easterly crosswalk at Hanover street, and with the same pavement on the present stone-block pavement the carriageway of 38th street, from 4th to Madison avenue.

Bids will be received at the Department of Public Charities and Corrections until 9.30 o'clock, Tuesday, December 31st, for materials and work required in erecting a hospital pavilion for the New York City Asylum for the Insane, Ward's Island.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

[For Prices see pages v., vii., viii. and x.]

BRICKS.—For Common Hards the market has run along very much in former channels, except that negotiations appear to have progressed somewhat more rapidly and were correspondingly satisfactory. Receipts during greater portion of the week have been fair, at times a little full, yet in one way or another an outlet could be found and about previous rates realized. Very generally, however, we find objection to the use of $7 as a quotation, unless explanation is given that it is the very extreme and obtained only on carefully selected cargoes, generally of well-known make and wanted for some special job, and the same stock if offered under effort to realize and without a handy customer would have to go for a fraction less. The bulk of the inquiry comes from sources that will pass the parcels handled right along into consumption, as in one way or another builders are now getting somewhat anxious to hurry along their jobs, and utilizing every moment of good weather showing itself. Dealers, however, are not altogether neglectful of choice cargoes at comparatively low cost, and quite a number of these are being snugly tucked away by those who have the storing room at command. A greater number of mixed loads are spoken of this week, but there is no special complaint over the average run of quality. Manufacturers are shipping along without much appearance of a break, though a boat dropping out here and there, and buying up is gradually reducing the carrying capacity. Pales have at last broken the steady tone that so long characterized their position upon the market, and are lower. To some extent the demand is less vigorous, but the more direct influence is to be found in a fuller run of supplies and a natural desire to keep the market closely sold up. At $3.50 the top rate is quoted, with most business at $3.35 and some sales as low as $3.00, and very good stock at that price.

LATH.—Sellers found a very steady market, and while the offerings were fuller than might have been expected from the predictions made by receivers there was an outlet secured for all without the necessity of disturbing the previous line of valuation. Slightly distant custom could be discovered as a portion of the demand, but the bulk of selling was to dealers in the immediate vicinity, and the wisdom of receivers leads them to say that the wants of buyers are by no means satisfied as yet. They also calmly repeat the regular weekly prediction, to the effect that the last shipments have been made from the Eastward.

LIME.—There has been just a little excess of supply over demand, probably two or three cargoes, pretty much all the week, but they have been held until custom was ready, and so far as can be discovered no tender of special terms made. Dealers, it is said, are just now busy getting in cement and other material, and feeling no particular apprehension regarding lime are inclined to neglect until a more convenient period for handling.

LUMBER.—The local lumber season has gotten pretty well along into the sere and yellow leaf and there is not much in the way of new trade to be found in any direction. Some of the yards are making fair delivery on contract and occasional moderate orders are booked against unexpected and special necessity, while an offering from first hands of fully attractive character when it can be made is pretty sure to secure attention and command full rates. Demand, however, is on the whole of a rather passive character and not much change is expected until after the turn of the year. The situation, however, is a steady and reasonably cheerful one throughout, as most stocks are well placed here and the offering from primary points is moderate and without evidences of pressure, though there are indications that if goods appeared to be wanted the interior depots would furnish a pretty good amount.

Eastern Spruce, according to the tenor of most reports, does not appear to be in a position of stock seeking a market, but on the contrary it looks very much like a great deal more demand than stock and little chance that any of the latter can become available. Occasionally may be heard an expression of belief that extreme prices ruling will draw out an offering from "somewhere," but chances are all against any such ambiguous locality, or one better located, furnishing any supply for open competition or calculated to meet the open calls. There is claimed to be no stock on hand at shipping points, and all the saws running engaged ahead for the cutting of specials.

Filing is going into consumption at several jobs whenever the weather will permit work, and there is also evidence of desire to obtain additional stock at no distant day. These features and a belief in quite a full call on early spring trade induce a firm holding of stock, and a refusal to offer until buyers are actually ready to negotiate. No important arrivals are expected.

Hemlock remains firm and appears to be meeting with considerable demand in one way or another, and some agents are in very cheerful mood over the situation. They claim there was a great deal of holding off among buyers during the open season hoping for a decline, and after it was determined to commence placing orders transportation difficulties occurred to obstruct transportation and deliveries, and hence there is now a display of anxiety to get stock for wants that have become present instead of prospective.

White Pine has fair proportion of the local consumptive demand, and a good chance occasionally on the export outlet, with no great complaint from dealers. Some of the few agents who remain upon the market trying to place car lots appear to be the most disgruntled, as their impression that the apparent light summer demand meant a good winter trade with dilatory custom does not as yet secure substantiation. On pretty much all grades there is a good steadiness to values, with an inclination to harden on shippers. All accounts from primary sources of late have shown that the cut of the season was fully equal to the demand, in many cases a considerable stock is left over, and that few evidences prevail of any intention to curtail the amount of work in the woods.

Yellow Pine on random demand is not much called for; yet sellers seem to think they could place a considerable quantity if available, without much difficulty. On specials there is more or less figuring, some of it for work not to be commenced before spring, and generally upon a full basis of valuation. In fact the market seems to retain all the elements of strength for which it has been noticeable during the season, and both the wholesale and retail dealers are satisfied with matters as they stand.

Carolina Pine moves fairly and steadily and commands natural bids that render it unnecessary for sellers to resort to any extreme measure to sustain values. There does not appear to be much complaint over quality, and this looks as though manufacturers were careful in preserving a high standard of production.

Hardwoods have a well-supported market and are generally offered with a showing of some indifference, more especially, of course, the standard and attractive grades, including the best of poplar, oak and cherry. Immediate demand and consumption is not very full, but there seems to be a great deal of faith in the future and some of the shrewdest operators are said to be the most confident carriers of stock. Mahogany is firm and retains its general popularity.

Shingles on home account are somewhat slow and the demand only for odd special lots, but some fair export orders can now and then be secured, either for shipment from here or the South, and on all standard grades of cedar and cypress stock values are quite firmly sustained.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman says as follows:

We usually expect a falling off of demand and distribution in the last week of November, and do not look for a resumption of active trade until February. This is the course of events under ordinary conditions. The subsidence of movement this year has, at the majority of points, been rather more sudden than usual, on account of the excessively unfavorable weather that has prevailed. This has been the case in the east, west and south alike.

The outlook is for an early resumption of demand after the new year has come in. Stocks at points of distribution are not excessive, so that when trade again starts up there will be a place for available supplies. The only thing to fear is that the large stocks at many of the mills will be too lavishly supplemented by the winter's input of logs. The woodsmen are going into camp early with the evident intention of putting in a full supply.

Though the cargo business on the Signaw river has not this year been as satisfactory as could have been wished, the car load trade has become such an important means of distribution that the loss of lake movement is not felt so seriously as it otherwise would be. It is thought that the large stocks on hand in the valley would be well worked off by the opening of navigation next year.

As usual after the close of navigation the holders of white pine are figuring on a rise in value. The range of prices of both bulk and assorted stocks has been lower than last year all the season. The dealers have stoutly resisted an advance, and have succeeded in keeping prices from anything like buoyancy. Though their profits have suffered during the summer and fall, they fancy that they have gained a new hold on the market whereby they can reap a future benefit. It is thought that yard prices can be forced up a notch between now and spring, and that the demand will be such as to carry lumber into distribution at the advance. Thus a profit will be secured on sales before the opening of the next sawing and navigation season, when the annual pounding of the market will begin. But it can be seen that the dealers are not possessed of a superabundant faith in the future. They fear the unknown quantity involved in the growth of the yellow pine demand. That has made great strides in this year, and it promises much more for the year to come.

A few cargoes were sold during the week, but the weather had been so bad for several days that dealers were slow to buy. Piece stuff has been sold for ten days at $9.25 to $9.50 for short lengths, and one cargo of all over 20 feet long was sold at $10.37½. Long stuff has probably sold from $10.25 to $10.50.

The market this season closes with piece stuff 75 cents to $1 a thousand lower than it was last year, and long stuff, especially slim jims, proportionally lower. Common inch is said to be about $1 lower than it was last spring, but the figures at the close of the two seasons, when compared, show about an equal range of prices.

The Timberman, in reporting the Chicago yard trade, says:

The Eastern trade has not yielded the results to the Western dealer this year that was anticipated. The reason is that as the West has been gradually divided up between different points, and Chicago's territory in that direction greatly restricted, some of her dealers who never did anything in that direction before, have gone foraging in the East and endeavored to capture a portion of that trade. They have sent salesmen around through the country and in some localities met with a degree of success. But in others they were not so fortunate, and as a Chicago salesman is in the habit of taking orders right along, when he does nothing for several days he naturally gets nervous. The next thing is to drop $1 or $2 a thousand on some classes of stock, which not only eats up profits, but there is every probability that the next man who comes along is also desperate and will go as much under him.

A new price list is still the subject of much talk in the district, but no call has yet been issued for a meeting to consider the matter. It is understood that the general opinion is that some action ought to be taken, but a difference exists as to what that action should be. It is more than probable that if anything is done, it will only be to make some slight changes in regard to such sizes as are in short supply, many of which are now selling above the present list.

The hardware season of 1889 is fast drawing to a close, and at this time of the year no one anticipates a booming trade. But business keeps up with the average in former years, and in some respects is better than usual. Of course the tendency nowadays is toward weak prices rather than strong ones, for stocks are heavy, and many dealers anxious to keep the ball rolling. But no general cutting of prices is indulged in, and the market may properly be said to be in a healthy condition.

The Chicago Timberman says as follows:

Recent storms on the lake have played havoc among the shipping, and the lumber-carrying vessels have suffered with the rest. Navigation has become extremely hazardous, and but few owners are willing to risk their vessels for another trip. The lumber-carrying trade for 1889 is practically over, so far as the lake is concerned.

On the St. Croix River, Minn., the weather has been peculiarly favorable for logging. A considerable amount of snow has already fallen and logging has begun in earnest. The cut will be much larger than was anticipated and there will be a larger number of logs to come down in the spring than for some years past. There were about 110,000,000 feet on hand above the boom before this season began and with a cut equal to last year it is easily seen the amount to come down will be large.

Many of the logging streams in Wisconsin are very low owing to the fact that there has not been a good soaking rain in portions of that State since a year ago in June. Our Chippewa Falls correspondent says that no dependence can be placed on the Chippewa any more and predicts that logging railroads will soon be an absolute necessity in getting out logs in that section.

The loggers who wish to put in camps on the reservations in Wisconsin will feel easier when they learn that the Indian Department has notified Indian Farmer Morgan that orders permitting him to sell the reserve timber are on their way, and as soon as received he can dispose of the timber as he sees fit. A number of camps will doubtless be put in on the reserve, though the amount banked may not be very heavy. The Secretary of the Interior believes that the Indians should do their own logging. For many reasons this will not, in all probability, be realized.

On the Menominee reservation, in Wisconsin, the Indians themselves cut and bank the logs which are sold under the directions of the Indian bureau. Their leading and most progressive men are reported to be unanimously in favor of this method for conducting their logging operations. According to Secretary Noble's report during the last three seasons the sales of timber by the Menominee Indians have amounted to the aggregate sum of $262,900 for 26,270,780 feet of pine, and 1,802,625 feet of less valuable logs cut from the dead and fallen timber and from timber removed in clearing land for cultivation. Of that amount $26,500 has been paid them in cash and $26,400 has been retained as "stumpage fund" for the maintenance of hospitals and for the needs of the poor, old and helpless.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

The weather prophets who promised an open winter are having their promises fulfilled. Meantime skidding goes on, and it is likely to be discovered, whether it be mild or severe for the next two or three months, that about all the logs that are needed have been secured. Last winter was as short, as mild, and in some particulars as unpropitious for logging as winters generally are, but no mill stood idle during the summer, because there were not logs enough cut to stock it. About as sure a thing to gamble on as is offered is that the loggers will get all the logs they need.

Men are being sent into the woods in great number. There is, apparently, no very considerable restriction placed upon the amount of logs to be put in this winter. There is little or no snow in the woods yet, and not a great deal of frost in the ground, but skidding is going on under advantageous circumstances, and whenever the conditions warrant, logs will be banked readily. About the only place where there is any evidence of a curtailed cut is on the Chippewa, where effective organization makes it possible to say, with some assurance of stating the truth, that fewer logs will be cut than have been cut in previous years.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Timber Trades Journal reports:

LONDON.

American Woods.—Black Walnut, Whitewood, Oak, etc.—In all of these there is a very satisfactory trade doing, and it would seem at improving prices; stocks, especially of the lower grades, are now greatly reduced and supplies have fallen off very perceptibly. This, no doubt, is consequent upon the greatly increased rate of freight which the steamship owners are now charging upon these goods.

We understand that the wholesale dealers at the docks have been buying very extensively by private contract, and have secured some prime parcels in anticipation of the now assured rise in prices.

LIVERPOOL.

Among the recent arrivals is the Halden, from Pensacola, with a cargo of sawn pitch pine timber.

This is a good sound cargo of fresh, bright wood. It was offered to-day (Thurs. 'ay) by the above firm of brokers, and nearly all of it found buyers. Some few lots were, however, withdrawn, the bids hardly coming to the values put upon them. Few country buyers were present, the local trade forming much the largest portion of the assembled company.

Considering the heavy stocks of this description of wood now on hand we think fair prices were realized, more especially when due consideration is given to the fact that we are in the early part of the import season for pitch pine.

GLASGOW.

American walnut and white wood logs have been arriving in moderate quantities, from time to time, per steam liners, and have sold freely exquay. The larger squares of whitewood are in particularly good demand.

AILS.—The demand moderate at the moment and without change in form, most buyers making simply average trade selections, and refusing to invest against the future to any extent. The cost of material and well managed production maintain a supporting basis for values, with the stock offered in an indifferent manner generally. We quote at $2.05@2.10 per keg for car lots and $2.15@2.20 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Business is not very active, and the present run of orders evidently represents only the most imperative necessities of buyers. The conditions, however, are seasonable, and carry no influence to affect the general status of the market, as a reasonably healthy undertone prevails for all standard articles, though as usual leads have the most compact support. Linsed Oil gets a due relative proportion of demand, and is selling at 57@58c. for Western, and 60@62c. for City. Spirits Turpentine has found better demand and stimulated by the advices from primary points is firmer in value. We quote at 45½@46c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—It has been a deal almost wholly against natural trade wants and developing little or nothing really new in the general situation. Supplies appear to balance the outlet. We quote Pitch at $1.40@1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.25@2.50, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows
 The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property
 then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller
 particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of judgments the names alphabetically arranged, and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week, and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

Volume of Information ON TIN ROOFS
FREE OF COST.

The difference in cost between the very best tin roof that can be laid and one of the common variety, which is always unsatisfactory, is so small that no one can afford to use the latter. How to order a tin roof intelligently, or how to select material and how to superintend mechanics in laying it so as to secure the best results, is a problem that concerns everyone who has anything to do with a building. Such questions as this and others are very satisfactorily answered in a little pamphlet entitled "A Tin Roof," which has been issued recently by Merchant & Co., of Philadelphia, New York and Chicago, and which is sent to all applicants. It is fully illustrated and contains a very large amount of interesting and valuable matter.—American Elevator and Grain Trade.

Price's Patent Fire-Proof Clothes Line Frame.
To Architects and Builders, please call for Price's Improved Frame.

The frame is built of iron pipe, supported on angle iron which is built into the walls and braced to the same as per cut. In its construction no screws are put through the roof. Positively no leakage. This is the lightest, the most durable and the cheapest frame made. Recommended by leading Architects, and approved of by Building Department.

LUMBER.

Appended quotations are based almost wholly upon prices obtained for goods from first hands. Yard rates necessarily range much higher owing to the expenses attending sorting out and grading cargo and even car lots, besides which must be added the cost of unloading and carrying until consumers are ready to invest. Terms of sale also prove important factors, and, altogether, it is impossible to give a line of retail quotations thoroughly reliable in character.

No. 1,136.

THE RECORD AND GUIDE, this week, contains a sixteen-page Supplement devoted to illustrations of the Paris Exposition and some recent examples of American Architecture. Subscribers should see that they are provided with the Supplement in each copy of the paper. Ten copies of the Supplement will be mailed to as many as ten addresses upon receipt of $1.00, at this office, No. 191 Broadway.

The most encouraging aspect of the stock market during the past week has been a strong undertone, in spite of a rather depressing dullness. Indeed, throughout the whole of the fall this has been true of the general market. Certain specialties such as the sugar trust and the coal stocks have been depreciating in value; others like Union Pacific and the Vanderbilts have ranged strong, but the list in general has simply refrained from moving. If with the new year a general upward tendency is developed some one stock is sure to lead the way. Undoubtedly the principal cause for the failure of the market to respond to the good business conditions has been due to the fear of a tight money market—a fear that is not likely to remain with the coming of January. It is noticeable that the increased business of the railroads is at last beginning to have an effect on the dividends. New York Central has declared an extra dividend of one-half of 1 per cent., Western Union three-quarters of 1 per cent., and Lake Shore is confidently expected to follow suit. Moreover, there is little fear of further Granger legislation in the Western States, for the experience of Iowa has too plainly shown that a State in hampering its railroads is simply cutting off its nose to spite its face. Perhaps, also, we do not quite appreciate the effect of the present English prosperity in the future of our own securities. Large amounts of capital have already been sent over here by English investors, but compared to the amounts of money lying idle in that country awaiting investment, the capital already sent over is insignificant. The political troubles in Brazil and the financial ones in the Argentine Republic will tend to make the British capitalists pay still more attention to this country. This can hardly be called an immediate bull argument, but ultimately the conditions outlined are sure materially to increase the price of our railroad and industrial securities.

The dead-lock that exists in the election for president of the Real Estate Exchange is unfortunate and, in a sense, unnecessary, for the candidates of both parties—Messrs. Geo. R. Read and George H. Scott—are men, either of whom would, without question, make an excellent officer. Both sides would no doubt admit this; and the fact that this does not make the solution of the difficulty easier shows that the basis of the trouble is factional rather than personal, so far as the presidential position is concerned. That the dead-lock has occurred is a surprise equally to both parties, and though it could probably be overcome if either side would support the claims of the vice-president to the higher office, both are right in taking the position that despite the estimable character of that gentleman the president of the Exchange should be a representative member of the real estate interest. It is to be regretted that the directors cannot make a selection for president outside of their own body, and thus make available the first-class material that exists for the position in the membership of the Exchange; such men, for instance, as William W. Astor, who would be able to devote more time and thought to the Exchange and the furtherance of its interests than would be possible with men whose time is almost completely occupied with their business.

The city authorities are again at loggerheads with the electric light companies, and again the city is in darkness. It is needless to point out, at this late day, that this is eminently proper. It furnishes the world with another splendid example of the perfection of our municipal arrangements and the profound respect in which our corporations hold the law and their duties, that when the law is broken and the decrees of the courts set at naught and the life of people endangered in the public thoroughfares, the authorities have only one effective resource open to them, viz.: to employ gangs of men to proceed through the city demolishing property. It is to be hoped that no one will confound this with anarchy, which it somewhat resembles undoubtedly, or with proceedings which hitherto have belonged entirely to a state of war. We all know that most civilized communities enforce their decrees, in these times, principally with the axe; and when a street railroad company refuses to put down proper rails, or a gas company to make proper connections, the municipal authorities in all the great capitals in the world proceed at once to send out their official destroyers on a tour of devastation, and in this way they bring the corporations to terms.

We have at last, it seems, got beyond the stage wherein mere legal processes are effective, or the law in itself has any power to enforce its decrees. The law, indeed, still surrounds pretty closely those unfortunates who are prone to commit petty misdemeanors, but the circle between the law's activity and the activity of corporations is widening rapidly.

The position of New York City in electrical matters is now well worth studying. It is more than instructive. It is so full of the elements of the grotesque, the ridiculous, the absurd, of those very qualities which, as it were, tickle and provoke the mind of the investigator, that it is doubtful whether there has been anything (in its way) so interesting since men first gathered themselves into cities and attempted to govern themselves. We have here a Board of Electrical Control composed of one butcher, one theatrical agent, one lawyer—eminent experts, naturally, in electrical matters; there are subways that no one wants to use; poles in which the public find danger and the companies profit, and consequently which the former would remove and the latter maintain; courts making decisions which other courts upset; coroners investigating deaths without reaching any conclusive decision; grand juries protesting and recommending; the public clamoring; the newspapers denouncing; the streets of the city torn up and in a condition that would disgust the inhabitants of a second-rate town in Asia Minor; the city's departments fighting one another as to who has jurisdiction; and, finally, the city in darkness and men employed hacking down wires and poles. This is the sort of management that would be expected if the Sandwich Islanders were to undertake electric lighting, and is as near to what it should be as a savage's use of the habilaments of modern society is. The condition New York is in is not the result of anything that should be called government. It is the unwholesome product of a despicable system of managing a great city by "politics." Are our most filthy streets, our pavements twenty-five years behind the times, the present darkness in our chief thoroughfares, the corruption like that of which we caught a glimpse lately in the Dock Department, the confusion and inefficiency to be marked in every field of municipal activity the best that can be expected in the metropolis of this Continent? Is it the reflection of ourselves, as government everywhere is the reflection of the people? or is it in a sense an accidental product? New York must decide whether the government of this city is to be a matter of positions and duties or of places and spoils. No man who walks our streets to-day can be so fatuous as to think that the result before his eyes is the outcome of the former.

The latest news from Brazil but confirms the impression created by the first announcement of the overthrow of the monarchy and the establishment of the Republic. There was nothing either heroic or dignified about it from the beginning to the end. The people of Rio Janeiro seemed to take it very much as a matter of course. They neither aided nor interfered with the army in assuming the control of the government; they were simply apathetic. The worst that has been alleged of the ministry was corruption, red-tapeism and a certain irresponsibility. It need scarcely be pointed out that deficiencies such as these are to be found to a greater or to a smaller extent in the governments of all nations; and that a people, which has no other means of correcting them than revolution, is scarcely fitted to assume the responsibilities of self-government. A revolution is justified only when the central authority through the weight of custom or privilege constitutes a bar to the advancement of the people. Nobody has alleged that such a state of things existed in Brazil. The form of government was representative. If the people really desired the overthrow of the ministry, it could have been accomplished by legal means. The fact is, that the apathy of the population was reflected in the inadequacy of their governors. To say that the state of such a country is improved by change to an elective head or a federal constitution, is to mistake the real form of Republicanism for the condition of popular intelligence that alone makes it possible. Brazil, in truth, seems to differ but little in her fitness for Democratic machinery from the Central American Republics, in which, as we all know, it is the merest farce. If, however, the revolution was dignified, it had an element of common sense in it which, though not impressive, was eminently practical. The Emperor sold his crown at a very good price; the ministers, with one exception, submitted to the inevitable in a way that from one point of view is as commendable as it is rare, and throughout the whole transaction business was but little disturbed. As a result there is one Empire the less and one Republic the more; the Emperor has got his memories and his money; the army has got the government, and the people have preserved their peaceful serenity.

The first month of a Congressional session is a sad waste of time. Both the House and the Senate simply dawdle on from day to day, adjourning after a sitting of one or two hours, and frequently letting the sun rise and set before assembling again. Christmas provides a good opportunity for two week's absolute rest; and, consequently, when the first week in January comes, Congress has done nothing except make preparations. Yet, it may be doubted if matters would be improved at all by postponing the date of meeting a month or so. Too much time is taken up in this introductory dawdling, yet it is necessary. The committees have to be appointed, bills prepared and referred, and in general the machinery oiled before being set in motion. If the session began a month later all this would still have to be done, and the only time really gained would be that consumed in the Christmas recess. Legislative bodies in this country are in the position of a stage-coach that has a horse added every mile it travels. Its speed is first hardly perceptible; at the end it is frantic. The easy life of the Congressmen at present is more than counterbalanced by the arduous toils of the last week or so. Neither the dawdling nor the haste are productive of any good, but under present conditions things could hardly be otherwise.

Prejudice in the Treatment of State and Municipal Works.

The unwarranted prejudice with which, as a rule, any movement in the direction of extending the field of government activity is viewed by the public press of this country greatly hinders the adoption and the carrying forward of various needed reforms. This prejudice usually finds expression under the cover of an argument which is employed for the purpose of lending seeming justification to the position which the biased minds of many newspaper editors lead them to take. Every imperfection, however small, discovered in the working of a business or institution placed on trial under government control is presented by these prejudiced journals as if it were sufficient reason why the whole system should no longer exist. In other words, a defect is found in the operation of some government business or institution, and it is considered as a conclusive argument why the entire system of control should be abolished. The alternative that a defect in the operation of a business under public control might possibly be remedied seems never to be conceived, and the reader is led to infer, if indeed not plainly told, that it is final evidence of the utter inability of the government to perform such undertakings.

This line of reasoning is so palpably false that it is difficult to understand how the thinking public can be so generally deceived by it. If the same faulty logic were employed by the press in dealing with the businesses and institutions under private control every time a hitch occurred in the working of that system, our present industrial order would be subjected to such rounds of denunciation that Mr. Bellamy's dream of the nationalization of all industry might not seem so improbable of realization as it does at the present time.

Even journals of the highest standard, professing independence in the treatment of all questions considered, find themselves often, unconsciously it may be, employing this same false line of argument. Take as a fair representative of the journals in this country, which aim to give impartial treatment to social and economic subjects, the Christian Union, and note how this deceptive argument is used in the editorial columns of that journal to bolster up a natural prejudice against State universities. In the recent discussion arising over the teaching by Prof. H. C. Adams of certain doctrines in the University of Michigan, which did not receive the indorsement of the Republican members of the Legislature of that State, the Christian Union at once presented this attempt to discourage the free expression of opinion as an argument against the existence of State universities. When, however, during the same political campaign, President Hyde, of Bowdoin College, freely expressed his views on the tariff question, thereby cutting off from that institution certain strong support, this same journal in commenting upon the fact did not employ it as an argument against the continuation of private endowed educational institutions, as indeed with equal justice it could have done, and in fact to be consistent and impartial it should have done.

Examples similar to the above of unfairness and inconsistency induced by prejudice are numerous. Take one more. About three years ago the City of Richmond granted a charter to a private company to build an electric street railway, the operation of which in the start was so satisfactory that the newspapers of that and other cities were loud in its praise, and it was pointed to as a living refu-tation of the assertions of those who advocate the incompetency of private corporations to operate economically natural monopolies. To-day the Richmond electric railroad is in the hands of a receiver. The track was soon found to be constructed of poor material, the cars were kept dirty and leaked badly. The combined stocks and bonds invested per mile in this road amounted to less than $75,000, yet the company upon their own confession made $205,000 in sixteen months. Do we hear of these same newspapers denouncing private control of street railways since their model has fallen to pieces? Not by so much as a suggestion, so far as can be learned. Were the same fate to attend the operation of an electric railway under municipal control, a hundred newspapers in the country would at once herald the fact in bold head-lines condemning the entire system.

If the daily press would treat the operations of private and of public control with equal fairness, few cities in this country would be content to allow their street cars, waterworks, gas and electric lights to remain longer under corporation control. As it is, not only, as has been shown above, are the small imperfections in the operation of works under State and municipal control greatly exaggerated by the press, but it is only in exceptional instances that their successful workings are ever announced. It is proved by the experience of every city in this country that has ever tried municipal electric lights, that cities can furnish themselves with light very much cheaper than can private corporations, yet few of the reading public know this fact. To be exact, careful investigation shows that the cities which run and operate their own electric lights provide themselves with this convenience at an average of 13.9 cents per arc light per night, while seventy-five of our principal cities pay an average price of 45.1 cents to private companies for the same light—over three times as much. Investigations concerning the workings of municipal gas and waterworks are quite as conclusive. Obviously, when the question of public or private control comes up for consideration, the only legitimate method of treatment is to throw aside prejudice and compare fairly the workings of each system.

At the bottom of the hostility manifested from time to time in this country to immigration, there has been principally the selfishness of "labor"—the desire of this class (a desire not confined to it alone) to "protect" itself at the expense of others. The press, which has a predilection for the popular side of most matters, has supported labor in its opposition to immigration; and, as our legislators are seldom disinclined to play the demagogue when the role makes votes, there is little wonder that many restrictive measures have been put on the statute books that should never have been put there. The worst of these is the Chinese Exclusion act. Quite apart from the merits of the measure, there is no doubt that in passing it Congress forgot its own dignity and the courtesy due to a friendly people, and mainly for political reasons acceded to an agitation that was sectional and selfish. Even granting that the measure is in the main a necessary one, many of its features are not only unwise but offensive, and it is to be hoped that our people will support the action of the Chamber of Commerce in this city in recommending practically a reconsideration of the act. Their support, however, may be given from higher and stronger reasons than those which induced that body to address President Harrison, viz.: "That the Chinese Exclusion act has had a restrictive effect upon our trade with China." Statistics do not show that our trade with that country is not growing as rapidly as our trade is with other countries with which there are the same commercial possibilities; and what Russell & Co. recently said of American trade in Canton is true for China generally: "We can point to no direct tangible suffering inflicted on American interests in consequence of the law. The masses know little of international relations, and will buy anything suited to their needs without question of its origin."

Trade is not a matter of sentiment but of interest, especially in these days when nations are perfectly willing to supply each other—at trade prices—with arms that may possibly be used against themselves. China is ready to sell to us all that we need of the merchandise she produces, if we will pay a satisfactory price for it, and if we have cotton cloth and other commodities to sell upon more favorable terms to the buyer than those offered by our competitors, the fact that we as a nation have been badly mannered and narrow minded will not deter purchasers. This fact is proved by statistics. In 1877 we imported goods from China to the value of $11,130,495 and exported thither about $2,000,000 worth. In 1887, ten years later, our imports were valued at $19,076,789 and our exports at $6,246,626, in spite of the great decline in prices that had occurred during the decade. The increase in the imports was about 72 per cent. and in the exports over 200 per cent. Now let us compare these figures with those of our trade with Japan during the same period, which country we had not offended by any special legislation.

In 1877 our imports from Japan were $13,687,000 and our exports

$1,250,000. In 1889 our imports were $17,114,181 and our exports $3,300,000, an increase of about 31 per cent. in imports and in exports of about 160 per cent. Obviously the Chinese Exclusion act has had little effect on our commerce. But the act is based on false premises, on prejudice and the selfishness of a class, and for these reasons it should have no place on the statute books of a nation that was created by immigration and boasts that it is an asylum for all people. Russell & Co., in their letter to the Chamber of Commerce, say that the emigrating class of Chinamen are morally well intentioned and law abiding, and go abroad with the idea of bettering their condition and saving a competence for their declining years. Can more be said of any other class of our immigrants? The Chinese are more cleanly than most of the people that flock annually to this country. They are, generally speaking, much more industrious and, to quote from the letter already referred to, "in skilled manual labor, where dexterity is essential, they need fear no competitors." The only objection that remains is that that they do not intend to remain in this country, but after a few years return home with their savings. This is urged against them as though it were robbery—they take some of our precious 72-cent dollars out of the country. No mention is made of what they have given in return for these dollars, in labor, which we must infer was satisfactory to those who paid for it.

Men and Things.

The particular line of goods now being displayed at the Lyceum Theatre does not differ essentially from that which so pleased the public taste the year before last; and the manufacturers thereof, Messrs. Belasco and De Mille, are to be congratulated on their skill in weaving a commodity of such unfailing popularity. An endeavor ought to be made to allow the goods to be displayed on Sunday evening, for, from a moral point of view particularly, they are most excellent and are as much deserving of attention as most of the sermons delivered from the various pulpits in New York City. I do not believe any truly moral person could leave the show-room without being grateful to the manufacturers for inculcating in a place that is too often erroneously used to give expression to pagan ideas, such excellent and profound moral precepts as "Love your brother," "Be charitable," "Cast not away the love of a good woman," "Do not surrender yourselves to worldly ideas." It is comforting to think that our country, with already one great moral show in Mr. P. T. Barnum's circus, has now another one equally as exemplary. I suggest as a further application of the same methods that the walls of the Lyceum Theatre be decorated with texts, that the programmes contain each week one of those admirable sermons of Dr. Watts, which contained, as the author insisted, "nothing which could bring a blush to the cheek of modesty," and that two boxes be reserved every night for the leading divines of the city in the way of trade courtesy.

Like other manufacturers, Messrs. Belasco & De Mill have their materials and their market. Their materials consist of the following ingredients, mixed in due proportion: a large quantity of unseasoned morality, "stalking unchecked" through every act, a smaller quantity of wickedness and weakness, inseparably connected with a low-necked dress and evening necktie, and with a tendency to hide its head in such good company, and a certain amount of broad humor divided to the exclusive advantage of four people, two young simpletons and two old simpletons. The stock of morality falls principally to the share of the leading gentleman and leading lady. The majestic figure of Mr. Herbert Kelcey is always shrouded in a sort of a dim religious atmosphere. Invariably he takes the part of a man who possesses, like the good little Sunday-school boy, a certificate for every virtue under Heaven. Miss Cayvan is the good angel who mixes with her goodness a graceful womanly tenderness and a subdued style of acting. The rest of the large stock of morality is scattered in comparatively small bits throughout the whole company. The wickedness and weakness, too, are shared among two offenders, Nelson Wheatcroft and Grace Henderson; but it is plain that the manufacturers are not enough accustomed to this sort of thing to handle it with the same skill with which they manipulate the morality. The humor, as I have said, is practically monopolized by a quartette. It consists partly of slang and partly of some rather broad allusion, and is used to relieve the audience from an otherwise burdensome amount of goodness and wickedness. In the Charity Ball, though not in "The Wife," a small quantity of toddling infancy was introduced, but this was obviously a concession to a mere temporary fashion. These materials are in general skillfully, though unevenly handled, and the effect is enhanced by a clever use of scenic accessories. The goods, moreover, are very cleverly advertised, and considering that they are harmless no one need begrudge them their success in spite of their light-weight character.

"Aunt Jack" would make an excellent play for a clever low comedian actress to star in, but it is inappropriate in the Madison Square Theatre and with the Madison Square company. It is a farcical comedy of the broadest kind, and was placed on the stage only to give Mrs. Agnes Booth a chance once more to prove the diversity of her powers. The rest of the company, while some of them have character parts which give them some little opportunity of display, are of comparatively little importance. Undoubtedly it is a clever thing—rather more appropriate to London than New York, but still laughable enough amply to repay a visit. Some of the best members of the company are missing in the cast, however, and one's general feeling is that it did not come up to the standard set by past performances in the theatre.

In 1852 the block bounded by 5th and Madison avenues, 78th and 79th streets, now owned by Henry H. Cook, sold for $3,000. The latter paid $575,000 for it on August 19, 1889, an increase of over 19,000 per cent. The block fronts on Central Park.

H. R. WILLIAMS & CO.

Jersey City.

There has been a slackening off during the past few days in real estate and building activity. This appears to be due to the approach of the Christmas and New Year holidays, which are always a signal for temporary quietude in the market in this city as in other places. Both realty and building will, however, make a fair showing after 1890 has been ushered in, and it is anticipated by the real estate brokers and agents, as well as the architects seen, that next spring will be more active than for years past.

The latest news among the architects and builders is meagre. Of the former very few have orders to prepare new plans. Most of their efforts are directed toward finishing up work in hand. Among the latest plans for buildings to be commenced early next year are the following:

A children's home for the Sisters of Peace, to be erected on York street, near Washington street. It is to be a five-story and basement building, with a front of brick and stone. The basement will have a steam laundry, boiler-room, storerooms, etc.; the first-story a school-room and dining-room for children, and the second story a dining-room for destitute and other women, as well as a working-room, bathrooms and sleeping rooms. The third and fourth stories will have wards for boys and girls, while the top floor will be laid out as a playroom. The building will be 25x100 in size, and of inexpensive construction, and will be built from plans by Architect Louis H. Giele.

Oliver J. R. McPherson will have a brick house owned by him on the southeast corner of Washington and Sussex streets turned into a five-story flat at a cost of $16,000. Each floor will have six rooms and a bath, size 25x49 in all. Plans are being prepared by E. Simon.

G. L. Bettcher is drawing plans for two six-story tobacco and snuff factories and warehouses, 50x150 each, to be built for Geo. W. Helme, at Helmetta, N. J. They are to be 50x150 each in size and will cost about $30,000. The same architect is preparing plans for a two-and-a-half-story ornate frame cottage, which F. Mollenhauer intends building at Congers, N. J., at a cost of $4,500.

Plans are being prepared by L. H. Giele for the following new buildings: Two three-story, attic and basement private houses, to be erected for Henry E. Niese, on the west side of Jersey avenue, near Mercer street, to cost $15,000, the first story and basement to be of stone and the front above to be of cream-colored brick with stone trimmings; three two-story and basement frame dwellings, 16.8x52 each, to be built for Carl Roempler, on the south side of Wylie street, near Tunnelle avenue, to cost $7,000, and a two-story stable, 25x100, and a one-story storage and feed warehouse, 30x100, adjoining, both to be built on the north side of Grand street, near Pacific avenue. The latter will be 25 feet high and will be of iron and brick construction.

Sketches have been prepared by E. Simon for the following improvements: A five-story brick and stone front tenement, 25x74, to be built for J. Kelly, on the north side of Sussex street, between Warren and Washington streets, at a cost of $12,000; three two-story and basement frame dwellings, to be built for H. Bremer, on the west side of Arlington avenue, near Bay View avenue, to cost $6,000; three three-story frame dwellings, 16.8x65 each, to be built on the east side of Manning avenue, near Grand street, for J. J. Ross, to cost $7,500, and a three-story tenement, 25x40, to be built on the south side of Grand street, near Manning avenue, for G. Bannon, to cost $4,500.

The new brick Round House, for which plans have been filed by the Pennsylvania Road, is to occupy the entire block bounded by Railroad, Newark and Waldo avenues and Mercedes street. It will be 75x360 in size and is to be used for storing engines. The plans have been drawn by the company's engineer. The building is to be one-story high and the cost is stated at $54,000, a figure which is said to be greatly underestimated. The park now on the site known as Mount Pleasant will, of course, be obliterated by the improvement.

The following are the principal plans recently filed with the Building Inspector:

One 1-sty fr church, 44x85, cor Grand st and Manning, Geo. R. McKenzie, for the blind preacher, $6,000; one 3-sty fr tenem't, 20x43, at 136 Jackson av, for Lewis B. Folly, $3,300; three 2-sty and basement fr dwgs, 14x38 each, Boyd av nr Bergen av, $5,700, for Samuel Cosgrove; three 3-sty fr dwgs 16.8x40, Vau Nostrand place, for L. Laughran and E. McMahon, $6,600; five 2-sty fr dwgs, 18x43 each, cor Cook st and Hoboken av, J. H. Cook, $9,500; three 3-sty fr dwgs, 16.8x60 each, cor South st and Webster av, for John Collins, $9,500; one 2-sty fr dwg, 22x36, at 292 Webster av, H. W. Shaeffer, $3,200; one 5-sty fr tenem't, 25x68, at 128 St. Paul's av, D. Mullins, Jr., $4,500.

For the first time in the history of Jersey City building, statistics have been compiled showing the number and estimated cost of buildings for which plans have been filed. The work has just been completed by Building Inspector Clarke, and the results, in tabulated form and in detail, are shortly to be embodied in a report of the Board of Trade. We are enabled to give the principal items in advance. They show the figures for each month for the two years ending November 30, 1889, and are as follows:

The Acquisition of School Sites.

So far back as November 17, 1888, THE RECORD AND GUIDE, in an interview with ex-Corporation Counsel Beekman, threw some doubt upon a new law which made it necessary for the city to acquire such private properties as might be required for school sites by condemnation proceedings, instead of obtaining them in the manner which then prevailed; that is, by direct negotiation between the department and the owners of such properties. The new law has been in operation less than a year, and already its unwisdom is apparent. For not only does it take longer to acquire the property, but the cost of acquiring it is increased. It is said that a movement is on foot among the city officials to have the law repealed or amended.

Corporation Counsel Clark, when called upon by a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, said: "It is not my duty to state whether any law is good or bad. I am not aware that proceedings have been taken by any of the city departments to obtain legislation to go back to the old system or to amend the present one. The cost is certainly greater under the present system than it was to acquire title under the old system. If two lots are wanted in the 23d or 24th Ward that will cost $2,500, the same expenses will be involved as in acquiring title to a parcel worth $50,000, $75,000 or more in the lower wards. The time involved in acquiring property under the present system is probably longer than under the old system, though this is not so in every case. It was possible under the latter system to come to terms with the owner in a few weeks, whereas under the present system at least three months would be necessary. In one case over nine months had been necessary."

"Is it a fact," asked the reporter, "that the city has taken property for school sites before payment of the awards have been made to the owners, without interest being allowed from the date the city took possession to the time it will pay the award?"

"That is so," replied the Corporation Counsel. "The statute is peculiar. It gives the city four months after the confirmation of the commissioners' report in which to pay the owners for the property. During this time the owners are deprived of their rent; nor do they receive interest."

"Is this not an injustice?" asked the reporter. "Is it not, indeed, unconstitutional?"

"It is not my place to say so off-hand," was the reply.

An officer high in the government of the city, characterized it as a "hardship upon the property owners affected."

In the interview with Mr. Beekman last year, the reporter made an effort to get at the reason for adopting the new system. He asked:

"Was it to avoid possible collusion between the negotiators, or was it on account of the excessive prices demanded by real estate owners for sites when they learned that their property was wanted for public purposes?"

Mr. Beekman's answer was: "My impression is that the law was passed to save the delay which was occasioned under the old system. The city will now be able to place its hand upon sites and secure them speedily and without difficulty." This statement must be accepted as official, for Mr. Beekman knew the motives which prompted the city officials in changing the system. In the light of the italicized words, the new system is practically a failure.

The law certainly requires amendment.

New Member.

Isaac Blumberg, of 111 East Broadway, has been proposed as a member of the Real Estate Exchange by Charles Wolinsky.

A Land Boom in New Utrecht.

New Utrecht, in Kings County, is just at present enjoying a sort of Western land boom. Within the last few weeks 402½ acres of land have been purchased by different parties at an expenditure of about $564,900. Many rumors are afloat as to the cause for the large market for New Utrecht unimproved property so suddenly developed, and one of the stories current, which is more or less believed in, is that the Cortelyou farm, sold a week ago by Edward Egolf, is now in the possession of a New York syndicate who are trying, with some prospect of success, to induce the government to purchase it and use it as a site for a new Navy Yard. The following is a list of some of the sales reported and the prices said to have been paid:

Farms.	Acreage.	Price.
Cortelyou.....	130	$182,000
Sharp.....	11	15,400
Cropsey.....	30	42,000
Gelston.....	9	12,600
Stevenson.....	40	56,000
Gubner-Sieger.....	60	91,500
Suydam.....	47	63,450
Du Bois.....	12	16,200
Martin.....	16	24,000
Aaron Lott.....	47½	61,750
Total.....	402½	$564,900

Among other important sales is that of between fifty-nine and sixty acres to Hoik D. Campbell, with Friedlander & Co., of No. 377 Broadway. The property runs from Ovington avenue to 86th street, in the centre of which is 13th avenue. The price paid was about $91,000, the cost being $1,525 per acre. Mr. Campbell has also purchased the Englebert lot for $12,000.

Two Up-town Houses.

NEAR RIVERSIDE DRIVE.

[COMMUNICATED.]

The march of improvement in some up-town sections is slower than in others. This has been especially the case on the Riverside Drive and on plots contiguous to its frontage. Why this superbly-located ground should have been so long neglected is a marvel. It is especially surprising in view of the fact that business is encroaching more and more upon the fashionable quarters down town and that people are consequently being forced to move up town and further away from the old centres.

Along the line of Riverside Drive there is beginning at last to be a movement toward the erection of handsome residences. Land can be bought there at comparatively low prices now, but five or six years hence double the figures at present paid will have to be given for many a plot on the streets that branch off from that Drive. A number of wealthy people are already taking up their abode there, and there is no doubt but what the number will have largely increased in a few years. The location is too fine and too healthy, with its splendid water breezes, not to be appreciated.

Among the most recent improvements on the Drive are the houses of Mr. F. Foster on 102d street, James A. Dearing on 103d street, and other fine modern residences. Indeed, whatever improvements there have recently been made on and contiguous to Riverside Drive they have mainly centred near the 104th street "L" road station. Other handsome residences have been built on the sidestreets, among them being two three-story, high stoop houses just completed for the market, and which strikes the eye of the passer-by. They have been built and are owned by Robert B. Baird, and have an attractive and artistic exterior and interior. The front of the first story and basement is of Scotch sandstone, while the front above is of light Tiffany brick. The houses have arched windows with mosaic glass transoms. The windows are supported on stone panels finely carved in a design of leafwork, with a central vase laden with fruit, while the handcourses running along the upper stories are carved in bas-relief. The roof is tiled and is crowned with gables.

Ascending the high box stoop we enter the vestibule, which is finished in antique oak. The entrance door to the vestibule is also of oak, with marble panels—quite a novel idea. The floor is tiled and the ceiling decorated. The hall is entered through an oaken door and has a ceiling and wainscoting in oak, with a handsome hall lamp.

The reception-room is entered through folding doors. It is a fine room with a square window, having an elliptic head transom. The room is trimmed in mahogany and has a handsome mantel, mirror and fireplace. The foyer is spacious and well arranged and is trimmed in oak. The walls are painted and the ceilings decorated. The dining-room has two windows, with mosaic glass transoms, and is also trimmed in oak. The plan of the second house varies. In lieu of a foyer the floor is run straight through en suite, while the dining-room has three windows, two of which are entirely in mosaic stained glass. The windows are each of different size, and the effect of the harmonious blending of rich colors in these windows is very pleasing. There is a handsome bouffé in each house, as well as a dumb-waiter connecting the dining-room with the kitchen. The floors on the first story are parqueted.

The upper rooms are approached in the one house from a grand stairway in the foyer, and in the other from a stairway in the hall. The arrangement of the second and third floors in each house is somewhat similar. The second floor contains a large square bedroom overlooking the Hudson and the Palisades, and is a cheerful, pleasant chamber. The rear bedroom is communicated with by means of a double saloon, which is unusually large, and which has folding doors, so as to divide one part of the saloon from the other. Mirrors surround this saloon, and closet room is supplied in abundance. There is a fine bathroom adjoining.

The top floor is unusually well appointed. The mosaic stained glass transoms, which are such an attractive feature throughout these houses, appear in the windows on that floor. There are several bedrooms, a store-room, etc., and the outlook over toward the Palisades is superb.

The kitchen and basement dining-room have all the modern appointments, including fine ranges, encased in tile walls. Taken as a whole, both in the interior and exterior, these houses are fully worthy of high mention. They have excellent plumbing, the workmanship is first class, and the location is unsurpassed. LYNX.

Enhancement of Values.

In connection with the increase in price asked for by S. T. Meyer for a plot of lots on Park avenue, 33d and 34th streets, condemned as an armory site, the following item taken from THE RECORD AND GUIDE, of July 6th last, may help to explain his method of procedure to bring about enhancement of values:

AGAIN IN THE FAMILY.

In June, 1888, S. T. Meyer sold a plot, 48x117.6, on the south side of 34th street, 141 feet west of Lexington avenue, for $65,000 to George W. Vultee. The latter filed plans two months later for a seven-story flat, to cost $120,000. Among the transfers filed during June is one conveying the above-mentioned property to Arthur L. Meyer, a son of S. T. Meyer, for $250,000, or $65,000 over and above what the land and building cost according to the official filing. Mr. Vultee is engaged by the law firm of Hoadley, Lauterbach & Johnson.

Mr. Meyer bought the block bounded by Lexington and Park avenues, 33d and 34th streets, containing thirty-four lots, in May, 1887, from the New York & Harlem Railroad Company. He has since sold or rather transferred about fifteen of the most easterly lots for a total of $377,600; so that if he gets $650,000 from the city for the balance it will make a total of $1,027,600 for the block, or more than double what it cost him in 1887. If the city allows him $400,000 for the lots, at which sum they were offered, Mr. Meyer will have realized $777,600 for a block which cost him only $500,000. How many of the foregoing sales are like the Vultee transaction remains to be seen.

Real Estate Exchange Matters in Brooklyn.

Another meeting was held on Wednesday, at No. 30 Court street, to consider further as to the Exchange question. Messrs. Moody, Ziegler, Granger, Peters, Linton and Gaynor in behalf of new subscribers, and Messrs. Wyckoff, Johnson, Jr., and Haviland in behalf of the Exchange were present.

Mr. Linton, who has at every meeting urged the formation of a new Exchange and the ignoring of the old, again came to the front with a proposition that an entire new organization be formed unless the five-share subscribers were forced out of the Exchange or compelled to increase their subscriptions to $1,000 each. Mr. Gaynor thought that $500 should be the minimum figure for Brooklyn if the New York rates was $1,000, but Messrs. Zeigler and Moody were induced to take the Lintonian view of the matter.

Messrs. Johnson, Jr., Wyckoff, Ferry and Haviland, in behalf of the Exchange, insisted that no injustice would be done to any new subscriber, as a five-share man would have but five votes, while a twenty-share subscriber would have twenty votes; they also maintained that a failure to unite because of this trivial matter would be very unwise. Other projects were discussed by the gentlemen representing the new element, among them being a plan to organize a corporation to be called the "Brooklyn Exchange," omitting the words "Real Estate." It was suggested that there were several such Exchanges in Brooklyn—the principal business of which seemed to be the sale of spirituous liquors.

Another project discussed with much seriousness was one to form a corporation in which members and not stockholders should control. It was shown, however, that this was not only impracticable but not warranted by the law.

After considerable discussion and the seeming overlooking of the fact that the subscription papers circulated are for "shares of stock of the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited), providing the capital stock shall be $50,000," the meeting decided to appoint Messrs. Moody, Johnson, Jr., Granger and Gaynor a committee to meet a committee of the Exchange to see whether a union could be effected and on what basis.

A meeting of stockholders of the Exchange was held Wednesday evening and the position taken by gentlemen representing the new element was freely and fully discussed in a spirit calculated to bring about unity if possible. Mr. Sidney Rowland, a five-share subscriber, declared that he would match Mr. Linton's $2,000 subscription and double it if he (Linton) was disposed to do so.

The stock of the Exchange was increased to $250,000 and by-laws amended to allow one person to hold 1,000 shares, in accordance with the request of the new element, but the secretary was instructed not to file the verified report of increase with the Secretary of State unless the new subscribers manifested a determination to unite before December 26th. This course was taken to protect the present organization.

Messrs. Haviland, Wyckoff, Ferry, D. P. Darling and Rowland were appointed a committee to meet the Moody Committee on Friday and to report at an adjourned meeting of stockholders to be held Monday evening next.

The Real Estate Exchange has $4,000 on deposit in the Franklin Trust Company, and will decide on Monday as to what course to pursue.

Real Estate Exchange Notes.

The newly-elected Board of Directors of the Real Estate Exchange met on Monday last at 2 P. M. to organize and elect officers. Myer S. Isaacs, first vice-president, occupied the chair.

The main business was the election of officers. This did not proceed further than two nominations for the presidency of the Exchange. On a ballot it was found that six votes had been cast for Geo. R. Read and six for Geo. H. Scott, there being one blank. The result was that another ballot had to be taken, when the same vote was declared. Ballot after ballot was taken without any change in the vote until the ninth ballot had been cast. It was evident by this time that the deadlock could not be broken, and on motion the meeting adjourned, Messrs. Brown, Cammann, Isaacs, Luyster, Read, Schermerhorn and Smyth voting for, and Messrs. Deeves, Fromme, Harnett, Johnson, Scott and Warren against. There being seven ayes and six noes the meeting was declared adjourned.

No call for a second meeting of the directors of the Exchange has as yet been made, and this is of even more importance than may appear if merely the presidential question is considered, in view of the fact that on the 24th inst. the bond of the treasurer expires, and it is very likely that no business will be done after that date by the present officials. Of course it is possible that another call for a meeting of directors will be made in time to elect the necessary officers. If the dead-lock continues, however, the question will arise whether the other officers can be elected to transact the business of the Exchange unless a president is also selected.

The following additional subscriptions have been received on the Exchange: Per F. R. Houghton—C. F. Wildey, $1,000; Francis Crawford, $500; J. S. Robinson, $500; A. B. Prentice, $100; G. W. English, $100; J. H. Hunt, $50; J. Winkler, $50; A. S. Kalisher, $25. Total up to date about $63,000.

A $1,900,000 Lease.

For some time past negotiations have been progressing between Robert and Ogden Goelet and a host of hotel proprietors and others, with the object of leasing their new building on the southeast corner of Broadway and 32d street. The Messrs. Goelet have now signed a twenty years' lease with the managers of the Hotel Bartholdi, on Broadway and 23d street, Messrs. Robert Stafford and Harry Prescott Whitaker. The latter, with the lessors, are now arranging with Architects McKim, Mead & White for most elaborate interior decorations and furniture of special design, the whole to be done by the owners of the property, the cost being estimated at upwards of $200,000.

The terms of the lease are as follows: The first year, $60,000; the second, $70,000; the third, $80,000; the fourth, $90,000, and the remaining sixteen years, $100,000 per annum. This is a total of $1,900,000 for the twenty years, an average of $85,000 per annum.

One of the leasees, when called upon by a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, said that the interior will be more elaborate than anything to be seen in any hotel in the country, and that the building will be opened for occupancy on September 1, 1890, from which date the lease commences. It will be managed on the European plan.

Notes and Items.

The Barber Asphalt Paving Co. have the contract for regulating and paving with asphalt pavement on present Macadam pavement, the Boulevard, from 59th to 79th street. The contract price is $188,810.

Notice is given by the Corporation Counsel that application will be made to the Supreme Court on Friday, January 10th, for the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the matter of the opening and extension of Bethune street, between Greenwich and Hudson streets.

The Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the matter of acquiring title to that part of East 159th street, extending from Railroad avenue east to 3d avenue, give notice that the completed assessment list has been deposited with the Commissioner of Public Works, there to remain until the 24th day of January, 1890, and that the said report will be presented to the Supreme Court for confirmation on February 7th.

The Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the matters of acquiring title to that part of East 148th street, extending from Railroad avenue east to 3d avenue, and to that part of College avenue extending from Morris avenue to East 146th street, give notice that the costs and charges incurred in the above entitled matters will be presented to the Supreme Court for taxation on December 30th, at $10.30 A. M.

By the decision of Judge O'Brien, the Brooklyn Bridge trustees will have power to condemn property adjoining the Brooklyn Bridge on the New York side, and use it for better facilities of approach.

The decision by Judge Patterson in the case of Schermerhorn versus F. A. Thurston and others, will result in Patrick Farley losing $17,000, should the upper court sustain the Judge's ruling. The case arose through Farley having paid off a mortgage of $17,000 on a Madison avenue parcel of property before it was due to Bedell, at the time the latter was mortgaging clerk for Shipman, Barlow, Larocque & Choate. Bedell gave Farley a satisfaction piece and delivered to him a forged bond. Shipman, Barlow & Co. produced the genuine bond in court and held that Bedell was not authorized by them to receive the amount of the mortgage before it was due. Judge Patterson sustained this opinion. Farley's attorneys, Messrs. Field & Deshon, have appealed the case.

The Block Indexing Bill—Its Present Status and the Opposition to It.

It is now some six months since Governor Hill signed the bill passed by the last Legislature "to provide for recording and indexing instruments affecting land in the City of New York according to city blocks or other limited areas." This measure was to take effect immediately, although it did not go into operation until January 1, 1891. During this five months nothing has been done. The Board of Taxes and Assessments upon the passage of this act were directed to prepare the necessary maps, and the Register, upon the filing of the maps, to prepare the necessary books; and it was further the duty of the Mayor, under the Consolidated act, to see that all bills passed by the Legislature affecting this city should be put promptly into effect. This the Mayor did not do in respect to the Block bill. After this totally unwarrantable delay of five months, the matter was forced upon the observation of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment by a report of Commissioner Coleman, asking, as he should have done long before, for the money necessary to prepare the books. Although the board had no option in the matter of appropriating the money, the Register nevertheless objected on the grounds of expense. The number of papers recorded in his office, he said, was increasing, and more clerk hire was needed. The bill would necessitate a still further increase. The attention of the board, however, was called to the fact that an additional fee of twenty-five cents was to be charged for every block under which an instrument was indexed—a sum which would certainly be sufficient to pay for any additional clerk hire. The matter was then referred to the Comptroller with instructions to draw the necessary report.

This was a few weeks ago. Since that time the Comptroller at last made his report, and $10,000 has been appropriated for the preparation of the maps. In the bill far too much time was given to do this work. It should have gone into operation in the January of 1890, instead of 1891. But, even so, it is above all things desirable that the work should be well under way before the Legislature meets, in order to put a check upon any further amendment or repealing of the act. When the length of time before the bill should go into operation was extended, first to six months and then to a year from the coming January, there was a grave suspicion that this was done in order to give an opportunity for a repeal or for some amendment that would practically nullify its provisions. If there is any further delay in preparing the maps and books this suspicion would seem to be fully warranted, and the greatest vigilance should be exercised to prevent the passage of any enactment that would nullify the effect of the present bill.

It has been a long fight to make the advance we have made, or think we have made, in land transfer reform. Opposition has arisen from three quarters—the lawyers, the title companies, and the politicians—all of whom were benefited by the present cumbersome methods of searching. Lately the first of these classes have acquiesced in the reform, because they cannot compete with the plant possessed by the title guarantee and trust companies; but the politicians and the title companies have fought the reform from the first.

It was in 1884, after some agitation, the Legislature passed an "Act to provide for the appointment of commissioners to prepare and report to the Legislature a bill to facilitate and lessen the expenses of the transfer of land." The necessity of some reform had long been obvious. The difficulty of the system then as now prevailing was that the local area—viz.: the county of New York, under which the papers were recorded—had become so large, the parcels were sub-divided to such an extent, and the papers were so numerous that some further division and classification was necessary in order to simplify the searching of titles and thus facilitate the transfer of real property. Necessary as the reform was and is, its realization has occasioned continuous and harassing delays. Pursuant to the provisions of the act, the Governor appointed five commissioners to draw up the necessary legislation. It was here the delay began. There was a division of opinion among the commissioners as to the nature of the recommendations they should make. Four of them united in a report to the Legislature, accompanied by a bill for single lot indexing, while a minority report was presented by the fifth commissioner, advising a bill for block indexing. This was in 1885. The reasons for the delay thus far had been entirely justifiable, for as long as there was no consensus of competent opinion as to the description of the bill to be enacted legislative action was a thing hardly to be expected, much less justified.

Very properly, then, nothing was done in 1885. But the year following also passed without either a settlement of differences among the experts or the passage of a bill by the Legislature. An act was introduced providing for indexing on the single lot system, but so vigorously was it opposed that it failed to pass. In 1887, however, a bill was finally gotten through built on the lines of the block system and received Governor Hill's signature.

But this measure contained a very serious defect. It involved a totally unnecessary outlay of money, providing as it did for a record book for every one of the 3,000 blocks in the city, with a nominal index attached thereto, whereas, considering that an average of only five mortgages and five conveyances are filed under each block every year, one index book for every 250 blocks would have been an ample sufficiency. Consequently the expenses were made some two hundred and fifty times greater than they ought to have been. The lawyer who drew the bill up may have acted in good faith, but that such a provision was allowed to remain is, to say the least, significant.

The bill was to go into operation in December, 1887, but a further extension of time was given to the commission if they wanted it. The city authorities naturally objected to going to such an expense and the six months' extension was taken advantage of. In the session of 1888, a bill providing for a reduction in the expense by a separation of the index from the record books, and a consequent reduction in the expense, one which was concurred in by the Corporation Counsel, the Mayor and the lawyers who had previously advocated both the lot and block plans of indexing, was prepared and presented to Mr. Saxton, the chairman of the Assembly Judiciary Committee, as a substitute for a bill which was then in his hands. Notice what followed. The attorney for the Register, Mr. Strahan, being present at the meeting at which the substitute was agreed upon, asked for two or three days more to examine the bill. In a short time it was returned to Mr. Saxton and put on its passage, without any notice to the other people interested in the bill of two important amendments which had been introduced. One of these amendments struck out the name of Mr. Beekman, the Corporation Counsel, as commissioner, leaving the commission to consist of the Mayor, Register and President of the Board of Taxes and Assessments; the other so changed the language of the bill as entirely to subvert its purpose. It comprised in a single block number any number of actual blocks, in order it is said, to establish indexing by wards instead of by single blocks. This, of course, was an utterly unjustifiable change in the wording. By accident these amendments were discovered soon enough to defeat the bill, but not soon enough to allow time for its proper re-enactment. Nothing was done except to give the commission in charge the carrying out of the provisions of the bill a further extension of time.

Last session a bill was finally passed; but it was indeed a difficult job. At this time all contention as to the proper principle to be used for the indexing was done with. Three out of five of the original commissioners signed a petition in its favor, and another would have signed had he been in town. It provided for the repeal of the bill of 1887, so far as it required the preparation of a book for each block; it directed that after January 1st, 1890, recording and indexing should be by blocks and block numbers; it ordered the re-indexing of old records on the same general plan; and it appointed the Mayor, Corporation Counsel, Register, the President of the Department of Taxes, and the President of the Board of Aldermen, a commission to carry out its provisions.

The city officials, however, particularly Register Slevin, objected to the provision for reindexing papers already filed; and in order to get around so formidable an opposition the measure was split in half and two bills introduced in its place, one for re-indexing and the other for future indexing. The first of these bills never got out of the Judiciary Committee, the second was favorably reported, after certain amendments, such as the re-constitution of the committee, the extension of the time before going into operation, and the removal of all limit as to the possible expense to which the committee might go. After a great deal of delay, the bill was finally forced through the Assembly. This was in the last days of the session, although the original bill had been introduced on January 10th and there was no opposition to the measure that did not come from interested people. After all this fighting, a final effort was made to do away with the bill altogether. Mr. Beekman, the then Corporation Counsel, went up to Albany in the last days of the session with a bill in his pocket, simply repealing the bill of 1887, but owing to the vigorous opposition of Assemblyman Hamilton, he was not allowed to introduce the measure. Finally it went to the Senate, and the fight began again. Endeavors were made to amend it radically, but they did not succeed, and it was finally passed, only, however, because there was no alternative between allowing its passage and permitting the bill of 1887 to go into operation, for which no preparation had been made. As it was, however, the time was once more extended until January, 1891.

Such is the history of the attempt to carry through a reform which all admit to be urgently necessary. The opposition did not dare to use means which were open and above board, but adopted every expedient to amend the measure and delay its passage. There was no reason in the world why the time should have been so repeatedly extended, or why the provision for re-indexing should have been cut out of the bill, providing, of course, that they who proposed the amendments were not interested in preventing the execution of this first step in land transfer reform. Under the provisions of the bill searching will not be made a whit easier for some years to come; and if it takes as long to get a measure for re-indexing through as it has the present measure, the present generation of real estate owners will have gray hairs before searches can be made and property conveyed with something like facility.

We hear there will be numerous changes among the down-town brokers on the 1st of January. Several firms will be dissolved and others increased by the addition of new members. Among the former may be mentioned Kalley & Benner, and of the latter A. L. Mordecai, who will take his two sons into partnership. The firm of E. H. Ludlow & Co. will open a branch office in the Hotel Bristol, 5th avenue and 42d street.

Card.

The firm of Rentz & Lange, architects, has been dissolved, Mr. Lange retiring. The business will be continued by Charles Rentz, who will retain the office quarters and the clientele of Rentz & Lange at No. 153 4th avenue.

Real Estate Department.

This has been a very busy week at the Exchange. Sales both numerous and important have been held nearly every day, and, considered as a whole, with generally satisfactory results. The offerings were not confined to any particular class of property, but embraced more or less in the way of business parcels, dwellings, tenements and vacant lots. The first-mentioned were eagerly bid for, and in most instances brought full figures. As much cannot be said for the dwellings and tenements offered, for a few were sold low or were withdrawn for lack of bids. The vacant lots put up were in good demand, although it cannot be said that they sold particularly well. For instance, take the corner of Park avenue and 93d street, where a plot 100.8x130 brought only $55,575, compared with $56,000 realized about a year ago for a plot 100.8x126.6 on the adjoining corner. As stated below, the lots sold on Tuesday were offered subject to restrictions, whereas the other half of the block front was not subject to any restriction whatever. This seems to have affected the prices.

There is plenty of negotiating going on in the brokers' offices, but judging from the reports which have come to hand the sales completed are not very numerous. Trading continues to be active and it is always difficult to get particulars of important exchanges in advance of the official filings, because when given publicity beforehand there have been cases where the deals have fallen through.

The next two weeks promise to be dull both on 'Change and with the brokers.

There was one sale held at the Exchange last Saturday, the first since the Saturday Half-Holiday law was passed. The sale was held at 11.45 o'clock, and comprised the lease of No. 163 Chrystie street. John J. Kierst, the plaintiff, became the buyer at $3,400.

Only one sale was completed Monday on 'Change, although three were to have been held. The one which did take place received little publicity beforehand, which, however, did not result in the property being sacrificed, for it is generally agreed that an astonishingly high figure was realized. The parcel referred to is the four-story brick store No. 151 6th avenue, northwest corner of 11th street, with lot only 25x60 feet, and rented to May 1, 1890, at $2,000 per annum. Starting at $30,000, advances of $1,000, $500 and $100 followed until $75,000 was reached, and the corner was sold to W. Scott Clirehugh. This is nearly $50 per square foot. It is said the purchase was made on account of the Rhinelander estate, which owns the remainder of the block front on the avenue. C. J. Fagan was Mr. Clirehugh's only rival bidder after $55,000 was reached. The fact that 130 bids were taken on the property, shows that Auctioneer John F. B. Smyth earned his fee. Mr. Fagan owns a number of houses on 11th street. The corner of 6th avenue and 11th street was recently transferred to C. V. Sidell by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Goodridge.

After writing the foregoing which was gathered in and around the Exchange, the writer called at Mr. Clirehugh's office, No. 146 Broadway. That gentleman was not in, but it was discovered that instead of being an agent for the Rhinelander's he very likely acted for the owner of the corner, Mr. Sidell, for it was found that he occupies part of Mr. Sidell's office. Further comment is unnecessary.

Tuesday was an extremely busy day at the Exchange. The sales were numerous and the attendance large. Dwellings, tenements and lots were embraced in the bills of sale, and the lot sales attracted the largest number of bidders. A plot of seven lots on the southeast corner of Park avenue and 93d street was closely watched by a number of prominent dealers and operators. Among those present were Builders Kerwin & Dwyer, Solomon Marx, Patrick Sheedy, F. E. Wise, F. J. Schnugg, G. F. Johnson and the leading building loan operators. Six of the lots, together in size 100.8x130, were sold subject to restrictions which prevent the erection of other than private houses. They brought a total of $55,575, compared with $56,000 realized for a plot 100.8x126.6 on the corner of 92d street, which was sold less than a year ago at $56,000 without restrictions. From this it is evident that it does not pay to restrict lots for private houses in a section where flats are very numerous. The corner lot brought $14,000, and the adjoining avenue lots $9,200 and $8,800 each; all the foregoing lots are only 80 feet deep. For the street lots $7,800, $6,975 and $6,500 was realized; the latter sum being for a lot 21.6x100.8, the most easterly of the plot, and which was the only one sold without restrictions. Another sale embraced seventeen lots along 1st avenue, 91st, 92d and 93d streets. Four on the avenue brought $5,950 each; four on 91st street from $3,900 to $3,950 each; two on 92d street $4,700 each, and seven on 93d street from $3,300 to $4,350 each.

Wednesday was also a very busy day on 'Change. The Salesroom was crowded, and it was an extremely difficult matter to move about from one stand to another. The most important sale held was that of the Dennison estate by order of Court in partition proceedings. Auctioneer Richard

Clark presided at the sale, and a total of $360,300 was realized for the fifteen pieces, of which two are leasehold. Edward Dennison, one of the parties in interest, secured No. 333 Greenwich street at $40,000, Nos. 82 and 84 Dey street at $21,500, and No. 78 Dey street at $31,600; the six-story double tenements Nos. 133 to 139 Washington and 9 Albany street were sold together for $129,000 to Henry Moore. Three speculators were after No. 225 West 14th street, a four-story brown stone dwelling with lot 25x120, and instead of bidding against each other they pooled their issues, so to speak, and bought it together, the price paid being $25,000. Another sale held embraced the southerly front on 48th street, between Broadway and 7th avenue, with frontages of 93.9, 102.6 and 100 feet respectively, with several three and two-story stores and dwellings. The plot was offered under foreclosure, and was sold to A. L. Hayes at $190,500. At the auction sale of the Wetmore estate, held October 31st, the same plot was sold at $200,000. Still another foreclosure sale was No. 5 East 73d street, 21x102.2, on which over $50,000 is due, and which was disposed of to A. S. Rosenbaum at $51,250.

On Thursday there was only one important sale bulletined, viz.: the Clark estate, embracing six parcels on 5th, 8th and 1st avenues, Pearl, Front and Greenwich streets. There was a large attendance and great interest was manifested in the several parcels offered. A total of $237,450 was realized by the sale, and all was sold except the piece on 1st avenue. For the Greenwich street store $38,100 was bid, compared with $40,000 realized for the adjoining store, No. 333, at the Dennison estate sale on Wednesday. The last-named parcel is five stories high and rents for $3,000, against $2,500 per year obtained for No. 331, which is only four stories high. It is considered rather remarkable that adjoining stores should come under the hammer on successive days by the sale of different estates. There was a spirited competition for No. 221 Pearl street, which was finally sold at $28,000. The four-story brick store and dwelling, size 18.11x100, No. 176 5th avenue, between 22d and 23d streets, which is rented at $5,900, was started at $75,000, and then followed a lively contest between Robert Lewis on one side of Auctioneer Meyer's stand and Lawyer John B. Harrison on the other side. The interest of the crowd was shown by a clapping of hands when $100,000 was bid, and a repetition when the property was sold to Mr. Harrison at $100,200. Mr. Harrison secured the property for D. C. Connell.

No sales were held at the Exchange yesterday. At least two parcels belonging to the Dennison estate, which was sold on Wednesday, were purchased by syndicates formed on the floor of the Exchange. These were brought about by several speculators being after the same property, and who, instead of bidding against other, combined and secured the parcels at lower figures than would otherwise have prevailed.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

F. R. Houghton has sold for the Burr estate to Wm. W. Rossiter, President of the Terminal Warehouse Company, the entire property bounded by 27th and 28th streets, 11th and 13th avenues, comprising fifty-seven lots, for about $500,000. The entire plot is to be covered in the near future by extensive warehouses. The terminal facilities of the New York Central Railroad will be greatly enlarged by these warehouses as they will be in direct communication with their tracks on 11th avenue.

The Vanderbilt estate has sold the former residence of Commodore Vanderbilt, Nos. 21-29 West 4th street, together in size 99.10x96.3, and No. 10 Washington place, in the rear, size 42.9x96.3, at $201,000 to Sachs Brothers, Brokers, D. Birdsall & Co.

This is in addition to No. 56, recently sold to the same company at $48,500. The same brokers have sold No. 79 Murray street at $50,000.

The premises No. 176 5th avenue, size 18.11x100, sold at auction on Wednesday to John B. Harrison at $100,200, was purchased for Daniel C. Connell. At the Mott estate sale held last March Mr. Connell bought the adjoining building No. 176, size 23.9x100, at $101,000. Wednesday's sale shows a material comparative advance in a few months' time.

J. Romaine Brown & Co. have sold for Rebecca Babbitt the stable No. 154 West 51st street, three-story brick, 25x100, to J. Henry Alexandre for $23,000.

Geo. R. Read has sold for Dr. Dorn the four-story English basement house No. 51 West 9th street, 16.8x60x92, to Harry Allen, on private terms.

Fairchild & Yoran have resold for Y. Yoran to Edgar W. Youmans the three-story brick buildings with stores Nos. 539 and 541 Canal street, bought at the Dennison sale, on Wednesday, for $23,050. We hear Mr. Youmans has refused an advance of $5,000 for his purchase.

Samuel W. Thomas has sold the four-story stone front dwelling No. 47 East 53d street, at $38,000.

R. W. Myers has sold for Newman Cowen two lots on the south side of 38th street, between 1st and 2d avenues, to James Mulligan, with a loan, for improvement.

J. Crawford & Co. have sold for Mrs. Pinner the three-story brick dwelling No. 347 West 25th street, for $15,000, to James H. Havens and Robert C. Winters, for improvement.

H. R. Bulkley has sold the four-story stone front English basement house, No. 42 West 22d street, 20.6x65x98.9, at about $30,000, to Dr. Klotz.

B. Galewski has sold the five-story double tenement No. 400 Madison street, 25x100, for $27,500 to Solomon Fiener. Broker, J. Simkowitz.

Morris B. Baer & Co. have sold to Archibald Clavering Gunter, the author, the four-story brown stone residence No. 66 West 52d street, 20x55x98.9, for $34,000; also, for Mrs. A. R. Hammond the three-story brown stone dwelling, lot 18.9x98.9, No. 123 West 47th street, for $17,125; for Leah J. Magruder, the four-story brown stone house No. 22 East 41st street, on private terms; for A. V. Winans the four-story brown stone dwelling No. 164 East 38th street, for $11,000; and for Mrs. Castellonas, No. 336 West 35th street, between 8th and 9th avenues, 18.9x98.9, a three-story, high stoop, brick dwelling, for $12,000.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

Rumor has it that the Hencken estate has sold a plot of five lots on the southeast corner of 7th avenue and 125th street, 100.11x125, to Washington and Arthur R. Wilson for something like $225,000. Another report in connection with the same plot is that it has been leased for a long term of years at 5 per cent. rental on an appraised valuation. The particulars could not be ascertained in time for publication.

It is reported that Maggie Mitchell has sold a plot of seven lots on the northeast corner of 7th avenue and 124th street, 100.11x175. It is furthermore added that negotiations looking to wiping out the liens on the lots are under way. The attorneys for the owner when seen yesterday denied that a sale had been consummated.

The estate of Wm. H. Henriques has sold the four-story stone front dwelling, No. 13 East 64th street, to Jose V. Onatavia on terms which have not transpired.

The C. Graham & Sons Co. have sold the new four-story and basement brick and stone front dwelling No. 18 East 78th street, size 17x90x102.2, at $40,000 to Henry S. Marlor. Broker, Geo. R. Read. This is the last of a row of six houses built by Messrs. Graham.

Crombie & McKean have sold for William McNabb the two new five-story single flats Nos. 120 and 122 East 91st street, to Frederick Danneman for $52,000. The same firm have also sold for Robert G. Gregg the three lots adjoining these houses to Mr. McNabb for $25,000. Mr. McNabb will probably build the same kind of buildings on these lots as Nos. 120 and 122. The same firm have sold a lot on East 75th street for Mr. Ducey for $6,500.

Wm. S. Anderson has sold for Mary Hahn to Martin Moot, No. 1059 Lexington avenue, a five-story single flat, on private terms.

J. W. Stevens has sold for A. W. Fraser the plot, 70x100 feet on the southeast corner of 10th avenue and 94th street, to Geo. W. Eggers for $47,000, for improvement.

Frank L. Fisher has sold for Robinson Gill the four-story brown stone dwelling, 20x55x100 feet, No. 168 West 76th street, to C. F. Wildey on private terms.

John Coar has sold No. 140 West 74th street, a four-story Lake Superior stone and brick dwelling, 22x60x102 feet, to Edward Dana for $45,000.

Dr. Lozier has sold No. 133 West 78th street, a three-story stone front dwelling. The particulars have not yet transpired.

Terence Farley's Sons have sold to John A. McCall, of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, No. 76 West 72d street, a four-story brown stone dwelling, 20x60x102 feet in size, on private terms.

Robert A. Hollister has sold to D. R. Shaw, No. 258 West 73d street, a four story and basement brick dwelling, 20x60x102 feet, for $40,000.

Charles H. Bliss has purchased a plot of four lots on the southwest corner of Central Park West and 103d street, 100.11x100, for improvement.

James McDonald has sold the four-story stone front dwelling No. 72 East 80th street at $37,500. The corner house is the only one unsold of the five built.

Samuel M. Brown has sold for Henry Morgenthau the four-story stone front dwelling, No. 4 West 125th street, to Abraham J. Martin, on private terms.

Charles Weinberg has sold a plot of eight lots on 123th and 124th streets, four on each street, commencing 140 feet east of Park avenue, with eight two and three-story frame dwellings thereon, to Oscar Hammerstein, of the Harlem Opera House. A new theatre will be erected on the site. The and then to a year from the coming January, there was a grave suspicion that this was done in order to give an opportunity for a repeal or for so amendment that would practically nullify its provisions. If there is a repeal of the act, the map and books this suspicion would be confirmed. It is rumored that Mr. Danziger has resold the lots to a builder for improvement.

Hugo Gorsch has sold for the Barnes estate, No. 425 East 79th street, a four-story brick flat, 26x65x100 in size, to Frederick Steffin for $16,000.

Henry I. Beers, of Oil City, has sold a plot, 100x110, on the northwest corner of Madison avenue and 116th street to a Mr. Ahrendt at $40,000. There is a mountain of rock on the lots which it will cost about $20,000 to remove.

Lewis & Holder have sold for C. V. Folin the southwest corner of 178th street and Vanderbilt avenue, 70x100x14x113, for $4,500.

It transpires that George Ehret was the purchaser of two lots on the northwest corner of 10th avenue and 122d street, at the Knight estate sale held last month.

Brooklyn.

J. P. Sloane has sold for the Donaghy estate the two-story and basement frame dwelling house, with lot 25x100, No. 76 Norman avenue, to Edmund R. Johnson for $3,950.

Corwith Bros. have sold the two-story and basement frame dwelling, 22x36, on lot 25x100, No. 137 Meserole avenue, for A. J. Provost, executor. Price, $3,400.

W. E. Patten has sold for Henry C. M. Ingraham the plot, 75x100, on the north side of Hancock street, 175 feet east of Lewis avenue, with lot 25x100, on the same side of Jefferson avenue, 175 east of the same avenue, to Thomas B. Saddington, for $8,800, for improvement.

Out of Town.

We hear that the Valentine farm at Dunwoodie, South Yonkers, N. Y., has been sold to Archbishop Corrigan, as a site for the new Diocesan Seminary building. The seminary is now located at Troy, N. Y. There are some sixty acres in the farm, which is on Midland avenue, running back to Mile Square road. The price is said to be $75,000.

S. M. Blakely has sold for Thebaud W. Lanouette his place at Perth Amboy, N. J., containing 9 acres and three-story frame dwelling, to Calvin Pardee, of Germantown, Pa., for $12,000.

Out Among the Builders.

Oscar Hammerstein intends to build a theatre on 125th street, running through to 124th street, east of Park avenue, for which he is having plans prepared by J. B. McElfrick & Sons. The excavations will be commenced directly after New Year's Day, and it is expected that it will cost $500,000 to complete the structure. The building will be three stories high in front, containing offices and stores, while the theatre proper, which will have a spacious and imposing main entrance, will be 100x125 in size, the whole covering eight city lots. The fronts will be of brick and stone, and the theatre will, it is said, be the largest in the city, next to the Metropolitan Opera House. The prices of admission will be the same as those charged at the Grand Opera House. It is intended to name the new building the "Columbus Theatre," and to have it ready in time for the World's Fair.

Hubert, Pirsson & Hoddick have the plans under way for a first-class apartment house, of fire-proof construction, to be built for Renligio Lo Forte on the north side of 58th street, between 6th and 7th avenues. It will be seven stories high, and will have a front of brick and stone. There will be about twenty suites of apartments in the building, each having seven or eight rooms and bathroom. Elevators, steam heat and all the modern improvements will be provided. It will have a frontage of 75 feet and will be commenced early in the new year. The cost has not yet been estimated.

The Terminal Warehouse Company will cover, with six-story warehouses, the ground bounded by 27th and 28th streets, 11th and 13th avenues. The property, which has just been purchased by the company, covers fifty-seven lots.

The New York Juvenile Asylum intend erecting a new house of reception on a plot, 60x98.9, just purchased on the south side of 27th street, 100 feet west of 6th avenue.

It is reported that John Pettit will add two stories to the Bennett building, which he recently purchased. Fast elevators, electric light and marble floors are also to be put in.

F. Wennemer has plans for two five-story brown stone flats, 25x70 feet in size, to be built on the south side of 89th street, 300 feet west of 1st avenue, for Francis Sauer, at a cost of $30,000.

J. C. Burne is the architect for a five-story flat and store to be erected on 1st avenue, southwest corner of 109th street, for Martin Maher, at a cost of $28,000. The size of the building will be 25.10x85.7 feet in size. Mr. Burne also has plans for four five-story brick and terra cotta flats, 25x75 feet, to be built on the north side of 75th street, 150 feet west of 3d avenue, for Wm. C. Burne, at a cost of $80,000.

The report that the Theatre Comique on East 125th street is to be torn down next May is premature. Frank Hart says their lease has four years to run.

James H. Havens and Robert C. Winters will erect a five-story stone front flat at No. 347 West 25th street.

Herter Bros. are preparing plans for two five-story and basement flats, with front of yellow brick and terra cotta, 25x50 each, to be erected by Schmeckenbecher's Sons at Nos. 423 and 425 East 70th street, for a five-story and basement flat, on lot 25x100, with steam heating and all the modern improvements, to be erected by Lowen & Halliday on the northeast corner of 9th avenue and 60th street, and for a six-story fire-proof building, with a yellow brick and stone front, to be erected by themselves on the northwest corner of Pike and Monroe streets, with a frontage of 25 feet on Pike street and 87 feet on Monroe street. There will be six stores on the first floor. Cost, not estimated.

James Higgins will improve eight lots by the erection of tenements; four are on the south side of 89th street, 110 feet east of 3d avenue, and four on the south side of 90th street, 200 feet east of 2d avenue.

James Mulligan will build two five-story tenements on the south side of 38th street, between 1st and 2d avenues.

Wm. McNabb will build three five-story flats on the south side of 91st street, 180 feet west of Lexington avenue.

Geo. Matthias will build for his own account four five-story flats on the north side of 106th street, 200 feet east of Madison avenue, each 25x69.6 and extension.

A. B. Ogden & Son have plans for a five-story tenement, 25x34, to be built at No. 369 Madison street for Catharine Major.

John P. Walther is preparing plans for a five-story tenement and store, 25x96 and 100, to be built for Chas. B. Tooker on the southwest corner of 3d avenue and 120th street.

Sealed proposals will be received at the Hall of the Board of Education, No. 146 Grand street, by the School Trustees of the 24th Ward, until 10 o'clock A. M., on Friday, January 3, 1890, for erecting a new school building for Primary School No. 46 on Johnson avenue or Kappock street, Spuyten Duyvil. Plans and specifications may be seen, and blank proposals obtained, at the office of the Superintendent of School Buildings, No. 146 Grand street, third floor.

Brooklyn.

The Columbian Club are on the look-out for a site in the vicinity of the City Hall on which to erect a new club house. A Building Committee is to be appointed and will report at the meeting on December 29th.

I. D. Reynolds has drawn plans for E. F. Spear, who will build four three-story brick flats on the north side of Macon street, 400 feet east of Ralph avenue. The size of each building is 20x50, and all will have modern improvements and apartments for three families on each floor. The total cost will be $24,000.

John C. Burne has plans for three four-story brick and terra cotta flats to be built for Wm. Irvine on the corner of Tompkins avenue and Madison street, at a cost of $50,000. The corner house is 20x74, and the other two 27.6x65 in size.

F. B. Langston is at work on plans for six four-story buff brick and Lake Superior stone flats, 22.6x70 each, with copper bay windows, to be built on the west side of Grenada place, late Albany avenue, 53.6 south of Decatur street, and a four-story and mansard roof apartment house, 49x90, with three apartments on a floor, on the southwest corner of Decatur street. The buildings will have all the latest improvements, heated by steam and wired for electric lighting. The corner building will contain, in addition to above, a passenger elevator, and have a tower on the corner.

Wm. W. Reynolds is the owner, and the total cost is $135,000. The same architect has also plans for the following: A four-story double apartment house, 30x70, of brick and brown stone, on the south side of St. Marks avenue, 326.8 east of Rogers avenue, for George Peary, to cost $10,000; five-story buff brick and Lake Superior stone flats, 20x65 each, on the west side of Franklin avenue, about 40 feet north of Pacific street, for R. O. Frost, cost not estimated; a three-story brick double flat, 40x55, on the northwest corner of Kingsland avenue and Sutton street, for G. W. Morganier, to cost $12,000; two three-story and basement buff brick and stone dwellings, 13x45 each, on the south side of Lafayette avenue, about 350 feet east of Bedford avenue, for I. B. Langston, to cost $10,000; a three-story frame store and flat, 22x60, on the southwest corner of Evergreen avenue and Covert street, for Annie Herzog, to cost $5,000; a two-story stable, 32x90, southwest corner of Sigourney and Court streets, and a frame storage shed adjoining, 50x100, for the Mica Roofing Company, to cost $9,000.

A. Herbert has plans in hand for two four-story brick flats, 25x57, with extensions 21 feet, to be erected on South 2d street, near Havemeyer street, for Dumproph & Kellner, to cost $18,000, and two four-story brick stores and flats, 25 and 15x60, with ballroom on top floor of both. The owner is Henry Moeller and the cost $13,000.

Thomas B. Saddington will improve the plot on the north side of Hancock street and south side of Jefferson avenue, 175 feet east of Lewis avenue. It is rumored that Mr. Saddington will build three two-and-a-half-story dwellings, 18.9 feet front, on the Hancock street plot, and a three-story flat on Jefferson avenue.

Out of Town.

BENTWOOD, N. Y.—A. V. Porter has completed plans for Chas. Tabor, who will build a two-story frame cottage, 32x39, at this place, the cost to be about $5,500.

CLIFTON, S. I.—Quite a little commotion has been caused here by the announcement that the International Dock and Warehouse Company intend to build wharves and piers, stock yards, warehouses, etc., along the shore. The company, which has been recently organized, has acquired considerable water front south of the Clifton station of the Rapid Transit Road, and bids are said to be in for wharves and piers to be built, to cost $400,000. A. B. Stickney, president of the Chicago, St. Paul & Kansas City Railroad, is one of the parties interested, and it is said Western business will be sent here via the Baltimore & Ohio Road, which will run its engines to Staten Island over the new Arthur Kill Bridge early in 1890.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

[For Prices see pages v., viii., ix. and x.]

BRICKS.—While the market for Common Hard has made no general or radical improvement, the tone on the whole is a shade stiffer than a week ago. Indeed, at the commencement of the week the indications were quite promising, the snow storm here, and reports of cold along the line of the river stirring buyers up somewhat, and while the subsequent warm weather has partially neutralized calculations a portion of the gain has been retained, the removal of the supply at the outset giving a better working field for subsequent arrivals. The instructions from manufacturers and the judgment of receivers have rather favored the policy of abstaining from anything like strained effort in the matter of prices; but, on the contrary, to take such conservative action as might retain the confidence of buyers and keep supplies moving and prevent an accumulation, the beneficial results of which are found now in only a comparatively moderate amount offering abroad and no objection to cost. Customers who are putting away stock for winter use are naturally somewhat particular in the matter of selection, yet on choice goods no special premium can be obtained, as the average run of quality is ranging a pretty high in view of the care that was taken in production. There is said to be no very large amount of work awaiting supplies, but against that are features that tend to give the position a little more tone at the close. "Probabilities" indicate colder weather again of sufficient severity to create the probability of interference with navigation, though in any case the shipments from up river are about coming to an end, and the Jersey markets have not much additional stock to send forward. Pales have steadied up again somewhat, the flush of the heavy supply having worked off, though there is no full recovery of value and $3.50 per M. remains about the best that can be depended upon.

LATH.—The market does not undergo much, if any, real change in the general features. There is a moderate fractional difference of opinion over values arising out of variations in quality, quantity and method of delivery, but without disturbing the former general range to any extent or shaking the confidence of sellers. In fact, the idea seems to be that the position is very fairly in hand for some time to come through the advantages of small supplies, and that buyers enough can be found for all probable arrivals without much difficulty.

LIME.—Stock continues to come in coastwise a little more freely than would be good for the market under ordinary conditions, but as matters are managed it makes no great difference to receivers beyond the annoyance of having the cargoes on hand unsold somewhat longer than usual. Dealers, it is expected,

A line of steamships from Staten Island to Europe is also talked of in this connection.

HOBOKEN, N. J.—David Brown intends to build two four-story apartment houses, 25x60 each, on Jefferson street, near 1st street, to cost $24,000, from plans by L. H. Giele.

LARCHMONT, N. Y.—H. A. Reed will build a two-story frame cottage, 33x39, to cost about $4,500, for which A. V. Porter is the architect.

NEWARK, N. J.—Building in Newark has slackened up considerably during the past month. Further than that it still continues without special feature. The houses range small, and the character of the work is not speculative. As architects are not required in Essex County to give the estimated costs of their buildings it is impossible to state exactly what the average expenditure on each house is, but it cannot range over $3,000.

SOMERVILLE, N. J.—F. B. Langston, of Brooklyn, has prepared plans for a two-story and attic Queen Anne villa, 35x50, to be erected here by Thos. Walling, to cost $12,000.

Contractors' Notes.

Bids will be received at the Department of Public Parks until 11 A. M., on Wednesday, January 8th, for furnishing the materials and doing the work of whatever kind for the proposed enlargement of the American Museum of Natural History.

Bids will be received by the Commissioners of the Health Department until 2 P. M., December 27th, for building a sea wall on North Brother Island.

Bids will be received at the Department of Public Works until 12 M., Tuesday, December 31st, for taking up and relaying the pavement in the following named streets: 39th street, from 1st to 2d avenue; 79th st, from 2d to 3d avenue; 79th street, from 4th to 5th avenue, and 105th street, from 2d to 3d avenue.

Sealed proposals will be received by the School Trustees of the 23d Ward until Thursday, January 2, at 4 o'clock, for supplying a steam heating apparatus for the new building in course of erection for Primary School No. 43, on corner of Ogden avenue and Orchard street.

Special Notices.

For many years the most serviceable material for roofing which could be found was tin plates, and consequently these goods were extensively used all over the country. But with this extensive use came the practice of palming off on builders an externally perfect but a really defective article, because this inferior quality could be manufactured so much more cheaply. It was the house of Merchant & Co., of Philadelphia, that remedied this by guaranteeing every box of plates, by excluding defective sheets, by stamping the brand and thickness on every sheet, and by branding the net weight of the 112 sheets in each box to satisfy the customer that he was getting what he paid for. This firm now comes out with the declaration that they are prepared to prove all they claim, and that they are the only firm that offer tin plates under four such substantial guarantees.

A tree should be judged by its fruits, a manufacturing firm by what it produces. John McCallum & Co., the manufacturers of paneled and embossed metal ceilings, whose office is at the corner of Washington and Vestry streets, have recently completed some admirable work in the way of metal ceilings. That in the Westminster Presbyterian Church on 23d street, near 7th avenue, is good "of its kind," while that in the Merchants' Club is well worth inspection. This firm has also put several ceilings in different buildings in the dry goods district.

Libby & Scott Bros. are the sole agents for the nineteen handsome four-story residences just being finished on the south side of 88th street, between 8th and 9th avenues. They sold three before completion, and the balance are offered by them for sale. They have been thoroughly examined by experts who pronounce them very perfect. Messrs. Libby & Scott Bros. have been unusually successful since they moved to the ground floor of the Equitable Building, a few months ago, having sold nearly $400,000 worth of property in that time, irrespective of their loan business, which, owing to their special facilities, is increasing considerably.

James Brand, of Nos. 81 and 83 Fulton street, New York, is the sole agent for three of the best brands of Portland Cement, viz.: the Burham, the Jossom and the Lafarge. Large quantities of these cements have been used in such important buildings as that of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, the Mutual Life, the Times, the World, the Bank of America, the Union Trust Company, the Mechanic's Bank, the Farmer's Loan and Trust Company and others equally noteworthy.

will take care of the supply as soon as they can handle it conveniently, and, indeed, in one or two cases are already about ready to place fair orders, it is thought.

LUMBER.—The market shows many of the regular winter characteristics, and there is not much of positive interest now developing from week to week. Hardly enough takes place in a wholesale way to give a fixed position for many of the leading articles and the yard trade is of an "all sorts" nature. Some dealers speak of an excellent deal both on contract distribution and new orders, while others grumble and complain and pronounce business as almost at a standstill. It depends on location of yard, the assortment of stock tendered for negotiations and the class of custom catered to. On prices a pretty steady tone is preserved, with little or no difficulty as supplies are well under control and nothing can come in cheap enough to offer competition. The harvest in the woods is going on steadily and fully in, pretty much all sections.

Eastern spruce retains general elements for a strong market, and the reports quite positively range themselves into confident form as usual. Indeed receivers assert that even should an unexpected supply become available now it would have to be pretty large and very inferior not to find some outlet, and of really first-class goods the more they could get the better they would like it. Just as was expected a great many yards failed to bring to gether any kind of an accumulation with which to start the season, and when there was something like a respectable showing made dealers value it too highly to permit it, setting beyond the lines of the regular trade. The movement among the retail dealers in Spruce in this and the adjoining cities to form an association or combination similar in general character to the one existing among dealers in yellow pine seems to be making excellent progress. We understand that over fifty firms have signified their approbation and indorsement of the measure and the projectors feel assured of success. The main object appears to be to fix a living margin on Spruce from yard, and with that in view, the following schedule is named to hold good until June 1st, 1890: "All timber 9 inches and under, 23 feet or less long, not less than $20.00 per M feet. All timber 9 inches and under, 24 feet and up long not less than $22.00 per M feet. All timber 10 inches and up wide, all lengths, and all square timber, not less than $22.00 per M feet. All timber sold for shipping purposes shall be exempt from above restrictions." The propriety of fixing rates for Spruce and Hemlock piece stuff is also under consideration.

Piling meets with a somewhat irregular demand, but holders of stock claim the position of buyers to be such that they must submit to present asking rates without contest, and a generally firm market is quoted. The raft project is occasionally spoken of, but merely in way of curiosity, as this season's supplies cannot be influenced.

Hemlock has a generally good position and may be considered as principally in favor of the seller. It is not likely that any great amount of stock could be placed, except at a concession, were a direct attempt to realize resorted to, but sellers are in too independent a position to compel any such move, and buyers in want of really first-class stock of any kind find it necessary to make full and pronounced bids to obtain recognition, and even then can obtain no assurance of prompt delivery.

White Pine remains very much in the former general position, the demand, although a little cautious, and especially so toward first-hand parcels offered by car lot, occasionally offering an opportunity for business, provided no special advance is asked, as present buyers must obtain stock upon a basis that will afford them some chance to compete with the accumulation already in hand. Natural consumptive outlets are exhausting about as much as could be expected at this season, including a fair proportion of box, shippers' and other grades, and there may be noted an inclination to become a little touchy on the part of some dealers when suggestions about competing woods are made. Advances from the interior still carry the impression that the annual attack upon the forest will be in quite as full force as usual.

Yellow Pine has a somewhat irregular call, but the average dimensions of trade are about as full as for some time past, and there does not appear to be any idea of complaining on the selling side of the market. There is, as usual, on this section of the market considerable difficulty experienced in obtaining particulars of the deals made, but occasionally information comes to light that seems to show good support given the position, with little or no attempt on the buying side to enter upon a contest against matters as they stand.

Carolina Pine is still reported as filling many gaps in the consumptive outlet as a substitute for other either scarce or more expensive woods, besides having a natural demand of its own, that preserves altogether an inquiry quite equal to the offering. In natural sequence therefore may be found a claim for well supported rates and more or less indifference of feeling on the part of manufacturers who do not have to search for orders.

Hardwoods are steady all around. There is not much display of animation and it is no uncommon occurrence to hear quite a little complaint from parties who either have undesirable stock to offer or fail to get the "hang" of the market promptly, but well-posted salesmen and good parcels of stuff generally manage to find custom either among dealers, manufacturers or exporters. Cherry, quartered oak, and to some extent plain oak, poplar, maple flooring, and ash are all in favor, provided there has been proper care taken in making selections. Walnut not much wanted on home account, but exporters will give attention to carefully selected lots. Mahogany seems to remain under perfect control and the demand is good, including now and then some excellent orders from the interior.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman says:

The comparatively dull demand for cargoes in the lake markets during November has left a greater accumulation at many of the mills than was expected earlier in the season. This lumber will be wholly or partly dry in the spring, and will have to come on the market. It will be a fortunate thing for the cargo movement if the winter trade shall be sufficient to reduce yard supplies and break up assortments to that degree that it will necessitate a large amount of purchasing in the early spring. If stocks in yard had been locked up by a long and severe winter, the market would have felt their weight at the spring opening.

There has within the past six weeks been a copious movement of timber and heavy joists—classes of product that have gone into large warehouses, packing houses, elevators, bridges, etc. This has brightened up the demand for a class of product that dragged heavily during the first half of the year. The requirement of railroad and car factory timber and lumber is also a pronounced feature of the closing year's trade. In these respects the condition has greatly improved within the past three or four months.

The continuance of open weather has suggested to the men in northern camps the possibility of an open winter, and consequently slow and costly logging. The croaker has even begun to rasp the air with his mutterings about a short log crop. But the weather for the most part has been good for skidding, and all the logs necessary to keep the mills running will go in beyond preadventure of failure. The short log crop bugaboo has been played to a finish, and it is about time to drop the curtain on the stage where the old croakers used to disport themselves.

The statement of stocks on hand in Chicago December 1st, as reported by the Lumberman's Exchange shows a decrease of 7,084,000 feet of lumber, as compared to the quantity in the yards at a corresponding time last year. Shingles show a comparative increase of somewhat more than 1,000,000.

The Timberman as follows:

There seems to be a wide difference of opinion concerning the durability of pine timber cut in winter as compared with that cut during the summer months, or whether there is really any advantage in cutting pine saw logs in winter, so far as the durability of the lumber to be produced from them is concerned. It is well understood that during the months from November to March, inclusive, is the proper time to cut oak and other hardwoods intended for ship building and manufacturing purposes, as during that time the vegetative powers are expended or reduced to the minimum and the trees are least loaded with the juices which produce sapwood and foliage, as well as devoid of other elements of decomposition. But is pine timber similarly affected by the seasons, and is pine lumber produced from logs cut in the spring and fall or during the summer months less valuable from the standpoint of durability than that produced from logs cut in the winter, are questions about which there seems to be a wide diversity of opinion, to say the least.

Owing to favorable weather the past week a few scattering cargoes have been coming in, but not very many. The arrivals were all sold off, and at figures varying but little from prevailing prices a couple of weeks ago. Although there are many dealers who would be willing to take lumber if they were able to handle it, it is becoming more difficult to find buyers. At nearly every yard two or three vessels are tied up for the winter, thus making it impossible for another vessel to unload.

The feeling is strong among commission men that the cargo trade of next year will be much better than during the past season, and some of the best posted say that to predict an increase of 10 per cent. would be putting it very mild.

But little change can be noted in the hardwood market from the reports given during the past few weeks.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

There is a strong suggestion of the open winter which was experienced a year ago in the present fall. The weather prophets among the old lumbermen are prophesying meantime another mild and open winter. There is nothing alarming, however, in this condition. It is safe to say that all the logs will be got that will be needed.

The fact may be realized, first as last, that pretty good logging is already being done. It looks as though the season had commenced early. A good many men were on hand early too, and are in the woods for a big winter's cut. The Lumberman wants to predict that quite as many logs will be cut this winter as were cut last.

CANADA AND THE EAST.

A Madawaska, N. B., correspondent of the Montreal Journal of Commerce writes: The lumberman's axe has commenced the charge on our almost denuded forests, under favorable circumstances. Supplies cheap and plenty, wages somewhat higher than last year. But the chances for logging operations are yearly diminishing and we may calculate a falling off of 10 per cent. or more every year for the future even under favorable circumstances, and if unfavorable winters set in, more or less operators will fail to make buckle and strap meet, so far as spruce logs are concerned. With the premium our Dominion is giving Americans of the export duty to monopolize the short lumber trade in shingles, clapboards and small spruce for piling will soon be a trade of the past, gone to build up the American side instead of our own. We talk about protecting our forest from fires and encouraging forestry, and at the same time give Americans a premium to cross over and slaughter it, and in the most reckless manner dispose of lumber lands, playing into the hands of monopolists and party; still in spite of all the drawback by our imbecile legislation in the lumber trade, our country is moving onwards and prospering.

Referring to the lumber interests the Ottawa Free Press says: "It is computed that over eight thousand men went to the shanties from this vicinity during the fall just closed, and the number sent up to make square timber this winter is nearly double that employed last year, as fully 50 per cent. more of that material will be taken out. The square timber men are also being paid better wages than last year, the figures being: Hewers, $60; liners, $40; scorers, $30; general hands, $22. The supply of hands for this work was just barely enough to meet the demand. Among the limits worked are those situated on LeQuinze, Kippewa, Manawaska, Bonnechere, Petewawa, Coulonge, Black River, Sturgeon River, Veuve River, Georgian Bay and the Gattineau.

The sawmills in the lumber district along the Ottawa River have this year turned out the largest cut ever known, the total output being 795,000,000 feet, board measure. One firm cut 10,000,000 feet more than last year. As a result of the large mill product, the yards are better stocked than for many past years, notwithstanding that shipments were brisk during the summer. The docks are heavily loaded with unsold lumber, and the lower grades have weakened. The holders of most of the stocks, however, are well able to hold them. A destructive fire has passed over the Shell River, N. W. T., spruce limits burning large quantities of valuable timber.

Only 89,007,637 feet of lumber were rafted at the booms this year, says the Fredericton Capital, as against over 132,000,000 last year.

The Toronto Monetary Times furnishes the following item:

We learn from our correspondent at Ottawa that lumber matters continue quiet, with but little movement. We are disposed to think, however, that any apparent slackness is merely temporary; it is expected that there will be a good trade set in after the holidays. The recent financial troubles of lumber dealers in the State of New York have undoubtedly created a certain amount of distrust in the minds of sellers, and this is not to be wondered at as the general belief is that the estates of the insolvents will realize very little.

The manufacture of square timber is being carried on extensively this winter in the Ottawa Valley, and we learn that several sales of rafts now being got out have been made at prices fully equal to those of last year. The great danger is, of course, that of overproduction, and it is to be hoped that limit-owners will profit by past experience and confine their operations so that the market will not be glutted.

Inquiry in the Georgian Bay district, and in Toronto, yields reply to the effect that while at present there is a slackness in consumption and demand, as is usual at this dull season, there will be more movement after the Christmas holidays.

The impression prevails that the output of lumber will be less, all over Canada, this season than last, and it is just as well that it should be. Producers say that lumber cannot be produced to-day at any cheaper figures than it is selling at. At the present rates of stumpage operators are likely to let the trees stand rather than cut.

A disadvantage under which the Western Ontario and Georgian Bay operators labor as compared with those of Ottawa may be stated as under: To transport pine lumber from the Georgian Bay to New York costs $5.85 to $6.00 per M feet. To carry the same description of sawn wood from Ottawa costs $2.75 to $3.00. The low rate from Ottawa is obtained largely because of the facilities offered by the Canada Atlantic Railway, a lumber-carrying road, in competition with the C. P. R. and the G. T. R. Shippers from the district tapped by the Northern Railway, however, have no alternative route and cannot obtain such cheap freights.

METALS.—COPPER.—Ingot has not been undergoing much change in value of late, and the general volume of business also shows some falling off. That, however, appearing to be the general outcome of the previous recent advances which has brought the cost up sufficiently high to retard speculative ventures, and prevent consumers from additional investment on the top of liberal amounts already secured. The mining companies in the meanwhile being well sold ahead, rest easy and generally look for full former rates. Quotations are generally placed at 14@14½c. for Lake, and 12¾@13¼c. for casting brands. Manufactured Copper has continued in good demand, allowing for the season, and the business is extending into some very nice contracts for next year's delivery, which, with higher cost of material, has, as might have been expected, advanced the list rates 2@3c. per M, and revisions are made accordingly. We quote as follows: Sheets, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 22c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 23c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 24c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 25c.; do, 8 to 10 oz., 26c.; do, under 8 oz., 30c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz., 2c. for 10@12 oz., and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets, not above 36x96 in., 16 oz. and over, 22c.; do, 16 to 32 oz., 23c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 24c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 25c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 30c.; do, 8 to 10 oz., 33c. Sheets longer than 96 inches add 1c. for under 16 oz.; and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz., 22c.; do, 16 to 32 oz., 27c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 29c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 30c. Sheets 60x96 and over, 24c.; for 32 to 64 oz., and over, and 29c. for 16 to 32 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz., 25c.; 14 oz., 27c.; 12 oz., 29c.; and 10 oz., 30c. Bolt copper, ¾ inch diameter and over, 22c. Circles, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 5c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 6c. do. Segment and pattern sheets, 3c. above price of sheets required to cut them from. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottom, 20@25c. per lb. Iron—Scotch Pig is still practically without a local market of a fixed character as the cost abroad precludes the possibility of laying it down here except upon occasional special orders. Somewhere about $25.00@27.50 is considered a fair nominal quoting range but the figures must be accepted with some grains of allowance. American Pig remains in just as strong a position as ever and all reports are cheerful and promising, especially as the support appears thoroughly legitimate and free from speculative strain. Demand is somewhat slow at the moment, awaiting the full settlement upon the rates for next season's opening, but there seems to be a feeling that agents will take care of their regular customers, and buyers in consequence abstain from worry. We quote at $19.00@20.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $18.00@19.00 for No. 2 X do., and $17.00@18.00 for Gray Forge. Old material has found better general demand and while the development of interest among buyers revealed a fair amount of stock in some instances holders are very strong in asking full rates and rather on an upward scale. We quote at about $25.00@26.00 for old rails; $24.00@25.00 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $19.00@20.00 for cast scrap, and $20.00@21.00 for car wheels. Manufactured Iron from store is a little slow at the moment, but not unexpectedly so, and in the matter of figuring on contracts for specials, shapes, etc., for forward delivery there is plenty to attend to, and the basis of valuation is becoming higher in many instances. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 2.09@2.05c. from store, and refined at 2.20@2.50c.; Rods, round and square, 2.20@2.25c.; Bands, 2.50@2.55c.; Norway Nail Rods, 4@5c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 3.00@3.05c. for common Nos. 10 @16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. Steel Rails show little change in the general situation. Pretty much all the mill men have inserted the peg at $35 per ton and say they positively will not vary from that, with claims of letting many orders go that might have been secured at a concession, but there is some outside stock at a fraction less and that makes a small strain of irregularity in the situation. We quote at $34.50@35.00 per ton for standard section at the mills and $36.00@36.50 do. at the water. LEAD.—Domestic pig meets with some little trade demand, but only in ordinary sized parcels, and as speculation is careful the market does not show much life. Holders, however, are pretty firm, and generally refuse to urge business. We quote at 3.85@4.00c., as to quality. The manufactures of lead are quoted: Bar, 4½c.; pipe, 6c.; sheet, 6¾c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe 45c., on same terms. TIN.—Pig on trade demand does not find much of a movement, and probably would fluctuate little on value. Speculation breaks out occasionally, however, and causes some irregularity. We quote at about 21½@21¾c. for round lots, and 21¾@21½c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plate does not appear to hold a very solid grip. Speculators act as though rather tired, and the consuming trade handles only small parcels notwithstanding some offerings have been made below the cost of importation. We quote prices as follows: I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Melyn grades, $6.00 @6.10, each additional X add $1.50; I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Allaway grade, $5.20@5.25, each additional X add $1; Charcoal terme, M. F. grade, 14x20, $7.05@7.10; M. F. grade, 20x28, $11.25@11.40; Worcester, 14x20, $5.30@5.05; Worcester, 20x28, $10.00@10.05; Deane grade, 14x20, $4.80@4.85; Dean grade, 20x28, $9.65@9.75; D. R. D. grade, 14x20, $4.70@4.60; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $9.50@9.37½; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $4.60@4.65; J. B. grade, 14x20, $4.75@4.80; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $5.10@5.15—basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $5.20 @—basis. Spelter in moderate demand, but kept under control, and prices generally ruling firm all around. We quote at 5.30@5.45c. for common Western, according to brand.

NAILS.—The conditions are much the same. Manufacturers have most of the advantage, and stand out firmly for it, with buyers making no great contest, though, as a rule, drawing lines of investment as closely to actual wants as possible, a natural course at this time of the year. The increasing cost of material adds to confidence in the future of the nail market. We quote at $2.05@2.10 per keg for car lots, and $2.15@2.20 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Between the local and nearby country trade dealers manage to find a pretty fair outlet for standard grades of stock. The demand, however, is shrinking, and will be comparatively small until after the turn of the year. Stocks on hand have been allowed to run down, and are carried easily, with full former rates asked. Linseed Oil is carefully offered and held steadily at 57¢@58c. for Western, and 60¢@62c. for City. Spirits Turpentine has ruled rather dull during the week, and with somewhat fuller offerings shows a decline. We quote 44¢@45c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Holders seem to have stocks well in hand, and carry them confidently, with former rates generally asked. Demand somewhat irregular, and occasionally wants quite a little bunch of stock. We quote Pitch at $1.40@1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.25@2.50, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

CONVEYANCES.

Wherever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S occur, preceded by the name of the grantee they mean as follows:

1st—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed in which all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which the covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of judgments the names alphabetically arranged, and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week, and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

Several liens have been filed against my property southeast corner of 48th street and Lexington avenue, now in course of erection, by the plumbers' material men for material furnished to one Frederick Carl, of No. 11 Stanton street, with whom I had made contract for plumbing work. Carl recently died. I have made all payments to him that were due as well as an advance payment of $700.

MERCHANT'S

GUARANTEED

ROOFING PLATES.

WE NOT ONLY GIVE THE PURCHASER
THE BEST ROOFING PLATES, BUT WE PROTECT HIM:

FIRST—By guaranteeing every box.

SECOND—By stamping each sheet with the brand and thickness.THIRD—By excluding wasters or defective sheets.FOURTH—By branding the net weight of the 112 sheets on each box, to satisfy the customer
(in this age of light-weight plates) that he is obtaining full weight.For the benefit of those wanting the very best Roofing Plates, we assert, and are prepared to prove, that there are no other brands of Roofing Tin offered in the market to-day, by any firm, under the four different guarantees given above by this house, and we challenge a public contradiction of this statement.Our book on Tin Roof will be furnished free on application.

Christmas week is usually characterized by dullness in the stock market, and, due to the January disbursements, a certain tightness in the money market. The present year has proved no exception to the rule. On the contrary, the scarcity of money during the past week has been marked enough to be abnormal, and it is quite obvious that the ordinary explanation does not fully cover the situation. It is possible that it is partially due to the calling in of 10 per cent. of the money deposited by the Secretary of the Treasury at the various national depositories, for, although only a small part of it is absolutely located in this city, still the withdrawal from the out-of-town depositories is bound to have its effect on our banks. Moreover, it should not be forgotten that during the past year we have exported some $42,000,000 of gold, net—a loss that undoubtedly has had a good deal to do with the continued tightness of money. On the other hand, our exports of silver have amounted to some $21,000,000 more this year than last; and we should have been in a tight place, indeed, if we had not the sale of this silver to have kept us from even a greater export of gold. It is to be remarked that despite the absence of electric lights in the evening, the holiday business is everywhere reported as good—a fact that is particularly noticeable in such stores as the Whiting and the Gorham Manufacturing Companies, which sell an expensive class of goods.

In watching the work of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in dealing out the city's money day by day, it is difficult to escape the impression that the board is, after all, a very clumsy piece of machinery. It is made up, as we know, of such of the departmental heads whose duties place them in the most immediate relation to the city's treasury, viz.: the Mayor, the Comptroller, the President of the Tax Commission and the President of the Board of Aldermen. Undoubtedly they perform their task better than the Board of Aldermen or any other elective body. With one exception they are appointed by the Mayor, and consequently are responsible to him. Their appropriations are seldom, if ever, extravagant, and the openness of its proceedings, taken together with the fact of its undivided responsibility, makes the city expenditures tolerably safe in the board's hands. For so much let us be thankful. The time has been when even such faint praise would have been ill-deserved. It is scarce necessary to point out, however, that honesty in the appropriation of the city's money is not all that is desirable, and that even though the taxpayers were never defrauded of a cent, they still might have reasonable cause for complaint if their money was not wisely appropriated—that is, was not expended with a view to obtaining the utmost possible gain consistent with a reasonable expenditure of money.

The main difficulty seems to be that the departments are entirely irresponsible in making their estimates. In setting about to do this they are confronted by the fact that no matter how just their claims are for an increased appropriation they are tolerably sure that these claims will be either ignored or meagrely appreciated. On the other hand they are equally sure that the appropriation which they received the year previous, provided that the said appropriation did not itself vary from the average of the several preceding years, can be claimed without much opposition. Consequently they are discouraged, or better they are not encouraged either to make economies, or to claim increases which the enlargement of their functions warrants. Naturally they wish to have as much money under their control as possible, and they are not disposed to imperil their present supply by reducing their force in one direction for the sake of increasing it in another. The result is that, as a rule, they put in estimates designedly over-rated, in the hope that some portion of the increase may be allowed by the board. The same clumsy system prevails in our national finances. The various departments send in large and weighty estimates which the House Committee on Appropriation slash and cut until the final estimates bear the same relation to the departmental estimates as spinach cooked bears to spinach verdant. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment is our municipal cook instead of our municipal gardner; it simply boils down instead of pruning and planting.

The trouble may be aggravated by individuals (as it is aggravated in the House by Mr. Holman), but at the root it is the system which is defective. Quite obviously the Board of Estimate and Apportionment cannot know the necessities of the various departments well enough to pass upon the desirability of a proposed increase with perfect equity. In many cases, doubtless, the members are sufficiently acquainted with the matter to give an intelligent judgment, but in no case is their acquaintance with the detail and deficiencies of the workings of a department as full and exact as that of the head of the department. At the same time they must act on their knowledge, such as it is; and since they are aware how closely they are watched, in all doubtful cases, they pose as "Watch-dogs of the Treasury." The only man who is fully supplied with the necessary knowledge has, except in a few cases, absolutely no say in the matter. He can, indeed, appear before the board and urge upon them the necessity of an increase, but he is generally looked upon with suspicion, and his arguments have but little effect on the final decision. The trouble lies, as we have said, in the entire irresponsibility of the man who makes the estimates and the undivided responsibility of the men that pass upon the estimates—or in the separation of the executive from the legislative part of the work. In this, as in other respects, the English method is far simpler than our own. When the House of Commons goes into Committee on the Estimates the particular executive officer who originally prepared the proposed expenditures is responsible for them to the committee, and though in small matters they are not infrequently changed, they generally remain very much as he submitted them. Our own machinery for accomplishing the same ends, while safer and perhaps more suited to our own conditions, is cumbersome and unserviceable to an extreme.

The eventful day in the history of the World's Fair movement will be the 8th of January next, the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans. The Quadri-Centennial Committee of the Senate will meet at Washington to give a hearing to the friends of the several bills introduced in Congress for the authorization of the Fair, and to determine the location. Several bills have been presented fixing it in New York, Washington, St. Louis and Chicago respectively. The Eastern, Middle and Southern States very generally favor New York, while some work for Washington. Throughout the West, for a while, Chicago maintained a good lead and commanded strong support from many cities in the Northwest, Southwest and far West. There is a reaction now in this sentiment, for they, on reflection, hesitate to give this great impulse to Chicago, to aid her in her rivalry over themselves, and to a supremacy which it will be impossible hereafter to diminish. The competition between these Western cities is greater than would be supposed in trade, in drawing customers, in straightening railroads towards themselves as centres, in obtaining money at low rates of interest and in inviting Eastern investments. They have not yet conceded that the claim of Chicago to be the great city of the West is to remain unchallenged, and before the close of the discussion, under the lead of St. Louis they will, most of them, withdraw from Chicago and unite in support of New York.

New York will be represented before the committee on the 8th of January by such men as Senator Hiscock, ex-Senator Platt, Chauncey M. Depew, Elihu Root, Wm. C. Whitney, W. E. D. Stokes and Mayor Grant at the head of the delegation. No one questions their ability as representative citizens. St. Louis will be represented by Governor Francis, Col. Jones, the chairman of their World's Fair Committee, and a strong delegation. Chicago will send her Governor, Mayor Cregier of Chicago, her eloquent orator, Thomas B. Bryan, and a host of her leading citizens, and Washington will have every one present. The discussion before the committees—for it is likely that before that time Speaker Reed will appoint the House Committee, and the two will hold a joint session for the hearing—will be one of the highest interest for strong argument and patriotic eloquence. It will continue from day to day until all are heard. Many men are at work in preparation for the discussion, to which people will listen with interest. The strong point for New York in the argument before the committees will be the internationality of the celebration. It is fixed by the very title of the committee, "The Committee on the Quadri-Centennial Celebration of the Discovery of America." This shows that it is not a national affair, but one in which the whole world would participate. It must, therefore, be held in this city so accessible to the whole world.

It is a mark of the wonderful prescience and breadth of mind of Columbus, that in his letter giving the account of his first voyage of discovery and when his mind was most deeply impressed with the future consequences of what he had done, he uttered these words of acknowledgement to Divine Providence and of the effect upon the whole world of this enlargement of its power :

"But our Redeemer hath granted this victory to our illustrious King and Queen and their kingdoms, which have acquired great fame by an event of such high importance in which all Christendom ought to rejoice and which it ought to celebrate with great festivals, and the offering of solemn thanks to the Holy Trinity, with many solemn prayers, both for the great exaltation which may accrue to them in turning so many nations to our holy faith, and also for the temporal benefits which will bring great refreshment and gain, not only to Spain, but to all Christians. Thus briefly in accordance with the events."

This is the keynote of this celebration, given by the great discoverer himself. Among the addresses sent to Washington from this city will be a pamphlet giving facts on which the claim of this city rests. It will set forth the provisional organization by which this preparatory work for the past five months has been done, with the names of the General Committee of Four Hundred, the Committee on Organization and all the sub-committees. It will give the action of the Finance Committee, their form of subscription, the amounts received, with the name and address of each subscriber ; also the action of the Committee on Site and Buildings, with a description of the several places selected to be included in the site, their advantages and accessibility. They will be illustrated with maps showing each site chosen, and a general map embracing all. These sites meet every requirement, and for accessibility, convenience and vicinity to the public parks, are not to be equalled by anything that has been offered by any other city. For the five million guarantee fund the city has given a support to its claim of great value, for if the Fair is authorized and located here, the subscription for stock and bonds will at once commence, and the wealth and public spirit of the city, when the Fair is certain, will be at once shown. These strong claims and an argument that the Fair should be international and not national, as is claimed at Chicago, are the telling points for New York, and will be very clearly and ably presented.

The Legislature will meet at Albany on the 1st of January and the acts to enable the city to acquire land, by the exercise of the right of eminent domain, for the purposes of the Exposition of 1892, will be introduced at an early day. They are now under consideration by the Committee on Legislation. The report of the Committee on Plan and Scope indicates clearly what these bills will be. The principal one will be to authorize the city to take lands in fee for more public parks and for a short term of years for the purposes of the Exposition. The appropriate land to take for parks will be the area lying immediately north of Central Park and some of the area on Bloomingdale Heights, so as to connect across that elevation the two parks—Riverside and Morningside—which flank it, and thus to secure for a park that superb and commanding summit. The lands to be acquired for a term of years should be the use of the area of Bloomingdale Heights not taken for a park, and the breadth of land between 4th and 5th avenues, from 96th to 100th streets. From the report we have referred to it is clear that the city has power to take such lands for such purposes and then to grant the use of the land they take in fee for parks for the temporary use of the Exposition and to grant the land they take for a short period to the like use of the Exposition. These powers, if properly granted, would be valid and constitutional.

It is very important that these bills should include special provisions that the city could take title and possession immediately on the filing of the maps of the land to be taken, and that all proceedings in the courts should be accelerated.

Another subject to be presented to the consideration of the Legislature will be the extensions of the two Museums of Art and of Natural History. This can be done by legislative authority, and if the plan of these two buildings can be carried out on the land already appropriated and the buildings erected so as to have the roof on and the floors laid, great accommodation will be given for the Exposition, with something like forty acres of floor area in fire-proof buildings of fine architecture and in a most accessible location. These are important subjects for the success of the Fair and are in the hands of a competent committee.

Commissioner Gilroy has for sometime contemplated taking a semi-official trip to Europe, it is said, principally for the purpose of studying how it is that the municipalities of the effete old world make good pavements and succeed in keeping them in good order and in a tolerably wholesome condition ; all of which the authorities of this city have never yet done, notwithstanding an expenditure which in the last twenty-five years has been sufficient to create a thoroughly well appointed city of no small dimensions. By all means the head of our Department of Public Works should make the trip proposed. Comparisons teach forcibly. It is not to be expected, however, that Mr. Gilroy, in spite of any amount of receptiveness on his part, will learn anything that is likely to inure to the benefit of New York. In the first place there is little to be learnt, and in the second place, even if there were, Mr. Gilroy could make his new knowledge of little practical value under the conditions that exist here. The plain fact is, the making of good streets is not, in these late days, an abstruse subject. Good roads, such as would make New York many degrees more habitable than it is, were constructed at least 4,000 years ago; and no matter how long Mr. Gilroy pursues his studies abroad he will find that we, on this side of the water, have little to learn as to method of construction ; where we fail is in our manner of carrying out these methods. In other words, our workmanship is at fault. We have poor streets because we construct our streets poorly. Of course, as no skill of an extraordinarily high character is necessary in street making, and as we spend large sums annually and yet have scarcely a decently paved thoroughfare in the city, to the fact that our streets are poorly constructed there hangs a tale, which Mr. Gilroy must know as well as any man.

This must not be understood as throwing any doubt upon either the competency or the honesty of Mr. Gilroy. The condition of the streets of this city was an official bequest to him. If he were a moral Hercules and an Admiral Crichton in all learning as to streets and their construction, he could do little under the present system of government by "politics" towards making our streets creditable to a civilized community. The everlasting growling of New Yorkers about their streets is both tiresome and silly. They know where the fault lies. They tolerate a system of municipal government that, whether Democratic or Republican, is based upon "politics" of the very lowest kind, the nature of which is to produce inefficient and dishonest administration. The wonder is, not that the city is so badly governed, but that it is governed as well as it is. This is not to be changed by growling periodically and denouncing whoever is at the head of the Department of Public Works or the Street Cleaning Bureau. The silk purse can not be made out of the sow's ear ; and New Yorkers should have wit enough to know it.

A Practical Plan of Operating Street Railways.

The advantages derived from municipal ownership and control of public works are slowly but steadily gaining recognition in this country. Cities long used to paying exorbitant rates to private companies for water, light and transportation are now awakening to the fact that it is to their advantage to supply themselves with these necessities and conveniences. Water works were the first class of these public works to be brought under municipal control. This plan, tried as an experiment by a few cities, was rapidly imitated by others, until now it is the exception for cities of any considerable size to grant private companies the privilege of supplying their citizens with water. A few cities—notably Richmond, Va., Wheeling, W. Va., and Philadelphia—next undertook to furnish their own gas, and although in each of these cities, most satisfactory results followed the municipalization of gas works, few other cities have as yet adopted this plan of control. Electric light plants are now rapidly coming under the control of the municipalities—especially of the smaller ones—throughout the country. No less than twenty-five cities own and operate their own electric lighting works at the present time.

With the exception of the cable road operated in connection with the Brooklyn Bridge, no street car line in this country is under public control. Apart from prejudice, the chief difficulty in the way of municipal control of street railways is that the annual expenditures of our large cities are now so great that taxpayers, as a rule, are opposed to any increase in the assumption of obligations by the city, such as the construction or buying up of a line would necessitate. The advantages which would accrue in the shape of relief to the taxpayers, were this class of public works already in the possession of the city, is recognized by leading thinkers, including members of our city councils and by many taxpayers themselves ; but the step between private and public control seems attended with such an increase in the present heavy burden borne by our cities, that recommendations in favor of taking this step are rarely given serious consideration.

The following plan of securing control of street car lines by the municipality, or a modification of this plan, would without doubt meet this objection of the taxpayers. It is proposed that franchises be hereafter granted to new companies or renewed to old companies at the expiration of present leases, (1) for a specified term of say fifteen or twenty years, (2) the lines at the expiration of this term to come into the possession of the city in good condition, (3) the companies paying each year a stipulated sum to the city as a guarantee that the lines will be preserved in perfect order. In order that the city may receive the largest possible returns for the privileges of the streets granted, it is further proposed that franchises be put up at auction and sold to the companies offering the highest per cent. of gross receipts. It is quite probable that cities adopting this plan of selling franchises will secure a much higher per cent. of receipts than is now paid by private street car companies operating under charters practically unlimited in their terms of duration, and which do not provide for the ultimate reversion of the lines to the city.

It will, of course, be objected to this proposed plan that private companies will not undertake the operation of street car lines subject to the condition that they must turn them over to the city at the end of a limited period of years. A conclusive answer to this objection is that private companies do operate street car lines under this condition in other countries. The charters of all lines granted by the municipal authorities of Berlin up until the year 1885 last only until 1911, at which time the city may claim the lines as their property. The Berlin companies are not only obliged to turn their lines over to the city at the expiration of this period, but up to this date they are also required to pave and keep in good repair the streets occupied by their lines, and to pay to the city a certain per cent.—ranging from four upward, according to the extent of traffic—each year of the gross receipts. Many of the street car companies in this country, which are now paying only from 5 to 10 per cent. of their gross earnings in return for the privileges secured to them, would willingly give 25 per cent. rather than give up their charters. Franchises have been sold to private companies in this city for as high as 40 per cent. of gross revenues. There are very few street car companies operating lines at the present time in this country which could not afford to give double the amount for their franchises which they do give. The City Passenger Railway, of Baltimore, for instance, is taxed under its present franchise only 9 per cent. on its gross earnings; it could pay and should pay, at the very least, 25 per cent. into the city treasury. The $150,000, besides taxes and licenses, guaranteed to the Mayor of New York by the Broadway & Seventh Avenue Railroad Company for permission from the city authorities to place a cable system in operation on its lines is a mere bagatelle compared with the sum this company could and should pay for the privileges which they have received. In view of the larger profits which street companies now receive, few would hesitate long to invest in these undertakings under the proposed new regulations. It must be remembered that the lines alone come into possession of the city according to the proposed plan; the rolling stock—cars, horses, etc.—still remain the property of the private companies. At the expiration of these charters, the city, if it so desires, would be free to make similar provisions relating to the ultimate reversion of rolling stock also. This, however, is only suggested and not recommended. At present, the best managed street railways in the world are those of Glasgow, Scotland. There the lines are owned by the municipality and leased to private corporations. Large revenues are yielded each year to the city under this system; besides, tramway fares have been reduced to two cents a mile, and cars for workmen are run for one cent fares.

Under this proposed plan of regulating street railways, cities would come into possession of lines in good condition, which have not cost them a cent, and, if the plan of selling franchises at auction be adopted, there is no reason why there should be any falling off in the receipts of the city from street railways below the amount received under present regulations. Cities limited in the amount of debt they can create by the State constitutions will find this a practical plan of surmounting this constitutional difficulty.

After the turn affairs have taken during the past week there seems to be no doubt that Brooklyn is destined to have a real estate exchange, commensurate with the large and growing importance of the landed interests in that city. The gentlemen who organized the unpretentious institution of last spring, have acceded to the demands of the newer element in every particular, and, consequently, most of the largest brokers and dealers in the city are united in the attempt to establish an exchange of which the city may be proud. The capitalization of the organization is to be $250,000, of which no single person can hold less than $1,000. Half of this sum has been already raised. An option has been secured on some well-located property on Montague street, opposite the Academy of Music, and, provided no hitch occurs, it will probably be purchased, and a large handsome building erected on the site. Brooklyn will then have the advantage of one central market for the purchase and sale of real estate, in place of several scattered centres as at present.

Protectionism is Protean, and takes many forms. It will be remembered that last year certain native actors began an agitation for the exclusion of English professionals who were swarming over here and monopolizing, as it were, the butter of public and pecuniary approval, leaving our native talent only the skim milk. Even the robust protectionism of this country could not swallow such a pill as this, and the agitation fell flat. A similar agitation has been more successful in France. The Minister of Instruction has announced that it will be impossible for his department to grant applications for English physicians to practice in that country unless under circumstances presenting very exceptional claims. It seems that the winter health resorts are crowded with English practitioners, and, as the same places are also crowded with English patients, the French physicians lose a most remunerative class of business—consequently this decision of the Minister of Instruction. The consequences may be serious. It must not be forgotten that it is English physicians who send English patients to French health resorts, and if the latter are to be permitted to obtain medical advice when they arrive at their destination only from doctors whose language they may not understand, and whose methods of treatment may differ from those of the home physician, it is very possible they will never venture away from their native isle. French doctors may gain, but French watering places and railroads will lose.

Various Aspects of Western Irrigation.

Major Powell says that the government should not be allowed to furnish any money for the completion of the great system of irrigation works, by which he believes that 100,000,000 acres of arid lands may be redeemed. He naively adds that "the only thing the government should do is to furnish 'wise laws' to control operations." We heartily wish that our governmental machinery could be depended upon to turn out laws warranted "wise," but we are harassed with doubts. A government which has not been able to find time to construct for us a bankrupt law, "wise" or otherwise, and which will neither govern the District of Columbia wisely nor let the District govern itself, does not seem to be a promising source from which to expect good laws for the regulation of one of the most complex subjects with which the law giver has to deal.

The legislation of Colorado and California regarding water rights is already tangled and unsatisfactory. Three points have, however, been pretty well established. The first is, that all public streams of any magnitude are public property; the second is, that the waters of these streams can be claimed and appropriated by individuals only upon "reasonable" conditions; and the third is, that if the supply of water is limited its distribution must be regulated by the State, so that all within the range of its benefits may share them alike, and that any wasting of the water may be prevented. These principles appear simple enough, but it is not so easy to apply them, especially when the stream from which water is drawn crosses a State line. At present the farmers of Western Nebraska are afraid to make arrangements for using the waters of the Platte lest the farmers of Colorado should use up the entire supply before it reaches the State line at all. As a matter of fact the stream was dry along part of its Nebraska course last summer, and even cities that would be glad to get their water supply from it are unwilling to put in works on this account.

Next to her mining laws the most complex mass of legislation in Colorado is that regarding water rights. She has adopted the favorite American plan of donating land to private companies in return for their services in developing natural resources. After giving an undue amount of power to private corporations, she finds, as usual, that the next problem before her is how to "regulate" them; that is, she has shirked one duty, and finds that another not less difficult is consequently imposed. English companies own many of the great irrigating canals, and patriotism is asked to aid cupidity in the battles waged in her court-rooms and lobbies in the interests of "fair rates." Now, if the attempt is made to apply such a tangled mass of statutes and equities to inter-state irrigation, Congress will probably find that it needs as much intelligence and honesty to provide "wise laws" as it would to expend a billion dollars in the work itself.

That something better than the plan of leaving such work to private corporations is possible is shown by the experience of the Mormon settlers in Utah and adjoining territories. The work of their earliest pioneers in redeeming the arid lands of the great desert basin between the Rockies and the Sierras was of such an astounding character that it was said of them that they had "created a soul under the ribs of death." They not only made the "desert blossom as the rose," but they made it produce more than fifty bushels of wheat to the acre. This was accomplished not through the self-seeking of private companies, but through the collective action of the community, organized by the Church, which in this as in many other things was really discharging State functions. A leader of this people attributes their material successes largely to their "industrial unity," and in commenting on the problems connected with irrigation, says: "The institution of monopolies, the selling of water rights, and under the protection of law, the exaction of money for this privilege are not likely to be multiplied in districts colonized by a 'Mormon' population who will make their own facilities, creating by labor the water courses needed, and combining them with the land in such a way that he who is without money is equally eligible to a share of the mountain streams if he is only willing to join with his neighbors in performing the necessary work."

But, as we suggested when this subject was first broached, the agricultural interests are going to object seriously to the proposed redemption of arid lands, especially through government action. Several newspaper correspondents from the middle West have already urged that what the country needs is not the "redemption" of more land, but a sufficient advance in prices so that they can redeem the mortgages held over them by Eastern capitalists. It cannot be denied that holders of Western land now under cultivation would suffer from the proposed addition to the productive acreage of the country, much as the owners of Eastern farms have suffered from the competition made possible by the cheapening of transportation rates. None the less it is true that extensive irrigation would benefit the country as a whole, just as cheap transportation has done; and the interests of a class should not be allowed to interfere with the adoption of the best methods of prosecuting a work that is inevitable as soon as it shown to be possible.

Local self-government may not be an unmixed blessing, but by localizing foolish and ephemeral agitations it certainly prevents large numbers of people from suffering from the fanatical or demagogical errors of an energetic minority. It has served, for instance, within late years to expose the follies of prohibition without injuring any more people than was necessary for the purpose. The people of Iowa are at present reaping the fruits of their anti-railroad legislation by an absolute stoppage of all new construction in that State. Missouri is the first State to enact an anti-trust law. All the corporations within the State were obliged before a certain date to file affidavits that they had no connection with any combination or pool. Several hundred corporations have failed to comply with the terms of the law, and the Secretary of State has given notice of the revocation of the charters of such of them as were domestic. The rest, consisting of companies organized under the laws of other States, are given thirty days notice before the revocation of corporate privileges. An enormous amount of capital is involved in the outcome, and the fight will be long and bitter to the ultimate advantage of no one but lawyers. The matter will be brought before the United States courts, for the corporations will, of course, claim that the act infringes on the property rights guaranteed by the constitution. We all know how long it will take these tribunals to adjudicate the difficulty. Meanwhile, of course, business will suffer in Missouri, and lawyers will have a fine exemplification of what great and good things laws are.

But there is another aspect to the whole matter—one which is more important and which will press still more urgently for solution. Many of the corporations which are threatened with the revocation of their privileges are, as we have said, organized under the laws of other States, and consequently do not or should not come under the jurisdiction of any single State government, except the one from which they receive their original charter. Still more properly they should be subject only to the authority of Congress for transacting business, as many of them do all over the Union. They are or should be subject only to an interstate authority. Moreover, inasmuch as, despite legislation, capital will continue to aggregate and the proportion of interstate to State corporations will continually increase, this question opened up by the Missouri Trust Law will steadily become more important. At bottom it is simply the question of how far the principle of local self-government, as understood by the founders of our Constitution will suit modern trade relations. What the solution will be it would be futile to anticipate, but this much is certain—the principle will need a profound modification.

It is a fact not without significance that the London Telegraph, a paper which, in Matthew Arnold's time, was unblushingly laissez faire, and which frowned on all attempts to improve the condition of workingmen and their homes by public or private assistance, has veered around completely. In commenting on Sir Edward Guinness' gift of £250,000 to erect homes for workingmen, this paper had nothing but praise for the methods which the millionaire designed to improve the condition of the poor. "The houses of the poor," says the Telegraph, "are a disgrace to civilization. We house the animals who do the labor of the streets for us far more comfortably and with far greater regard for their health than the mere human laborers on whom ultimately the whole fabric of society depends for its preservation from day to day. * * * We leave our laborers in dens, reeking with moral and physical poison, in deference to the 'individualism' which produces those excellent individuals, the sweater and rack-renter, and then we express surprise when they do not turn out to be precisely angels of light. The time has certainly come when, as soon as political measures to which we are pledged are cleared out of the way, the cry of London and our great cities should be attended to, and the homes of the people should be rendered fit for the people. The munificence of private individuals is a step in the right direction, but we cannot look to this source alone for a complete cure for the multiform evils which have been permitted to grow up unchecked." Twenty years ago the Telegraph would have pointed out that the bad dwellings were the result of the operations of "one of the simplest laws of nature," and would have pointed out the evils which would flow from flying in the face of such laws. In other words, the "colossal necessarianism," of which Mr. Arnold so incessantly complained, has been succeeded by an earnest disposition to use every means to help the poor and unfortunate in bearing the large portion of the world-burden which falls to their share. The gospel of non-interference has been superseded by the more generous doctrine, that though the poor are often miserable, because they have failed in the battle of life, yet, since the failure was due as largely to detestable social conditions as to any lack of individual determination and character, society owes them some protection against grinding and soul-destroying misery.

Syndicates at the present time take curious forms. They are supposed and indeed have reached the highest type of development in this country, but nevertheless they are being applied in France in fields which we have as yet not reached. It seems that the impecunious dandies of Paris, whose purses are as limited as their aspirations are large, have formed syndicates so that a number might enjoy advantages and luxuries from which each of them individually was debarred. A box at the opera, for instance, was most necessary to the young society man; but boxes, like the other good things of life, came high. What was to be done? A small number formed a pool and rented the box together. The idea was found to be efficacious; it was extended. Syndicates of young dandies have their own particular horse and carriage, their own particular great coat, and so on through the round of expensive luxuries which give a young man standing in the social world. Such a scheme cannot be successful, of course, without a certain amount of self-sacrifice among the members of the syndicate. All of them cannot use the box, carriage, or great coat at the same time, so that while one or two are using this machinery of the social world the others must sink into comparative insignificance. If the plan is rigorously carried out it is obvious that the syndicate, not the individual, which has the social existence. Consequently invitations should be sent to the pool, inviting, of course by implication, those particular members who had the refusal of the social appurtenances for that occasion. The whole scheme ought to have a Thackeray to caricature it. Readers of that author may remember in his Paris letters a series of three sketches—the first representing a shrivelled-up personage, unhampered by clothes, labelled Ludovicus; the second a complete suit of kingly garments, with plumed hat and high-heeled boots, labelled Rex, and the third the little man placed inside the suit over the sign Ludovicus Rex. The separation of personality from the appurtenances of position, which Thackeray caricatured in this sketch, has, it seems, become an accomplished fact.

The Block Indexing Bill in New Jersey.

In 1888 the Legislature of the State of New Jersey passed a bill, entitled "An Act to establish the use of local indices for public records relating to land in certain counties of this State." The purpose of the bill, as may be judged from its title, was the same as that of the Block Indexing bill which passed our own Legislature at its last session. There are, however, considerable differences as to the details. In the first place, the New Jersey law applies to the whole State and not merely to one county. Under its provisions any county of over 200,000 inhabitants may obtain the advantage of a local index, if one hundred resident property owners make application to the Circuit Court of the county. Upon the presenting of such an application, the Circuit Court may, at its discretion, appoint two members of the board of chosen freeholders of the county, who, together with the counsel of the board, would constitute a commission for the supervision of the work. Moreover, this board has absolute discretion in fixing the size of the local areas. Under the New York bill these local areas must be city blocks; but obviously the different conditions prevailing in a county which has not in all its parts a system of streets necessitate the leaving of a certain amount of freedom to the commission. There is also another difference. In the indices prepared under the Jersey bill a brief description of the premises conveyed or mortgaged finds a place, whereas such a description could be ascertained under the New York law only by referring to the instrument as recorded. Thus far Hudson County is the only county which has applied for the necessary commission. The law went into effect in that county last May, and consequently has stood the test of some seven months' trial.

A reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE called upon Mr. J. W. Heck, who is clerk of the Commissioners of Land Records in Hudson County, and who was instrumental in securing the present reform, to inquire as to the workings of the act. Mr. Heck was emphatic in his testimony as to its success. He said: "So far as we can judge from the experience of seven months, the act has worked satisfactorily. The anticipations of the promoters of the reform, have been entirely justified, the clerks have found no difficulty in indexing the instruments under the bill, and some fifty books have been all that were needed for the purpose. The public, indeed, do not as yet appreciate the advantages which the change in the method affords them; but as Hudson County increases in population, and the number of instruments annually recorded grows, its benefits will increase in the same proportion. We have been very fortunate to secure the reform before the complexity of the problem made its solution as difficult as it is in New York."

"What plan did you follow in preparing the maps?" asked the reporter.

In answering this question, Mr. Heck turned to the maps themselves, and explained the method pursued by the commissioners. "It was not an easy matter," he said. "Hudson County is very much the shape of New York. It is some fourteen miles long by from two to seven miles broad. Large areas are simply meadow land entirely unimproved, no part of which is transferred for years at a time. Such areas were not of course divided up into blocks, but were left to stand very much as they were. In consequence the local areas in several cases are two or three miles or more in circumference. In the future, of course, if these districts are drained and rendered inhabitable, further subdivisions will be necessary, but the commission could not provide for contingencies, the character of which only the future could determine. In preparing the maps the commission followed the lines of existing townships instead of blocking out the county mathematically according to some plan of their own. This plan was followed in order to render them intelligible to the majority of people who would have to use them. Thus Bayonne is shown on one map, Hoboken on another, Jersey City on another, and so on with the sixteen townships of the county. In only one case do two townships, both small, appear on the same map."

"Was the work expensive?" inquired the reporter.

"Not at all," answered Mr. Heck. "The following is an itemized list of the expenses, and I doubt if the same work could be duplicated for nearly double the amount of the figures:

Surveyors making map, consisting of 149 sheets, 26x36 each, and 8 index sheets, same size, 157 sheets.....	$8,000 00
Lithographing above, (fac-simile engraved plates), 500 copies.....	6,095 00
Binding 200 copies (400 volumes) at $3.50	1,400 00
100 Local Index volumes, from A. S. Barnes & Co., William street, New York (City, 550 pages (large books) best record paper, at $11.25.....	1,125 00
Drafting blocks, 2,378x2-1,756 blocks in deed and mortgages. Local indexes, by contract (excellent work).....	995 00
Printing index of filed maps	731 75
3 Books of indexes unlocated deed and mortgages.....	48 75
	$18,395 50
Iron book-shelves, rollers for local indexes.....	295 00
Total	$18,690 50

"How much time did this preliminary preparation consume?"

"About a year altogether. The bill was passed late in the spring of 1888. A couple of months were required to obtain the necessary signatures to warrant the court in selecting the commissioners. As first provided, the law was to go into effect on January 1, 1889, but it was found that the work could not be done by that date, and so an extension of time was obtained until May 1st. The delay, however, was caused by the lithographers and not by the commission."

"Will any other legislation, similar in purpose, be proposed?" asked the reporter.

"No," answered Mr. Heck. "The present bill meets all requirements. No measure will be introduced providing for re-indexing. The searching of titles in Hudson County is not attended with any great difficulty, and our measure for block indexing will prevent any future increase of records from making it any more difficult than it is at present. The only danger we have to fear is in the indexing of a deed in which the location of the property conveyed is not specifically described—that is, when one man gives a deed to another, transferring all right and title to any real property in the county wherever situated. In this case, of course, a local index is not possible, and a return has to be made for the purpose simply to a nominal or personal index. Such cases are, however, too rare to give any great trouble."

The Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange Assured.

It appears to be finally settled that Brooklyn is to have a Real Estate Exchange of which both cities may be proud. Its leading brokers and capitalists have united with the gentlemen who started an Exchange last spring in a modest way and the movement is gathering force hourly. Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars is to be raised, and half of this amount is already pledged. A site will be secured opposite the Academy of Music on Montague street, running through to Pierrepont street, the plot being 60x200. If the project is carried out as contemplated Brooklyn will soon have another imposing structure in its business centre. This union of all the different interests was brought to a conclusion Tuesday evening and the stock book is now at the office of Leonard Moody, 20 Court street, where those who have subscribed to the several subscription papers may append their names.

At a meeting of the Directors of "Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited)" held December 26th to make final arrangements for the reorganization of the exchange, the secretary was ordered:

To call a meeting for January 6, 1890, for the election of thirteen directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for a vote upon a proposition authorizing the Board of Directors to purchase real estate. A vote will also be taken upon the question of amending the by-laws so that no person should hold less than twenty shares of the capital stock.

The secretary was directed to close the stock book against all subscriptions for less than twenty shares.

The secretary was surprised with the present of a check for $200. He maintained that as secretary he had no right to receive it; but his protest was in vain, as the board voted the payment for legal services.

The Countess Chambord de Peseta, of Madrid, has purchased from our well-known citizen, W. Bourke Cochran, a residence on West 64th street. This is one more evidence of the attractiveness which New York has for titled foreigners. We have had a few princes and princesses among us. We want a king or an emperor now. While on this subject it is said the Prince and Princess Hatzfeldt are shortly to take up their residence in the metropolis.

One of the prettiest services held in Trinity Church during the year is that which takes place in that historic place of worship on the afternoon before Christmas Day. A well-known real estate broker took me there Tuesday, and I saw over a thousand children and teachers from the numerous Sunday-schools attached to Trinity Church enter the edifice with their banners floating and their voices raised in singing a Christmas hymn. The effect was both touching and impressive. An innovation, I was told, was the use of cornets to lead the singing, but Dr. Dix is not to be congratulated on the change, which rather drowned the simple little voices.

New Books.

An Introduction to Political Economy, by RICHARD T. ELY, Ph.D. New York: Chataqua Press.

Professor Ely is well known to the American public as the leading exponent in this country of a school of thought which, while revolting from the presuppositions and methods of the old English school of political economists, yet in this revolt does not go to the extreme of socialism. He has done more to popularize among Americans sound economic thought, to remove the prejudice which still widely exists against governmental action in spheres where it is justifiable and necessary than any other single writer. The number and influence of his co-believers are rapidly increasing. It would be difficult indeed to mention any Americans of note who have written on economic subjects save, perhaps, Edward Atkinson and David Wells, who do not agree more or less with Professor Ely. For these reasons any new publication from his pen is worthy of careful examination.

This is particularly the case with his latest published work, "An Introduction to Political Economy." His previous books have rather been applications than formal statements of his doctrine; rather a consideration of special problems than an elucidation of the principles that apply generally to all economic problems. The title of the book is in itself significant. In one sense "An Introduction to Political Economy" would hardly have been considered worth writing by the English economists. The science consisted initially of two assumptions—natural forces and a certain kind of human nature. From these were deduced the various principles of production, distribution and exchange, just as the theorems of geometry are deduced from the three dimensions of space. The limits of the science consequently were so exact that no introduction was necessary. Mr. Ely starts on the contrary with the complex of human nature as it is. His results consequently are more involved; they gain in truth what they lose in simplicity. The scope of the science is widened; its data become the manifold facts of human industrial experience; its method a combination, deduction and induction; its aim at once scientific and ethical. In this sense a complete political economy can no more be written than a complete sociology. New facts will alter old conclusions; new conditions will create new problems. Not until industry is at an end will the book of "Political Economy" be filled; hence Professor Ely's book is called, and rightly called, simply an introduction. It bears the same relation to political economy as psychology does to human nature.

Perhaps it would be equally as correct to describe Prof. Ely's book as a miniature of political economy up to date. This description would not be exact, for the author does not pretend to cover the present possible field even in outline. Moreover, it is a work that distinctly belongs to a transition period—a period in which not merely are the aspect of economical problems itself changing, for that would be always true, but a period which our ideas of its scope and method are changing. As a result much of the book is the polemical and is devoted to explaining the significance of the changes in our ideas as to the science. What is meant by saying that Prof. Ely's volume is a miniature of political economy up to date is this—that is, concerned to a certain extent with special problems—it not only enunciates principles but shows their bearing on the question of socialism, co-operation and the like. The book is divided into eight parts, headed as follows: The Growth and Characteristics of Industrial Society and the Nature of Political Economy; Production; Transfer of Goods; Distribution; Consumption; Public Finance; The Evolution of Economic Science, and a Few Suggestions for Study and Courses of Reading. The style is simple and clear, the wording the reverse of technical, and the book, as a whole, is admirably adapted for its purpose.

Damages for Trespass.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

My mother has owned a parcel of property on an important avenue in this city for twenty-two years. When she purchased it a frame house adjoining occupied four inches of the ground to which she took title. The house still covers the four inches. Now, what I would be glad to know is: 1. Can my mother, if she decides to tear down the present house on her property and erect a modern building on it, compel her neighbor to remove his property off the four inches, so that she may be able to use it? 2. Can my mother obtain damage in a legal action for the loss of the use of the four inches during the twenty-two years she has had title to it? This point would, no doubt, interest some of your readers who are in the same predicament.

J. S.

For the purpose of clearness in this answer we will refer to your mother as A, and to the owner of the adjoining frame house as B.

1st. If B held his house on those four inches adversely and under a claim for the last twenty-two years, then he has, we think, acquired a good title thereto under the statute, and A has consequently lost her title and also her right to compel B to remove his property.

2d. If, however, B has held the house on the four inches under a license or permission from A, then her title has not become extinguished, and she can recover possession of the four inches.

3d. If the condition referred to in paragraph 2 of this answer is the one existing in this case, she would have no right to damages until revocation of the license or permission, and then only for such as should arise after the revocation.

4th. If the use of the four inches has been adverse—that is, hostile to your mother's title and without her permission and against her consent—then she has, we think, a claim for damages for the trespass done within the last six years. The loss of her title by operation of the statute would not, in our opinion, extinguish her claim for such damages as arose while she had title and before the bar of the statute took effect. From the time that the statute took effect, namely, at the expiration of twenty years of adverse possession of these four inches, the occupation of them thereafter was not a trespass by B. Consequently there would appear to be an occupation or trespass of less than four years for which damages might be claimed.

The New Catholic Seminary. THE SUPERB SITE CHOSEN.

The announcement first made in THE RECORD AND GUIDE that Archbishop Corrigan had purchased a large parcel of ground at Dunwoodie, South Yonkers, as a site for the new Roman Catholic Theological Seminary, has created considerable interest in a section of territory which, while being superbly located, has lain almost dormant for generations past. It has always been a maxim with the heads of the Catholic church, in this country at least, to purchase real estate which has every possible natural advantage, and which at the same time is likely to appreciate largely in value quickly. Their purchases for many years past have shown, in course of time, how judicious they are in their selections, for what they have originally acquired for a comparatively small sum, has within a generation or less become in many cases valued at millions of dollars.

Their last selection is no exception to the rule. The city is advancing in a northerly direction continually, and with such rapidity that what is country now becomes in a decade or two a thickly-populated centre. When the ground was purchased where the Roman Catholic Asylum now stands on 5th Avenue, between 51st and 52d streets, opposite the Vanderbilt palace, it was hardly anticipated that in this year of grace the property would be worth millions of dollars, as it now is.

The gentlemen who were intrusted with the purchase of the site for the new seminary first resolved to choose it in New York proper. Finding, however, that they could not get the quantity of ground they wanted with all the requirements necessary, they went just a little further north, and selected, after a careful survey, the plot of sixty acres or thereabouts which constitutes Valentine Hill, at what is now called Dunwoodie, in the 2nd Ward of the City of Yonkers, and which was until within a few years ago known as South Yonkers. The property is only about 900 feet from Dunwoodie station, on the New York and Northern Road, and can be reached in less than an hour from the Archbishop's palace.

The committee wanted to find a site which had the following points of advantage: 1, health; 2, drainage; 3, nearness to a railroad depot; 4, easy accessibility to the city; 5, closeness to a market centre; 6, probability of being surrounded by a large population in the not distant future; 7, good water; 8, fine scenery. All these eight points were found to be present in the site chosen, and after searching for nearly two years, they settled upon Valentine Hill, out of a host of properties presented for their consideration. The amount paid is an average of about $1,175 per acre, though about 14 acres of the best part of the ground was paid for at the rate of $1,400 per acre. The total cost will be about $70,000, and the purchase is said to be a very favorable one for the seminary. In addition to the advantages mentioned, there is a quarry on the ground, and it is expected that the stone for the new building will be obtained from it. The following is a diagram of the site. It will be noticed that James Gordon Bennett, of the Herald, owns a small parcel adjoining, and it is not improbable that this may also be added to the site, should the seminary be able to obtain it on reasonable terms:

It is the intention of the seminary to erect buildings covering about 600 feet frontage. Sketches have already been prepared by Architects Wm. Schickel & Co., and the head of the Order of St. Sulpice, of Paris, purposely visited the United States to consult with the authorities here as to the plans. The building will be 200 feet deep, three stories and basement in height and Gothic in style of architecture. It will comprise a church, chapels, dormitories, gymnasium, studios, hospital, library, etc., etc., and will have all improvements.

The building will be erected at a point commencing about 300 feet west of Jerome avenue. There is a spot there which is about 327 feet above tidewater, about the highest point in Westchester County, and an area of ground just large enough to accommodate, the new building runs almost perfectly level, the height ranging, according to the survey, from 321 down to 310 feet above tidewater. This would only require about 11 feet of leveling for the entire frontage of 600 feet, which is a comparatively small work. When completed the seminary will be the most prominent object for miles around, not only on account of its size, but because of its great height. It will be seen from the Sound as well as the Hudson, and from nearly every drive for miles around, where the view is unobstructed. From the peak of the hill a view can be obtained of the Sound on a clear day all the way from Flushing Bay to Lloyd's Neck on the one hand, and from the hills to the highlands above Nyack.

Valentine Hill has quite a history. It was the scene of a forage in which five or six thousand men took part, on September 16, 1782, in which Prince Henry, Duke of Clarence, afterwards King William IV. of England, took an active part in person. The Prince was but seventeen years old at the time, and did not ascend the British throne till 1830. The hill was not unknown to General Washington, for in 1776 he encamped there, and near it he had a skirmish with some British troops. During the previous summer of 1775 the American army threw up entrenchments on the summit of the hill, which are still said to be visible. From the 12th to the 27th of October, 1776, the American army lay entrenched in detached camps from this hill to the White Plains. On the 27th, as the enemy continued to advance upon the White Plains, General Washington suddenly called in all his detachments, and abandoning the positions he had occupied along the Bronx, assembled all his forces in a strong camp upon Chatterton Heights. Upon the 28th of October, the day of the battle, it was asserted by the residents on the hill, that not only was the cannonade distinctly heard, but also the singing of the Hessians as they advanced to attack the American position. After the battle of the 28th, the British infantry was stationed on the hill. The old Valentine house, which stood northwest of the present residence, was used for some time by General Washington as headquarters. The hill has been in the Valentine family for six generations—since 1687, and the latest possessor, Nathaniel B. Valentine, when seen the other day by a representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, said: "It was a little hard to part with it." The contract was signed by Archbishop Corrigan on Friday, and on Saturday Mr. Valentine attached his signature, the witnesses being John D. Crimmins, who has taken a very active interest in assisting the Archbishop in this matter, and Geo. S. Lespinasse, the latter acting as broker.

It is expected that the building will be commenced some time in the spring, and that it will be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1891. The roads surrounding it, as well as the approaches, will also be improved. The number of students to be accommodated will be from 1,000 to 1,500.

To Defeat a Combine.

The brewers who pooled together to force conditions upon the saloon-keepers evidently reckoned without their host, for the latter, in order to defeat the combine, have organized themselves into the Consumers' Brewing Company. They have purchased fourteen lots of ground, taking in the entire western front of Av A, between 54th and 55th streets, and comprising 200.10 on the avenue and 169 feet on each street. Part of these were purchased by them from A. S. Walters, that is, 100.5x119, on the southwest corner of 55th street, for $35,000, and the balance, comprising a similar plot on the northwest corner of 54th street, with four lots in the rear, 50x200, running through from street to street, from G. Martinson, for $57,000—in all $92,000 for the plot. On this they intend to build a brewery to cost about $600,000. It is to be six stories high, of brick and granite, and will contain all the latest improvements in the matter of constructing breweries, with all the approved machinery. Plans have not yet been prepared, but a prominent Philadelphia architect will secure the work if some New York man of equal ability does not quickly come into the breach.

Holm & Robinson, lawyers for the new company, when called upon, said: "The subscribers number 158 saloon-keepers, nearly every one of whom is worth about $100,000. They will have the largest brewery in the country, and expect to turn out 500,000 barrels each year."

Notes and Items.

The Corporation Counsel gives notice that on Friday, January 17th, applications will be made to the Supreme Court for the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the matters of acquiring title to Lind avenue extending from Devoe street to Sedgwick avenue; to Walnut avenue from the south side of East 132d street to the north side of East 141st street; to Hampden street from Sedgwick avenue to Jerome avenue; to Cammann street from Fordham road to the Harlem River terrace; to George street from the Boston road to Prospect avenue; to Harlem River terrace from Cedar avenue to Fordham road; to Cedar avenue from the westerly side of Sedgwick avenue opposite the Junction of Burnside road and Sedgwick avenue to Fordham road; to Cauldwell avenue from the Boston road to East 163d street, and from Clifton street to Westchester avenue; to Willow avenue from Bronx Hills to East 138th street; and to Locust avenue from the south side of East 132d street to the north side of East 141st street.

The property-owners who fought for a reduction in the area of High-bridge Park are elated at their success. They are praising the Mayor and Comptroller for their share in the matter and say that the acquisition of the larger area by the city would have been unnecessary and unwise, for the ground included in that area, being largely of a hilly and rocky character, will have to remain that way for a generation or two to come, for it could not possibly be used for building purposes except here and there. So that the surrounding property-owners and residents will practically get the advantage of the larger area without paying for it. The park therefore remains in statu quo, that is, just where it was before the boundary was extended, and it comprises the land bounded by the Harlem River on the east, Edgcombe road and 10th avenue on the west, a point on a line with 170th street on the south, and a point a little north of 175th street on the north. The property cost $483,622, and since its acquisition by the city in 1869 no improvements have been made on it. The present park, marked "4," is shown on our map of Highbridge Park issued December 15, 1888. The tract comprises about thirty acres and the Corporation Counsel has been instructed not to take further proceedings toward the acquisition of extra land.

The directors of the Real Estate Exchange did not meet this week, nor has any further action been taken toward convening a meeting to elect officers and organize for the ensuing year.

One of the most prominent traders on 'Change recently acquired an apartment house which he owned a couple of years ago and exchanged for other property. Between times he made fourteen other exchanges of properties, each time making the best terms possible, with the result of getting back the parcel he began to trade with. He has again sold the property, this time at an advance of several thousand dollars more than when he first sold it.

Changes in the Character of a Locality.

Last May there appeared in THE RECORD AND GUIDE an article descriptive of the purchase of realty in and around Washington place, West 3d, Greene and Mercer streets by out-of-town capitalists. The improvement of the parcels thus secured, and their rental in advance of the construction of the new buildings was also explained, showing the demand for first-class business buildings thereabouts. Within the last few months selling and building in the same neighborhood has grown quite active, and within the past month one firm alone has made purchases aggregating over $300,000 along Washington place, Greene and 4th streets. The acquisition and improvement of property is also going on lower down as recent sales and building operations along Bleecker street testify. The fact is, the whole section below Washington Park seems destined to undergo a complete change in character, and the improvements under way indicate in the most positive manner that the change will prove beneficial for the city as well as for the parties making the improvements.

Obituary.

John Hooper, president of the Colwell Lead Company, died of heart failure on Sunday last. He was a member of the Real Estate Exchange and was one of the original subscribers. Mr. Hooper was born in 1826, and was educated at Burr's Seminary and at West Point. He was one of the earliest of the civil engineers on the Erie Railroad, and was connected with the Tribune in Horace Greeley's days. He was also interested at different periods of his life in other New York papers and in several business enterprises. A committee of the Real Estate Exchange, comprised of Richard V. Harnett, C. W. Iden, Ira D. Warren, J. M. Cornell and M. J. Adrian was appointed to attend the funeral, which took place from the residence of the deceased, No. 281 Monroe street, Brooklyn.

How to Draw a Contract.

An invaluable work for all dealers in realty is found in "The Guide to Buyers and Sellers of Real Estate," by Counsellor Geo. W. Van Siclen. This pamphlet, of only fifty-six pages, offers a complete solution of all the complicated questions that arise in drawing contracts. It discusses questions of titles, liens, curtesy and dower rights, deeds, searches, etc., and contains forms of contracts and judicial decisions which, with other general information, will go far towards making every man his own lawyer. It tells all about fixtures, assumption of mortgages, apportionment of rents, description of property, terms of payment, damages for failure to carry out contracts, information on setting aside contracts for mistake or fraud, and forms of deeds. Published by THE RECORD AND GUIDE, 191 Broad way. Price 50 cents.

Real Estate Department.

As is usual during holiday weeks there has been but little business done. Sales on 'Change have been few in number and generally unimportant, while in the brokers' offices comparatively few sales have been completed. Our reports, however, show that some important transactions have been consummated and it will not be surprising if other sales equally or more important are soon chronicled, for the brokers tell us that many important transactions are under way. A large number of brokers are sick with "La Grippe" and the others think their customers must be affected in like manner.

Only one sale was announced to take place on Monday at the Exchange and it was adjourned indefinitely. The attendance was very small.

On Tuesday the attendance was very light and only one parcel was offered in the Salesroom, viz.: the four-story stone front dwelling, No. 65 East 79th street with lot 13.4x102.2. There was quite a contest for the house considering it was offered under foreclosure. The rival bidders were Jesse L. Morrill and M. G. Lowenstein and the latter became the buyer at $21,300. Mr. Morrill bought the adjoining house, No. 67, which is exactly the same size, under foreclosure in July, 1888, at $20,250. There was a great diversity of opinion among the operators and dealers present as to whether the house brought all it is worth or whether it did not, and in support of the latter argument one investor declared the adjoining house of the same size was sold a year ago at $28,000. Mr. Morrill, who was the buyer of the house referred to, quietly gave the figure as $21,250, which we have since verified. A similar house, No. 71, was sold in May, 1887, at $22,500, and No. 65, which brought $21,300 on Tuesday, was sold in May, 1880, by J. V. S. Woolley at $17,600.

Wednesday, Christmas day, the Exchange was closed.

The Salesroom was moderately well attended on Thursday, when all the sales held were by order of court in partition and foreclosure proceedings. A sale of five parcels belonging to the estate of Andrew Luke was the most important of the day and attracted the largest part of the audience present, including the speculators, to Auctioneer J. F. B. Smyth's stand. For the five parcels a total of $123,950 was realized. A four-story store on Fulton street, No. 180, size 24.9x77, which rents at $3,250 and repairs, was started at $25,000 and sold at $41,500. A foreclosure sale of two unfinished flats on West 99th street created quite a little excitement, a couple of material men and mechanics present declaring the sale to be outrageous. Builder Hinman was foreclosed and the flats were sold for a total of $23,000, which is less than is due the building loan dealers, thus shutting off mechanics' liens for from $6,000 to $7,000 for material and labor furnished. To show how absurdly low the figure realized is it was stated that the builder paid $18,000 for the lots over a year ago and now the sellers get them back with five-story flats partially inclosed at $23,000.

The sales held yesterday were few and unimportant. There was a very small attendance on 'Change.

Isaac T. Meyer advertises a lot on Bond street which will be improved to suit a tenant and leased for a term of years.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

The Hanover Fire Insurance Company has purchased Nos. 34 and 34½ Pine street for $235,000. Number 34 was bought from Eliza L. W. wife of Byam K. Stevens, who purchased it on January 31, 1880, for $47,500. It contains a four-story building, the lot being 21.3x65.6x20.10x65.9 in size. No. 34½ was bought from Henry A. V. Post who purchased it on December 10, 1881, for $75,000, and has on it a five-story building, the lot being 23.3x65.9x22.10x66.6 in size. So that what cost $122,500 in 1880-81, has now brought an advance of $112,500, nearly 92 per cent. in about eight years. The whole comprises about 2,903 square feet, which is $80.95 per square foot, or at the rate of $202,375 per city lot of 25x100. This is a prodigious figure considering that the property is almost midway between Nassau and William streets, and it sounds more like a Wall street than a Pine street price. The most recent previous sale in the immediate neighborhood was that of No. 25 Pine street to the Lancashire Insurance Company, of Manchester, England, for which $195,000 was paid. The lot is 24.2x74.4x25.2x74.5, about 1,834 square feet, and has the advantage of being open on one side, where it adjoins the U. S. Sub-Treasury. It brought $106 per square foot, or at the rate of $265,000 per lot of 25x100. These sales show not only how valuable choice downtown property is becoming, but how corporations and others will give a high figure for real estate just where they want it. The site will be improved, as announced elsewhere. Brokers, Richards & Sause.

L. J. & I. Phillips have sold for J. B. Andrews, of Mentone, France, the two five-story stone front stores, Nos. 32 and 34 Spruce street, 50.4x100, at $105,000.

John Bunn has sold for P. Devlin the five-story double flat No. 318 West 41st street, 25x88x100, to J. Mattara for $33,000.

H. V. Mead & Co. have sold for Solomon Werner the three-story brick private house No. 319 West 31st street, size 20x50x98.9, to H. Dirkes for $16,400.

Brokers John Bunn and Lewis Weimer have sold the two five-story flats Nos. 249 and 242 West 35th street, 50x88x93.9, for E. M. Harlow to William Engel for $70,500.

L. Froehlich has sold for Maurice V. Freund the two three-story dwellings Nos. 143 and 145 East 47th street, each 16.8x55x67x100, at $45,000.

Messrs. Joseph Levy & Son have sold for Emery N. Downs the four-story brown stone front store and dwelling No. 505 8th avenue, 20x95x100, to Cecelia N. Cohen for $82,500.

Potter & Brother have sold for the estate of Joseph Potter the three-story, high stoop, brick house No. 250 West 43d street, 20x40x100, to Mrs. A. Rockwood for $13,500.

We hear that the property Nos. 65 and 67 West 35th street, adjoining 6th avenue, with church building thereon, has been sold at $60,000.

John Totten has purchased from the executors of F. E. Bean the premises, Nos. 330 West 17th street and 331 West 16th street, 25x184, with shop on 17th street and three-story dwelling on 16th street. The figure is about $27,000.

Ames & Co. have sold for the Brinckley estate the five-story English basement, brown stone residence, No. 42 East 22d street, 20.6x60x98.9 for $30,000.

Emanuel Perls has sold for Ph. Fisher the five-story flat, No. 250 West 26th street, lot 25x98.9, to G. Bercke for $35,000, and No. 425 East 17th street a five-story tenement, lot 25x92, for $16,250, to Heinrich Manuel, of Berlin, Germany.

Henry Waters has purchased from Isaac Hartman the north west corner of Grand and Attorney streets, 25x100, with three-story store and tenement thereon, on private terms for improvement.

Samuel W. Thomas informs us that he has not sold the dwelling No. 47 East 53d street, as reported last week.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

Potter & Bro. have sold to C. H. Bliss the fourteen lots on the east side of West End avenue, between 69th and 70th streets, for $145,000; for C. H. Bliss the elegant four-story Ohio stone front dwelling, No. 46 West 85th street, size 25x80x102.2, to James Kearney for $67,500; for Jno. P. Paulson, the plot 264x102.2, on the north side of 84th street, 100 feet west of 9th avenue, to James Kearney for $125,000; for the Bradley & Currier Co., the four-story brown stone dwelling, size 16.8x52x100, No. 224 West 78th street, for $22,000 to Mr. Clark; and the three-story, high stoop, brown stone house 38 West 84th street, 20x50x100, for E. C. Potter to Mr. Skinner for $19,000.

Frank L. Fisher has sold for Dr. Lozier the following three-story stone front dwellings on West 78th street, 20x55x102.2, for about $25,000 each; No. 187, to E. C. Stedman, the poet-banker; No. 139, to T. C. Easton, Mr. Stedman's brother-in-law; and No 141, to Edw. Dreyfus.

Brudi & Betty have sold for Henry J. McGuckin to Mrs. Margaret McGrath, the three-story and basement dwelling, 16.8x50x100, No. 63 East 120th street for $16,500. The same brokers have also sold for Theodore Smon to Theodore Rothenberg, No. 131 East 93d street, a three-story brick dwelling, 20x50x100 feet, for $10,500.

J. A. R. Dunning has sold for James W. Phyle the four-story, high stoop, brown stone front dwelling, No. 165 West 73d street, 16x67x102 to Miss Edith Bryce at $27,000.

It transpires that $18,000 each was the figure obtained for three lots on the south side of 73d street, 200 feet east of 9th avenue reported sold a few weeks ago at $20,000 each. F. G. Bourne, agent for the Clark estate, is the buyer.

Max Danziger has sold a plot 83.4x102.2 on the north side of 76th street, 116.8 east of 2d avenue, at $24,000 to Wm. Dempsey, for improvement.

Wm. C. Burne has purchased from Max Danziger eight lots on 77th and 78th streets, commencing 150 feet west of 3d avenue, four on each street, for improvement. Mr. Danziger recently bought the lots from Oscar T. Marshall.

Henry C. Tuke has purchased from Max Danziger for immediate improvement No. 236 East 106th street, with two-story frame dwelling on rear of lot. Mr. Danziger has also sold the northwest corner of 75th street and 1st avenue, 25x73, to Mr. Lewy at $29,000.

John M. Gibson reports the sale of the four-story brick flat, 19x47.6x74.1, No. 102 East 109th street, to Isaac Goodstein for $3,000.

The parcel on the southwest corner of West End avenue and 103d street, 100.11x159.10, recently sold by Walter Lawrence for Dr. Marvin S. Butties to Mrs. Elizabeth, wife of John H. Steinmetz, at $80,000, is under the contract of sale to be improved immediately. The purchase price of this parcel is at the highest ratio yet obtained for lots in this locality, the corner bringing $20,000, the inside street lots, $10,000 each, and the inside avenue lots, $12,000 each.

We hear that Squire & Whipple have traded the four-story dwelling, No. 312 West 86th street for Wm. V. Carolan's place at Montclair, N. J.

Griffin B. Disbrow is the broker who negotiated the exchange between James Higgins and Wm. Rhineland of four five-story flats on the northwest corner of 2d avenue and 87th street for eight lots on East 89th and 90th streets.

Brooklyn.

Corwith Bros. have sold the three-story frame double tenement, 27x50x100, No. 555 Lorimer street, for Robert Harrold to James Cameron for $6,700.

J. P. Sloane has sold for Annie Campbell the three-story frame dwelling, with lot 25x100, No. 204 Freeman street, to John Nooney for $4,500, and for Samuel S. Price the three-story and basement brick dwelling, with lot 20x100, No. 115 Java street, to Peter McKeever for $6,900.

Keeler & Greenman have sold for L. E. Cuinet to Wm. Bates the three-story apartment house, No. 733 Lexington avenue, at $6,800.

Out of Town.

Brudi & Betty have sold for Mrs. Margaret McGrath to Henry J. McGuckin three lots with a house and barn thereon, situated at Yorktown Heights, Westchester County, N. Y., for $6,000.

Out Among the Builders.

The Hanover Fire Insurance Company will tear down the buildings at Nos. 34 and 34½ Pine street on May 1st next and will erect on the site a handsome office building. The vice-president of the company, when seen yesterday, said: "We have not thought of an architect yet, and do not know what size our building will be, but we will occupy a large part of it for our own business, renting out the upper offices."

Elizabeth, wife of John H. Steinmetz, is having plans prepared for nine three-story and basement stone front dwellings of different design to be erected on a plot 100.11x159.10 on the southwest corner of West End avenue and 103d street. Five of the new houses will face on the avenue and four on the street. They will be 20x55 each, excepting the corner house, which will be 20x60 feet.

A. B. Ogden & Son will draw the plans for four four-story brick and stone dwellings, 20x75 feet each, to be built on the south side of 94th street, between 5th and Madison avenues, for John H. Gray at a total cost of $100,000. The buildings will have hardwood finish and will be first-class throughout. The same architects have plans for a three-story brick stable, 27x50 feet, to be built in the rear of the southeast corner of 1st avenue and 49th street, for Mrs. Epstein, at a cost of $3,500.

Wm. Dempsey will at once improve a plot, 83.4x102.2, on the north side of 76th street, 116.8 feet east of 2d avenue, by the erection of first-class tenements with fronts of buff brick.

Wm. C. Burne is about to commence work on eight first-class flats which he will erect on 77th and 78th streets, 150 feet west of 3d avenue, four on each street.

Henry Waters will erect a first-class flat with stores on the northwest corner of Grand and Attorney streets, on a lot 25x100. Mr. Waters has not yet selected an architect.

Michael Reed intends to build, for his own account, two five-story tenements on the south side of 71st street, 75.2 west of 3d avenue. One will be 19.10x75, and the other 29.10x90.

Geo. Graff intends building a three-story tenement, 25x50, on the north side of 146th st, 35 feet west of Morris avenue, from drawings by Fred. Graff.

Schneider & Herter are preparing plans for two five-story tenements, 24.6x89.6 each, to be built for Baumann & Capelle at Nos. 179 and 181 Madison street.

J. W. Cole is drawing plans for two five-story brick and stone front tenements, 25x90 each, to be built for Robert Dick on the south side of 56th street, 175 feet east of 10th avenue to cost about $36,000.

M. V. B. Ferdon is preparing sketches for two five story tenements, 24.8x89, to be built on the west side of 9th avenue, 24.9 north of 35th street, for Patrick Collins.

Fredk. Rohrs will build two five-story tenements, 25x74.6 each, on the north side of 136th street, 250 east of 7th avenue, from plans by W. H. C. Hornum.

Williams & Jones intend to build on their own account a five-story 22-foot front tenement at No. 216 East 28th street.

John Totten will improve the lots No. 339 West 17th street and No. 331 West 16th street, by the erection of tenements.

Webster & Conforti will draw plans for five five-story brick and stone single flats, 30x82 feet in size, to be erected on the south side of 118th street, 60 feet east of Madison avenue, by Nicholas Conforti, at a cost of $18,000 each.

J. Averit Webster will re-draw the plans for seven three-story stone front dwellings, 17 and 20x50 feet in size, to be erected on the north side of 92d street, 200 feet east of 10th avenue, by Ferriter & Roselle, at a cost of $12,000 each. These houses were commenced by J. Walker Bates, who abandoned them a short time ago.

Wm. H. Johnston will improve the two lots on the south side of 104th street, 100 feet west of 8th avenue by the erection of two five-story flats.

Out of Town.

BATH BEACH, N. I.—Mrs. A. L. Linton will build a two-story frame dwelling. It will be 30x47 and cost about $6,000. Higgs & Rooke have drawn the plans.

JERSEY CITY HEIGHTS.—G. F. Little will build a two-story and attic double frame dwelling at 152 Webster avenue. It is to be 26.4x52, will have tin roof, and the estimated cost is $3,500. Plans were drawn by A. F. Leicht.

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y.—S. G. Slocum has plans under way for a clubhouse to be built by the Lake George Yacht Club. It will be 40x70, one and one-half stories high, with shingle roof. Cost not estimated.

MAMARONECK, N. Y.—Higgs & Rooke have completed plans for a two-story frame dwelling to be built at Orienta by T. L. Rushmore. It will be 30x36, with shingle finish externally and hard wood finish inside. The cost will be $5,000.

MT. VERNON, N. Y.—Sibell & Miller have competed plans for a two-story frame dwelling. It will be 25x40 with slate roof, and will be located at Chester Hill. Cost, $5,000.

OYSTER BAY, L. I.—D. W. King has drawn plans for The McEwan Co., which intends building six two-story and attic frame cottages. They will be 22x40 each, with shingle finish and roof, costing $3,000 each.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J.—Calvin Pardee, the wealthy coal and iron manufacturer, of Hazelton, Pa., has purchased about 200 acres of ground here, where he intends building factories to manufacture terra cotta, fire brick, etc.. One of the buildings, it is said, will be 60x300, and another 50x150.

ROCKLAND LAKE, N. Y.—The Boston Improvement Co. will build a summer hotel at this place, which will be a three-story frame building in the style of The Renaissance. Its size will be 40x100 as to the main building, and it will have a wing 25x100. The three main corners of the building proper will be extended as towers, which will be capped by turrets, with open spaces for observations. The roof will be of tin. Cost is to be about $12,000. D. W. King is the architect.

SUMMIT, N. J.—F. P. Smith will build a two-story and attic frame and brick dwelling. It is to be 30x46, in old Colonial style, and is to cost about $6,000. D. W. King is the architect.

YONKERS, N. Y.—Jas. Carroll is about to build a four-story brick and stone front flat on New Main street, near Getty square. It will have two stores on the first floor and three suites per floor above. The size will be 40x64x85, and the cost about $25,000. Geo. F. Pelham, of New York, is the architect.

Contractors' Notes.

Bids will be received at the Department of Public Charities and Correction until 9:30 Friday morning, January 10th, for the materials and work required for steam-heating a pavilion on Hart's Island.

Special Notices.

Wilson H. Blackwell, the well-known appraiser, auctioneer and broker, of No. 67 Liberty street, will take his son, Chas. G. Blackwell, as a partner on January 1st. Young Mr. Blackwell is now a member of the Produce Exchange.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

[For Prices see pages v., vii., viii. and ix.]

BRICK.—Making due allowance for the holiday and its influences, it has on the whole been a pretty good week for Common Hards, with possibly a slight gain of tone. A green Christmas indicates a condition of weather so free from frost that work has maintained a reasonably full volume, and the quantity of stock passing into consumption was therefore somewhat above the average for the season, and while the situation was not such as to permit sellers exacting any fuller rates, they have easily enough maintained an advantage through which they could resist all attempts to cut down the line of value. From the up-river district supplies have been rather more plenty than expected one week ago, and together with those coming in from points nearer at hand have made an accumulation quite as full as was required with a little left over for an emergency, had it arisen; yet receivers have managed matters very well and kept the market in fairly good shape, as already noted. There is more or less talk about the general immediate prospects, and the idea seems to be that the chances are a little more in favor of the seller than the buyer, with much depending upon the weather. So long as the river remains open supplies will continue to come forward, but probably to a lessening extent, and as the price is hardly high enough to attract shipments from other localities, the consumption without an unexpected shrinkage, would, it is calculated, keep demand in at least supporting shape and possibly take a slightly stimulating form. However, no one makes much fuss over the market one way or another, and the tendency is to allow results to work out in a natural way. A few fronts are selling at about former rates. Pales have met with good proportionate demand, and the recovery of tone noted last week is sustained.

LATH.—Arrivals have been somewhat irregular, so that there was rarely any important quantity offering, and with buyers still to be found on a moderate search the sales proved prompt enough to be thoroughly satisfactory. In fact it has been simply another week of demand readily balancing supply, yet hardly possessing sufficient anxiety to create competition, and hence receivers lacked a foundation upon which to exact an advance above $2.35 to $2.50 per M, though, of course, they report "expectations" in that line at no distant date.

LIME.—The arrivals have not been quite so plentiful and come to hand in a somewhat irregular manner, giving receivers a fair opportunity to place cargoes, especially as more custom has been available. There is nothing new in regard to prices, for while now and then some mysterious things and winks are given when the subject is bloated there seems to be no proof that regular figures are departed from on cargo lots.

LUMBER.—This is one of the weeks that does not count much in the business record, owing to the holiday element and the wind up of the year. Operations, therefore, have been mainly of a perfunctory sort of character, out of which very little useful information can be obtained and matters remain much the same as at the date of our last. The distribution that has actually been made since the close of the regular season is not of very extensive proportions in the aggregate, yet most dealers have found no outlet at all in accord with expectations, and in exceptional cases a little more, causing a slight attenuation of stocks. An offering of really attractive character from first hand, therefore, would command reasonably prompt attention and realize a price fully equal to anything for some time ruling.

Eastern Spruce is practically without any regular market, owing to the uncertainty in matter of supplies. All the natural chances, however, appear to be in favor of sellers, and the current line of reports has frayed in the same strong form of expression which has frayed and parcel of this market pretty much all the season. Anything but the veriest rubbish would probably now find quick attention and command a good price, while on highly attractive cuts receivers claim the possibilities to be simply immense, in view of the waiting buyers and the poor prospect for supplies. It is claimed that the threat to keep winter cut in narrow channels and carry logs for spring trade is being adhered to fairly. The movement to form a combination among retail dealers in Spruce continues progressive, and ultimate success is hoped for. Wholesale operators affect to feel indifferent toward the project, but are interested enough to desire keeping posted "as to how the thing gets along."

Piling is said to be all right, and while operators do not agree closely on quotations, the majority still appear willing to carry such stock as they have on hand and await the issue of the improving call they anticipate after the turn of the year. It is more expensive to lay down additions now, and not many cargoes expected.

Hemlock can be reached to a fair extent, but there is little or nothing offering in a manner to give buyers hope of obtaining any special favors. Indeed, well seasoned and desirable cuts are practically not offered at all, and when they are wanted, must be directly called for, accompanied by bids right up in line with figures for some time ruling.

White Pine is getting at least the average share of attention, as compared with other kinds of stock, and some of the trade, who a month or two ago were talking a little dubiously, admit an agreeable disappointment thus far. No positive animation has been shown and just at the moment really fresh orders are scanty, but natural outlets are believed to exist, into which a good distribution must be made with the commencement of the new year. Some business in car lots is also calculated upon as among the probabilities, though, except through resident agents, the offerings in that way are small at the moment.

Yellow Pine appears to keep under good management, and whether the demand be great or small a very good tone is preserved. It is said that the accumulations held by dealers at many points in this vicinity have run down with considerable rapidity, and while out of the general accumulation a very fair selection could probably be made, there is evidently room for additions to stock and a disposition to invest in first hand offerings accordingly.

Carolina Pine meets with cheerful reports, even at this quiet period, and there is a very general claim that in due and proper season the wood will be marching right along in line with any improvement that may appear upon other sections of the market. It is asserted that dealers have in many cases distributed so much beyond calculations, that they will want considerable additions to stock at an early date.

Hardwoods of sound and attractive quality are firm all along the line, and anything that is really first class has excellently maintained value. Not many important deals have been made during the interval since our last report, but both dealers and manufacturers act as though they would be in a humor to listen to favorable tenders in fair quantity of any leading description of stock within a few weeks, and at about former rates. It must be first class stock to sell, however, anything else is almost sure to become subject to forced markets and correspondingly easy rates. The promises for an export trade are also considered quite cheerful.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

Though the Christmas holidays are at hand, with isolated exceptions, there has been no winter weather at a time when it is usually expected, in a mild degree, at least. The phenomenal absence of frost or snow throughout December thus far is not peculiar to any portion of the north. Mild temperature has prevailed all over the country. Even in the south, where severe frosts are not looked for until January, our correspondents mention a remarkable prolongation of the autumn. This weather condition is having some effect on the lumber trade, by enabling builders to go ahead with work, and thus continue to call for lumber.

The soft weather begins to excite comment on the log question. All obtainable information is to the effect that skidding has thus far been successfully carried on in the majority of northern pine districts and that the usual number of logs will be ready for hauling on January 1. That nearly settles the matter in favor of an ample supply, for logs on skids are generally got to bank by hook or crook.

But in contemplating the log supply we can no longer base our calculations on white pine alone. A shortage of logs in the Northern woods to the extent of actual scarcity and advance of prices would simply mean that yellow pine would flow in to make up the deficiency. Hereafter that feature of the situation must be taken into account.

In Chicago there is much talk about yards going out of business, or restricting stocks, but as yet only one actual closing out is regarded as a foregone conclusion. Some predict that after January 1 dealers will take advantage of a good winter trade to sell all the stock they can. This, it is assumed, will be the policy of those who intend to wind up business in the spring. Such an urgency to sell, it is held, will tend to keep prices down to the present range. It is asserted that, though Dec. trade this year has been unusually good, there has been no upward tendency of prices. Lumber has sold right along at the figures prevalent in the fall. Though the cry for three months past has been that piece stuff was in meager supply, as compared to previous season's stocks, there has been but little tendency to a stiffening of values. It is acknowledged that small timber and some sizes of slim jims and some lengths of wide joists are short in stock, yet it is hard to put any elasticity in the value of such lumber.

The Timberman, of Chicago, says:

With the exception of last year the stock of lumber now in the city is greater than it has been since 1892, but assortments are badly broken, and in many of the better grades there is a pronounced shortage. Manufacturers on the other side of the lake have been rather sparing in their shipments of good lumber to Chicago during the past season, although they have flooded the market with the lower grades.

Thick clears and selects are in fair supply, and prices are held about up to list. B and C selects, 2-inch, are probably shielded more than the other grades.

In 1-inch finishing stock prices vary. The list fixes them at $28 and $30, but $27 and $19 would more properly represent the figures at which these grades are selling. B selects, in fair widths, can be bought for $36.

Reports differ as to 12-inch stock boards. One dealer says they are in fair supply, but another insists there are practically none in the city. A stock brings $1 more per M than in the fall, and prices on all grades of goods are firm. Ten and 12-inch common boards, all lengths, are reduced about 50 cents per M in the new list, but as sales are always made below the old figures, this does not indicate any lower prices. Ten-inch is considered by some worth more than 12-inch.

A siding strips are placed at $33 on the list, but many dealers are selling at an advance of 50 cents per M on this figure. C flooring strips are reported scarce and quick sale at $23, although some sales are reported at $22.50.

No. 3 boards, all lengths, are listed at $9.50, but many look upon this as a mistake, and claim they have no difficulty in getting $10 for that grade. One firm has sold an average of 10,000 feet a week to city customers at this price.

Common boards, 1½ and 1½-inch are scarce. Have been selling at $13 to $13.50.

Common and cull fencing, first quality, 16 feet, is one of the scarcest things on the market, and the price is firm at $14 to $14.25. Twelve, 14, 18 and 20-foot lengths are worth a little less than 16-foot. No. 2 fencing has been selling at $11 to $11.50, and $12 for 16-foot. No. 3 fencing, all lengths, brings $9 to $9.50.

The stocks of piece stuff are badly broken, and many lengths are scarce; 2x1, 12 feet, are now quoted at $72.50 and $14, and 16-foot at $12; 2x8s are also quoted at $12 for the short lengths. These are the prices asked, but actual sales are made at figures somewhat lower.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman says:

It is rather difficult to feel the pulse of the market at the present time. There is so much doubt and uncertainty in the conditions. The most competent judges were disappointed in the expectations this year. Their predictions were scattered to the four winds, and results directly opposite to those predictions ensued. The weather and the log crop are the two inter-dependent elements of prime importance. The feeling, locally, is that there is no danger of a shortage. Notwithstanding the soft weather the loggers have been able to bank a good many logs, and they are confident of being able to bank all that the mills will require. It is estimated by some that the Minneapolis mill will have a stock of 40,000,000 or 500,000,000 feet. It will require a very radical and sudden change in the weather to enable them to get 50,000,000 feet to the streams, but there is no getting around the fact that the preparations for this winter's operations in both Minnesota and Wisconsin are extraordinarily large. A Minneapolis dealer, who has just been through Wisconsin, says that, with two months' hauling, they will put in more than they ever did before. The same is true of the Minnesota camps. If they get two months of good hauling they will put in logs enough to give Minneapolis the biggest stock she ever had, because of the large amount of last year's cut held over.

CANADA.

The Quebec Chronicle in reviewing the season says:

The lumber and timber trade during the past season, we believe, while fairly successful in some lines, has been very disappointing in others. During the contracting season last winter our shipping merchants found less difficulty in making contracts on the other side, stocks there had materially lessened and buyers were in a better mood for doing business. There was, also, a marked improvement in the shipbuilding and other trades, which had its natural effect on wood goods, and sales were large as to quantity and fair as to price.

Pine deals have been, we are told, the most disappointing feature of the trade. As nearly all the stocks were bought up last winter there has been no fall in price on this side, but it has been impossible for anyone to realize on the market at the prices they gave last year, and the shipments which were made in the fall at the advanced rate of freight must all have lost more or less money. This in the face of the enhanced cost of manufacturing pine deals and the increased demand from the States make it more disappointing that the English markets have not supported the prices given here. To-day the stock in almost all the markets in England is reported to be heavy and the markets are dull. We strongly advise our manufacturers' friends to control the supply next year. Without this is done we fear there will be a material drop in prices before the end of next season. This can now be obviated by mill owners at once realizing their position and curtailing the supply.

A large amount of waney has been sold chiefly from Michigan and the north shore of Lake Superior, all at high prices, and although this wood is being made in larger quantity than last year there is not much probability that any will be made that has not been previously contracted for. It will be in the interest of limit holders not to glut the market by overproduction as by manufacturing more than the trade needs they only hurt themselves without doing anybody else any good; but we would suppose that the sad experience of many past seasons would act as a deterrent in this respect.

ENGLAND.

The London Timber Trades Journal as follows:

American Black Walnut.—For really good logs there continues to be an active inquiry, but as for some time past the arrivals have been for the most part of a very poor character, prices have ruled low in consequence.

Again we hear of further important sales of lumber to the wholesale dealers at the docks, who, it would appear, now hold the bulk of the best stocks.

American Whitewood.—In logs we can hear but little doing, but in the case of lumber some important private contract business has been lately effected; in this also the dock dealers hold extensive stocks.

American Oak.—Except in the case of lumber there appears to be but little doing; in this, however, it would appear there is a considerable business passing. We notice that the prime parcel of quartered inch board, just arrived per Maine, has been sold to one of the wholesale dealers at the docks.

NAILS.—There is not much demand beyond what may be considered the regular lines and buyers will rarely anticipate their wants. Manufacturers, however, manage to keep the market in hand, and rates are generally very well supported, with some talk of an advance after the turn of the year. We quote at $2.15 @ 2.10 per keg for car lots, and $2.15 @ 2.20 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Business is running along about seasonable, and that is all that can be said of it. Holders, however, have no great amount of stock to carry, and being generously prepared for current conditions are in most cases cheerful and indisposed to modify the line of valuation on anything in the way of thoroughly staple goods at least. Linseed Oil has some attention, and rules about steady at 57 @ 58c. for Western, and 60 @ 62c. for City. Spirits Turpentine selling mainly in small lots and the tone rather easy, with fair offerings of stock. We quote 44 @ 45c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH. Holders offer stocks fairly and at about former rates, the market ruling steady, but showing no unusual feature or special volume of demand. We quote Pitch at $1.40 @ 1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.25 @ 2.50, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

CONVEYANCES.

Wherever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee they mean as follows:

1st—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed in which all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows
The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property
then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general
dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller
particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of judgments the names alphabetically arranged, and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week, and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

In regard to the lien filed against our apartment houses, 9th av and 101st st, permit us to say: The ranges for the price of which the lien was filed had no draft and were entirely worthless. We were obliged to take them all out and substitute others in their places. That the ranges were solely at fault is apparent from the fact that the ranges which were substituted work perfectly well. We shall bond this lien and contest the claim.

Price's Patent Fire-Proof Clothes Line Frame.
To Architects and Builders, please call for Price's Improved Frame.The frame is built of iron pipe, supported on angle iron which is built into the walls and braced to the same as per cut. In its construction no screws are put through the roof. Positively no leakage. This is the lightest, the most durable and the cheapest frame made. Recommended by leading Architects, and approved of by Building Department.

LUMBER.

Appended quotations are based almost wholly upon prices obtained for goods from first hands. Yard rates necessarily range much higher owing to the expenses attending sorting out and grading cargo and even car lots, besides which must be added the cost of arriving and carrying until consumers are ready to invest. Terms of sale also prove important factors, and, altogether, it is impossible to give a line of re-quotations thoroughly reliable in character.

pulley, and gives satisfaction wherever it is used. Fixtures made of steel wire, is very simple and easily applied. Prices very low. Samples sent to any architect in the United States, free, on application. Now in use in State House, Hartford; Providence City Hall; Singer Building, Chicago; J. C. Flood's Menlo Park, Cal.; Vancouver and Florence Flats, New York; Borel Building, New York; new State, War and Navy Departments, and Patent Office, Washington, D. C.; Herald Building, Boston, and very many other fine buildings in all parts of the United States. Represented by J. J. HALPIN, No. 83 Chambers Street, New York.

HILL'S PATENT INSIDE SLIDING BLINDS.

These blinds require no hinges, all trimmings are supplied. They do not interfere with curtains or window ornaments, and are so constructed that light and air can be admitted from any part of the window. Being easily and rapidly operated they neither rattle nor get out of order. They economize space by doing away with pockets and the necessity of furring out, and can be removed and replaced instantly without even drawing a screw. They require no special frame as they can be attached with equal facility to any window. For workmanship or style these Blinds are not excelled by any in the market.

Call and see them or send for catalogue. Mention "Record and Guide."

Also Improved English and American "Venetian Blinds"
